MYSTERY CLUBBER KILLS 2 WOMEN

Today

Good Soil, On Coral.
No Private Ocean.
Two Songs of Disaster.
But Our End Is Not Yet?

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

MIAMI, Oct. 12.

PERTILE LAND covers the coral rock that underlies this Florida peninsula. H. A. Marks, statistician for the United States Department of Agriculture, says this year's Florida orange, lemon and grapefruit crops will amount to 23,500,000 boxes. Florida could easily produce ten times as much.

This is good news, because the United States and the outside world, for their health, need all the fruit that the limited citrus lands can possibly produce.

YOU ARE amazed as you wander about this city of Miami, coming from the cold North, to observe that the idea here seems to be to give the people as much as possible, instead of seeing how much you can possibly get out of the people.

For instance, along the ocean front of Miami Beach there is a long and beautiful park, which belongs to the city and all the people in it. And on the magnificent ocean beach the people bathe without paying a cent to anybody, protected by competent life guards.

THERE ARE no grafting concessions of bathhouses and parking spaces, none of the usual northern trimmings. Men, women and children put on their bathing suits at home, walk or drive to the beach, swim, lie on the sand in the warm sunshine until they are dry and go home again.

Miami treats the ocean as Chicago treats its public parks, as though it were meant for the people's convenience and comfort.

And on Miami Beach, by the way, as long as you are decently covered, the police do not set themselves up as dressmakers and tell you what kind of bathing suit you must wear.

WILLIAM S. VARE, leader of the Republican organization that rules Philadelphia, says a Democratic victory in November would "mean the end of the protective tariff and spell disaster to the industrial state of Pennsylvania."

Some Democrats, looking at stock market quotations and industrial payrolls, will reply that they already "spell disaster" for Pennsylvania.

MR. VARE is mild in his predictions of woe. Russia's government, expelling from its central committee, Zineovieff, Kameneff and others, predicts all sorts of dire things for us in America, and for others in Europe, all classed as "capitalists."

Russia sees "the end of the capitalist stabilization period," and now waits for "the earth's most violent class struggles culminating in wars and revolution."

THE MARXIAN wish is father to the Soviet thought.

Our capitalist industrial system, replacing military feudalism, is only beginning. It will end, in time, as military feudalism ended and the slave system and all the other systems, to be replaced by something better.

But the present little capitalistic depression spasm is merely a slight chill. It will not last.

You cannot shake so great a system to the earth in so short a time.

IF RUSSIA has sympathy to spare she should turn it toward China. In that unhappy country, with 250,000 soldiers fighting each other in one single province, civil war, brigandage and hunger are almost everywhere among the 400,000,000 Chinese.

The so-called "Christian" Gen. Feng Yu-Hsiang, one of the most energetic killers, has come out of retirement to create more trouble.

RIVAL GENERALS fight each other, almost literally on the backs of the miserable coolies, taking or destroying their crops, compelling them to join in the game of murder.

If Japan can carry out her plan and suppress atrocities such as these, in the state of Manchuria, it is difficult to understand why the League of Nations, and especially this country, should object.

THE UNITED STATES Supreme Court yesterday listened while lawyers on both sides talked about a murder trial at Scottsboro, Ala., that sentenced seven Negroes to death for attacking two white girls.

Lawyers for the Negroes had questioned the moral character of the white women, but this did not affect the case in Alabama.

Gen. Thomas E. Knight, attorney general of Alabama, declares that the men were given a fair trial and convicted in accordance with law.

The courtroom was crowded while the learned justices listened to the arguments of both sides. The decision will be important to many.

FARMERS NEAR St. Paul, getting from one to five dollars a ton for "prairie hay," are advised by Dr. Gortner, of the University of Minnesota, to use the hay for fuel, in place of coal that costs from ten to seventeen dollars a ton.

This recalls the old days when shelled corn was selling for ten cents a bushel and farmers burned it in their stoves.

QUIZ SUITOR OF WIDOW IN ATTACK ON FOUR

Injured Boy's Story Laying Tragedy to Mother Scouted

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., Oct. 12.—(AP.)—Beaten to death with a club or piece of iron, the bodies of Mrs. Nellie Tressler, 28, and her mother, Mrs. Amanda Harden, 62, were found at the Tressler home today. Both were widows.

Two Tressler children, Sadie, 11, and Billy, 9, were slugged into unconsciousness. They were taken to Connellsville State Hospital, where Sadie may die.

Billy revived several hours after he was found and told police:

"My mamma did it. She hit Sadie first and then me. She hit us with a piece of iron."

STORY DISCREDITED

However, police discredited the boy's statement. Mrs. Tressler's head was beaten out of shape and investigators said it would have been impossible for her to have inflicted the injuries upon herself.

The younger woman's body, clad only in underclothing, was found in the back yard.

Mrs. Harden was dead on a bed. Beside her was Billy, deep gashes in his head.

Sadie was found unconscious in the living room. Police said she apparently had been felled while trying to escape from the assassin.

The house was in disorder and the walls and floor were spattered with blood. Police said a terrific struggled apparently had been waged.

SEEK DEATH WEAPON

Detectives failed to find the death weapon.

The family was destitute and the police said Mrs. Tressler might have been driven to murder and suicide by poverty. They were inclined to discard that theory, however, because they cannot conceive of Mrs. Tressler having inflicted such severe injuries upon herself.

Also they uncovered evidence indicating that Mrs. Tressler's body had been dragged across two rooms and thrown out of a kitchen window into the rear yard. Then, they said, it had been dragged several feet.

The double killing was discovered by a neighbor boy, Orlando Molinaro, 10. He found Mrs. Tressler's body while going to a coal shed. Police were called and had to break into the house as all doors were locked.

SUITOR QUESTIONED

Police this afternoon apprehended Philip Rendine, 32, and took him to the police station for questioning. They identified him as Mrs. Tressler's suitor.

Rendine told investigators he had been at the Tressler home last night until shortly after midnight. Before he left, he said, Mrs. Harden and the two children retired, but Mrs. Harden was still awake. He was held for further questioning.

BAKER TRIBUTE PAID AT W.-J.

Students of Washington and Jefferson College, Washington, Pa., today held memorial services for their former president, Simon Strousse Baker, who killed himself Monday, a year and a half after his resignation.

Baker's successor, Dr. R. C. Hutchison, speaking in the chapel, lauded the memory of the former president. Dr. Baker had resigned in May, 1931, two months after the students went on strike, demanding his resignation.

Dr. Baker was found yesterday morning on a farm where he had shot himself, three miles from the campus he trod as president and undergraduate.

Funeral services will be held at 2:30 p. m. tomorrow at the First Presbyterian Church, Washington. The body will lie in state for an hour before the services. Dr. Robert MacGowan, pastor of the Bellefield Presbyterian Church, will be in charge.

Mt. Lebanon Commissioner Found Guilty

L. C. CLARK

Clark Held to Blame For Fight Over Traffic Jam

L. C. Clark, Commissioner of Mt. Lebanon Township, was convicted on three charges of assault and battery by a jury in Criminal Court today.

The same jury acquitted his opponents in a series of cross suits. Mr. and Mrs. Earl Gangewere, the former's father, E. J. Gangewere, and A. C. Feagan, of Mt. Lebanon and Dormont.

Visiting Judge William T. Darr announced that he would sentence Clark tomorrow.

There was one consolation for Clark. The jury acquitted him of driving while intoxicated. But even here the costs were divided.

The suits grew out of a traffic tangle dispute last July 4, following a community celebration in Mt. Lebanon.

The jury returned seven verdicts. The three charges on which Clark was convicted were brought by Mr. and Mrs. Gangewere and Feagan.

The three Gangeweres and Feagan, who in turn were charged with aggravated assault and battery, were not only acquitted, but Clark was ordered to pay the costs.

Separate charges of assault and battery, against Feagan and Mrs. Gangewere by Eva McClain, of Beverly Road, also brought acquittal verdicts. And Eva McClain was ordered to pay the costs.

Chicago Man, 101, Registers for Poll

Wife of Justice Drew Helps Convict Killer

The murder jury of which Mrs. Mary Snyder Drew, wife of Supreme Court Justice James B. Drew, society matron and heiress to the William Penn Snyder millions, was a member, today brought in a voluntary manslaughter verdict, after the jury had been locked up two nights.

The jury, trying Clinton Harper, Negro, of Boston, Pa., charged with the killing of Alfred Hertzog, June 22, in a fight over a woman, retired at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon and presented its finding when court opened today.

After the jury was discharged with the thanks of the court, Mrs. Drew said:

"I'd rather not serve on a jury, but somebody has to, so what can you do? It is the duty of a citizen. Last night was my second night in jail."

Then she laughed. Continuing, she said:

"Quarters over there are very clean and comfortable. The food was good. We reached a decision last night before we went to bed."

Replying to a question concerning being treated as an equal by male jurors, she replied:

"Oh, my yes. They were very nice company, they gave us every consideration."

Mrs. Drew said she was going home to rest today and return for jury service tomorrow.

BRITISH RUSH TROOPS TO BELFAST

Seek to Crush Fatal Riots by Jobless; Snipers Hunted

BELFAST, Northern Ireland, Oct. 12.—(AP.)—British army troops were rushed to Belfast today after rioting, similar to that which resulted in one death and more than 30 serious injuries yesterday, broke out again shortly before noon.

Quiet was restored by the police by midnight last night after a stern quasi-military rule was clamped down on the city. The quiet continued throughout the early morning and forenoon until about 11 a. m., when shooting broke out again in the Falls area west of the city.

MOB WRECKS BUS

A bus was wrecked by the mob and every available armored car was brought into use by the police.

The milling crowds retreated quickly before the charge of armored cars manned by police, however, and quiet was restored again.

A detachment of Iniskillent Fusiliers was brought in from the barracks at Holywood and it was announced that the King's Royal Rifles were to arrive Friday.

WHOLESALE ARRESTS

Wholesale arrests were made during the morning. In one street alone police gathered in 39 persons. It was understood plainclothes constables had mingled with the mob during the riots, noted who the participants were and bided their time.

Where trenches had been dug in the streets the occupants of nearby houses were ordered to fill them in, but police eventually did it.

A conference between the Lord Mayor and representatives of the workers began in the town hall at noon in the hope of finding some satisfactory basis for outdoor relief benefits.

Although constant sniping on the police continued in the Falls Road district through the night, the police enforced the curfew law strictly after 11 o'clock. A cordon of police was drawn around the entire city, through which no one was allowed to pass until daybreak today.

MacDonald Works On 66th Birthday

LONDON, Oct. 12.—(AP.)—Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald celebrated his sixty-sixth birthday at work today at No. 10 Downing street. He planned one short break this afternoon, however, when the members of his family arranged to participate in a birthday tea party.

SUIT ON VOTE MACHINES SCORED

Devices No Guarantee Of Honest Tally, Judge Says

Coupled with criticism of the method of procedure in a taxpayers' suit seeking to restrain payment of $400,000 on vote machines purchased by the county from the Poole Engineering and Machine Company, a verbal opinion that such machines "do not effectuate what the people thought they would — honest elections" was expressed from the bench in the Pennsylvania Supreme Court today.

The utterance was that of Justice William I. Schaffer. He said:

"I can see how the whole voting machine proposition is wrong. They do not effectuate what the people thought they would—honest elections."

ARGUMENTS ON APPEAL

The court was hearing arguments on the appeal of Ada B. Bassett and other taxpayers in their suit seeking to restrain the old Board of County Commissioners from making payment on the balance due on the 1,100 machines the county purchased.

Several of the justices took the plaintiffs to task for not pressing a mandamus action won by the Poole Company. The company collected the amount due on the machine when the county did not post bond for an appeal from the decision in the mandamus suit.

RAPS PROCEDURE

Addressing C. F. C. Arensberg, attorney for the appellants, Justice John W. Kephart said:

"Why did you not follow the mandamus proceeding? You put yourself in a position where we cannot help you even if we wanted to help you. The very groundwork of your case was swept away by the payment of the money under the mandamus proceedings."

Similarly, Justice Alexander Simpson said:

"Your court (Allegheny County Common Pleas) has judicially determined the machines must be paid for, and I do not see why that does not completely end the whole thing."

GUN GIRL, THUG DUEL POLICE

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—(INS.)—A blonde gun girl and her boy friend who attempted to hold up a Crawford clothing store during the noon hour rush today, were captured after thrilling a huge crowd by a desperate pistol battle with a policeman.

The man fell with two bullets in his back. He is near death in Roosevelt Hospital. Traffic Policeman Edward Montague, who shot it out with the bandit, was wounded in the right hand, but shifted his gun to the left hand and kept up the battle.

The girl, weeping hysterically, was lifted from the body of her gunman sweetheart, whom she had stopped to embrace after every avenue of escape had been closed to her.

She described herself as Louise Barranto, 22. Her wounded accomplice, she said, is Joseph Gaff, 27, of Trenton, N. J.

HOW CONVICT WILLIE MITCHELL ESCAPED COUNTY JAIL

How Willie Mitchell, Negro short-termer also held for U. S. authorities and as a southern jail-breaker, today leaped into Diamond street to freedom after crossing the jail yard, hurrying through the warden's entrance. This is a Sun-Telegraph picture-diagram.

Dashes Into Kitchen, Leaps to Freedom Through Window

Willie Mitchell, 24, short term Negro prisoner who fled from a chain gang in Winston-Salem, N. C., where he had a year to serve, today escaped from the Allegheny County Jail.

Using the warden's residence, the same avenue which "Ed" and "Jack" Biddle, bandit murderers, used 30 years ago when they fled with Kate Soffel, wife of the jail warden at that time, Mitchell was free, while a federal detainer was waiting for him at the jail, and another detainer was lodged by the local probation officers.

For four days Mitchell was one of a gang of six painting the bars of the jail on the Diamond street side. Today, on a plea of more paint, he descended from his lofty perch to the jail yard.

Then he dashed through a door leading into the basement of the warden's residence, sped up the steps to the warden's kitchen, opened a window, lifted a screen, and dropped to freedom in Diamond street. Warden John McNeil was in the kitchen at the time.

County Commissioner Charles C. McGovern was one of three Pittsburgh detectives who battled with the Biddle boys on a Butler County road where they fled with Mrs. Soffel. Both the Biddle boys died of wounds and Mrs. Soffel, also wounded, recovered and served a term for aiding in their escape.

Death Takes Wife Of Ex-Senator Reed

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Oct. 12.—(INS.)—Mrs. James A. Reed, wife of former Senator James A. Reed, of Missouri, died today in a local hospital as a result of septic sore throat, which developed into pneumonia.

Mrs. Reed had been ill but a short time and went to the hospital yesterday.

PASSENGER WALKS INTO BLADES

Victim Confused After Craft Lands at County Airport

An unidentified man, passenger on a transport plane that arrived at the County Airport from Newark, N. J., today was killed when he walked into the propeller of the ship.

The accident was witnessed by seven others also passengers.

Field attaches said the man probably was confused after leaving the plane and walked straight into the whirring blade.

The pilot of the plane, owned by the Transcontinental and Western Airways, and others yelled to the man as he started toward the front of the ship, head bent against the wind, but he failed to hear their warnings.

Police and officials at the field had to force scores of persons away from the plane as they hurried across the runway, after the passengers cried out as the whirring blades hacked the man.

TWA officials said they believed the man to be Ted Howe. They had not learned his address and could not say whether he was a Pittsburgher.

COOLIDGE TALK CHEERS G. O. P.

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN
International News Service.

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—Calvin Coolidge's Madison Square Garden speech, in which he urged the re-election of President Hoover, was praised today by Republicans and deprecated by Democrats. The address had the effect of whipping up interest in the campaign in the East.

Further impetus will be given to the campaign tomorrow when one of the Democratic party's biggest guns—Alfred E. Smith—will make a political speech at the Hotel Commodore.

Telegrams poured into the eastern headquarters of the Republican National Committee today commenting favorably on Mr. Coolidge's speech last night.

PRAISED BY HEBERT

Senator Felix Hebert, of Rhode Island, declared:

"There has been so much quackery in this campaign that it needed a former President to bring us to our senses.

Poll Results Run True To 1928 Figures

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12.—It is almost uncanny the way returns in the nationwide presidential poll of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph in co-operation with all the other Hearst morning, evening and Sunday papers in the United States are running true to form as compared with the 1928 election figures.

Four years ago President Hoover drew 59 per cent of the 36,447,174 Hoover-Smith ballots cast by the country's electorate, with 41 per cent going to Gov. Smith.

Of the 412,612 Hoover-Roosevelt ballots thus far tabulated in the Hearst newspapers' poll, 60 per cent indicated that they voted for the Republican candidate in 1928.

Thirty-four per cent stated they voted Democratic. The other six per cent failed to state how they voted. Inasmuch as nearly three-fourths of these non-committals are supporting Gov. Roosevelt this time, the presumption is that they are in at least that proportion former Smith backers.

As the poll ballots divide, Presi-

ROOSEVELT WILL MAKE MAJOR SPEECH IN PITTSBURGH

SENATOR WALSH REVEALS PLANS OF NOMINEE

Davis Attacked at Rally Attended by Rival Candidate

By MARK SHIELDS

Republican leadership in the nation has been condemned by the people and will be repudiated through the election of the Democratic candidate, Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, Senator David I. Walsh, of Massachusetts, told an audience at North Side Carnegie Hall last night. It was the largest crowd ever to attend a Democratic meeting on the North Side, and an overflow crowd on Ohio street heard the speakers through amplifiers.

During the meeting Democratic County Chairman David L. Lawrence announced Roosevelt would speak in Pittsburgh next Wednesday night at a place yet to be selected. Forbes Field and Pitt Stadium are under consideration, local leaders expecting Democratic delegations from adjoining counties.

ROOSEVELT VISIT

Arriving here at 9 o'clock in the morning at the P. & L. E. station, Roosevelt will go by automobile to Wheeling for a noon speech, returning to Pittsburgh in the evening. The speech is scheduled as one of his major addresses of the campaign, designed to appeal to Republicans in Pennsylvania dissatisfied with present conditions.

At last night's meeting Walsh and Lawrence H. Rupp, Democratic candidate for the United States Senate, condemned the policies of the Hoover administration, and charged the President had ignored the signs portending the advent of depression.

ATTACK ON DAVIS

Though Walsh and Rupp were the big guns of the oratorical battery, Attorney James L. O'Toole, Jr., chairman of the Democratic meetings and speakers' committee of Allegheny County, captured the meeting when he said:

"Jim Davis, Mr. Rupp's opponent, is the only man in history who is known to have milked the Moose.

"In the mistrial of Mr. Davis' case in New York on charges of having profited from alleged lotteries, we cannot charge the court with an error, but we must credit one of the jurors with an assist. Mr. Davis yet must explain who got the money, where and how much. He must explain whether the ethics with which he clothed his fraternal affairs will be carried into the United States Senate."

Rupp himself ignored Davis, as did Walsh, except for a comment that should O'Toole tour the state on behalf of Rupp, Davis would be defeated.

AL SMITH PRAISED

Rupp assailed the President for the ejection of the bonus army from Washington at the point of the bayonet, and declared such an incident could not have occurred had Roosevelt been President.

Walsh centered all of his attack on the national administration, including the name of Ambassador A. W. Mellon in a jibing couplet. He said:

"In the present campaign our Republican President is seeking continuance in office and the Republican party is seeking a new grant of power on the basis of the administration's record during the past four years. It is on that record that the party must stand or fall. In my judgment the American people have already reached their verdict.

"Now the President and his advisers are claiming that the lunge downward was an act of God, but that the climb up again, present and prospective, is a Republican achievement."

Both speakers pledged themselves to repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment and modification of the Volstead act, and charged the Republican party was vague on these subjects.

Twing Brooks, Democratic candidate for Congress from the Thirtieth District, promised that if elected he would seek reduction in governmental costs.

Edward C. Higbee, of Fayette County, candidate for the Supreme Court, also spoke. County Chairman Lawrence opened the meeting and introduced O'Toole.

half of the Roosevelt-Garner ticket, deprecated the effect of the Coolidge address. He said:

"He (Mr. Coolidge) has an inferiority complex for his party already."

Senator Long, widely known as "the Kingfish," pointed out that Mr. Coolidge referred to the "recent" depression. He asked:

"I wonder how many of the millions out of work believe it to be 'recent?'"

James A. Farley, chairman of the Democratic National Committee, thought it was significant that Mr. Coolidge did not discuss prohibition.

FARLEY COMMENT

Asked what he thought of the Coolidge speech, Farley said:

"It is another attempt to raise class distinction, something they have been supposedly fighting against.

"I think it was rather significant that he talked about everything under the sun but prohibition, the one thing the people of the nation are very much interested in."

It was Mr. Coolidge's first political speech since he left the White House in March, 1929, and that gave it special significance. He had the nation as an audience, the address being broadcast over a coast-to-coast radio hook-up.

Mr. Coolidge, in advocating the re-election of President Hoover, warned against the country changing Presidents at this time of economic stress. He declared the decline in trade has ceased and confidence has begun to return. He asserted:

"At the present time the country knows that its worst troubles are probably past and economic recovery is beginning."

Mr. Coolidge reiterated his support of President Hoover and reasserted his faith in the Republican party. He disputed the charge that Mr. Hoover lacked leadership by referring to "what appears to be offered in its place," and he could find but little offered.

Mr. Coolidge insisted that the national government has "adopted one measure after another to support and encourage business and agriculture." The present economic distress, he said, is world-wide. If no remedy has been found anywhere, the inference is practically certain, he contended, that "the present economic condition was brought about by forces no government could foresee and prevent."

FIGHT EPIDEMIC IN ORPHANAGE

XENIA, O., Oct. 12.—(INS.)—With 117 children ill from a strange malady, 12 nurses and a staff of physicians exercised every possible medical precaution at the Ohio Soldiers' and Sailors' Orphans' Home today to prevent the epidemic from having serious results.

None of the orphans stricken was in a critical condition. The illness, which swept through the orphanage Sunday and Monday, may have been caused by food poisoning.

Although 600 other children and 200 employes were not affected, all those who were taken ill were found to be suffering in the same way.

An immediate analysis was made of the food, water and milk supply, but no clue to the cause of the outbreak could be found. Dr. A. C. Messenger, resident physician at the home, declared that candy or fruit brought into the home by visitors may have been responsible.

G.O.P. WORRIED, REED SEES VARE

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12.—(INS.)—Republican uneasiness over Pennsylvania, polls of which have indicated an enormous Roosevelt vote this year, was reflected today in the dispatch of Senator David A. Reed to Philadelphia for a conference with William S. Vare, the Philadelphia leader, over party prospects.

Senator Reed went to confer with Vare after several conferences with President Hoover at the White House this week.

Four years ago, the Vare organization in Philadelphia rolled up 144,000 majority for the Hoover ticket over Al Smith, but since that time Vare has been denied his seat in the Senate, and relations with the administration have been reputed none too cordial.

Bohlen Sees Repeal Aided by Roosevelt

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 12.—(INS.)—Prof. Francis H. Bohlen, Liberal Republican and member of the faculty of the University of Pennsylvania law school, intends to support Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt for the presidency.

Prof. Bohlen came out today with a declaration that repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment will come more speedily through the Democratic program than through a Republican victory. Therefore he will support Roosevelt.

SMITH TO MAKE BOSTON SPEECH

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—(INS.)—Former Gov. Alfred E. Smith accepted an invitation from Gov. Joseph B. Ely, of Massachusetts, to speak in Boston October 27 in support of the Roosevelt-Garner ticket, Democratic national headquarters revealed today.

With an address by Smith scheduled already for tomorrow at a luncheon here to the Democratic gubernatorial candidate, Lieut. Gov. Herbert H. Lehman, Smith was expected to take an increasingly active role in the current campaign from now on.

Before his visit to Boston, he probably will make addresses in New Jersey, Connecticut and other eastern states.

SEIZE INSULL PASSPORT, U.S. ORDERS

Government's Move May Isolate Him In Greece

WASHINGTON Oct. 12.—(AP.)—The State Department has instructed the American legation in Athens to take up the passport of Samuel Insull, Sr.

The department this afternoon had not received word whether Insull was willing to surrender the document, however.

Without a passport, it would be impossible for him to enter any other country.

Consequently, if he surrenders the document, State Department officials believe he will be isolated in Greece.

SHIELD FURTHER STEPS

Officials refused to discuss what further step will be taken in case Insull refuses to yield his passport.

Without a passport, Insull would be in Greece without proper papers and it would be possible for Greek officials to deport him on that ground if they saw fit.

In case Insull were deported by Greece, he would probably be sent back to Italy, which is the country from which he arrived. Once Insull arrived in Italy it would be a simple matter for the United States to effect his extradition.

INSULL RELEASED

ATHENS, Oct. 12.—(AP.)—Samuel Insull, entirely free following his brief detention by the police, awoke today in fine spirits at the Petit Palais, a leading hotel of Athens, and said he planned to stay here for some time enjoying the glory that was Greece.

Meanwhile, officials at the American legation said the necessary warrant was on the way to secure his detention again and that as soon as it arrived a fight would begin in the courts to take the erstwhile power magnate back to the United States to face an indictment for embezzlement in connection with the collapse of his utilities empire.

Despite this prospect, after an automobile ride last night with a pale moon casting pleasant ghostly shadows across the ancient Acropolis, he said he was very much pleased with Greece.

When he returned to the hotel, which formerly was the residence of Prince Nicholas, he said it was no wonder everybody was nice here, living in a country with such a wonderful sky.

He added that his health was good, the climate suited him exactly, and he intended to stay here "for the present," visiting all the places renowned in ancient Greek history.

PINCHOT SNUBS P.S.C. PROBE

Gov. Pinchot has indicated he cares little about the Senate committee investigation of public utilities. Inability to arrange an appointment between the Governor and the Senate committee was made known today in a telegram from the Governor's secretary to Oliver K. Eaton, committee counsel.

Eaton had sought a conference with the Governor to discuss the utilities probe. He received the following telegram from Duncan C. McCallum, the Governor's secretary:

Mother Plays Organ At Funeral of Son

CHEYENNE, Wyo., Oct. 12.—(AP.)—As funeral rites were performed for 15-year-old Joseph Cahill yesterday, Mrs. T. Joe Cahill, mother of the youth, played the requiem just as she had done for hundreds of others for many years. She is the cathedral organist.

Girl Will Return to Thiel After Rest Mother Says

Katherine Wilharm, 17, Thiel College freshman who was found bound and gagged in a trunk in her room at the college dormitory, was resting in her home in Homestead today.

The girl's parents took her home as Police Chief H. B. Barber, of Greenville, began an investigation of her story that she was trussed up by a robber she surprised in her room. She will not return to school until next week.

TERRIBLY FLUSTERED

When first questioned, the girl's mother denied Miss Wilharm was at home, but later admitted having taken the girl out of school. Mrs. Wilharm said:

"Katherine is terribly flustered from her experience, but otherwise she is all right. She will stay here for the rest of the week and will go back to school next week."

Katherine, in recounting her experience, told the same story she related to school officials, a recital that caused officials to say the whole thing was an enigma to them.

Chief Barber, explaining his perplexity, pointed out that the dormitory is directly across from the main buildings; that at the time the girl said she was crammed into the trunk two students were on the second floor, and the dormitory head was on the first floor. Miss Wilharm's room is on the third floor.

TELLS OF INTRUDER

Miss Wilharm said that just as she was entering her room, a tall, slim masked man said to her:

"If you yell, I'll shoot you."

The masked stranger, she said, then bound and gagged her and put her into the trunk. Partly conscious, she said she had hazy visions of him as he moved about the room.

Classmates and a neighbor who heard her muffled calls released her. Nothing was taken from the room and when she had been released, and the man had disappeared.

By CLARENCE E. GRUNDISH

Pittsburgh newspaperman, who was a member of Father Cox's Jobless party campaign caravan to the Pacific Coast and return.

Father James R. Cox's active fight for the presidency of the United States is over.

Over a cup of coffee in the kitchen of Old St. Patrick's parish house he makes known his decision. He says:

"Tell the people the truth. I haven't the funds to carry on."

There is a pause. His voice is quieter than before, as he continues:

"Besides, it's a strain on my health. My physicians insist I'm in for a breakdown."

TOUCH OF SADNESS

A touch of sadness comes. He says:

"It seems I'm not as strong physically as I had thought."

Father Cox's decision to close his campaign arrives with suddenness—at a time when his headquarters staff is busy completing plans for an extended speech-making tour in Pennsylvania.

Now and then some of his workers come into the kitchen. He waves them aside with a smile. He says:

"Everything will be all right."

He turns to the interviewer and explains:

"Don't get the wrong idea. I'm still in the race. Only it has come to me that the people of Pennsylvania know what I stand for. Those who will support me will do so without any last-minute effort on my part.

"And I expect a good showing in my home state. My many friends will stand by me as they always have done."

ADDITIONAL BURDENS

The priest discloses other factors also influenced his decision. The nearness of winter has brought many additional burdens to his relief work. And, with the approach of the Christmas season, his church duties have become heavier.

The candidate is speaking again:

"And there's another thing. Many persons who are willing to contribute to my campaign fund are those who can ill afford to do so."

He talks of the need of a third party:

"Unless such a party, founded on American principles, is a success, the communistic elements will recruit millions to their ranks and will speak, not with ballots, but with bayonets.

"I have shown the way on my own initiative, and the reception accorded me throughout the country proves there is a place for a fighting third party."

He is speaking slowly and thoughtfully:

"No campaigners ever went through the hardships that we did on our campaign from East to West and back again.

"Let time judge what our political pioneering has accomplished."

Now he is silent. An empty cup is in his hands.

And as he sits there, a man in priestly garb, an observer knows he is face to face with more than a presidential candidate.

CONFIRM RENNE AS CANDIDATE

Political opponents of Dr. William A. Renne, nominee for the Legislature from the Sixth District, today failed in their efforts to remove his candidacy by having his name lifted from the registration books.

The Registration Commission refused the petition which asked for such action.

The petitioners contended that Dr. Renne's voting address—1902 Carson street—was not his home, but his office, and that he lived with his family in Stewart street, Twenty-ninth Ward, which is out of the legislative district.

Fight for Large Estate Of 'Tommy' Malie Looms

CHICAGO, Oct. 12.—(AP.)—The Probate Court has refused to admit the will of Thomas Malie, armless song writer and former Pittsburgher, who died supposedly penniless in the county hospital last July 31, but is now believed to have a potential estate of $100,000.

Probate was refused the will yesterday when Judge Oscar S. Caplan noted that it was witnessed by the wife of Willard Herring, Malie's friend whom he had named sole heir in the testament.

Since his death it has been estimated that an estate worth $100,000 will be uncovered, partly from future royalties from his songs—among them "Looking at the World Through Rose Colored Glasses" and "Jealous."

An attorney also complicated the case by declaring he represented several unnamed heirs, non-residents. He promised to file proof of heirship shortly.

Borah Cites Barriers To World Recovery

BURLEY, Idaho, Oct. 12.—(INS.)—A four-point program of adjustment of post World War problems had been outlined here today by Senator William E. Borah, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. Speaking at a meeting sponsored by a local club, he declared:

"First—World markets have been destroyed and the great problem is how to restore them. Until we do so we cannot hope for a rise in commodity prices.

"Second—The monetary systems of the world have been broken up and demoralized and the problem is how to restore them, and how to adapt them to present conditions. Until we do so we cannot hope for that confidence which brings prosperity to business.

"Third—The last 25 years have witnessed such increase of waste and extravagance in government that taxes are now literally destructive. To own property is to invite ruin. The expenditure of public money is approaching national crime.

"Fourth—By reason of adverse economic forces and the change in money values debts have piled up, beginning with the farm and ending with the government, until men are no longer working with a view to build and develop, but to pay, as it were for a dead horse.

FIGHT TO SAVE CAMP GUARDS PUSHED

Jury Told Sweatbox Prisoner Ended His Own Life

By SAM MELSON
International News Service.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Oct. 12. — Twenty-two-year-old convict Arthur Maillefert, alleged "sweatbox" torture-murder victim, twice threatened to take his own life the day his naked, stock-racked body was taken, lifeless from strangulation, from its chain gibbet, a convict witness testified today.

Herbert C. (Happy) Romines, alias Stingaree, took the stand as a witness in the defense of George W. Courson and Solomon Higginbotham, former chain gang officers, who are on trial for murder in the "sweatbox" death, and disclosed the alleged suicide threats.

CHARGES SUICIDE

It was the second time that a convict witness had given support to the defense contention, keystone in the structure by which it hopes to free the defendants, that the New Jersey youth, balked in repeated escape attempts, deliberately ended his life to avoid serving a nine-year robbery sentence.

Schneider was one of several convicts named by Bob Blake, head trusty at the Sunbeam Road Camp, a state witness, as having agreed to "frame" a suicide story to protect Capt. Courson.

Questioned by Defense Attorney C. A. Avriett, Romines said Maillefert drew his hand across his throat with a slashing motion as he stood in the sweatbox, neck trussed in the noose of a seven-foot trace chain, his legs and feet nailed to the floor in heavy wood stocks.

The witness quoted Maillefert as remarking to Courson:

"'Kill me, if you don't Ill kill myself.'"

PARADE OF CONVICTS

Romines also asserted there was about three inches slack in the chain loop around Maillefert's neck and "13 inches slack overhead."

A parade of convicts testifying for the state had declared the chain was padlocked tightly about the victim's neck and had less than three inches slack overhead.

Higginbotham, they said, went into the sweatbox and tightened the loops when he learned Maillefert was still able to swallow water.

Claude Haymond, alias Banjo, followed Romines to the stand, testifying that Courson put the chain about Maillefert's neck and that Lize Simmons, a trusty, locked it.

Dr. J. E. Taylor, Volusia County physician, testified to treating Maillefert October 31, a year ago, for bichloride of mercury poisoning, taken in the Deland, Fla., jail, allegedly in a suicide attempt.

2 GIRLS' SUICIDE PACT FOILED

ALBANY, N. Y., Oct. 12.—(AP.)—The odor of gas emanating from the rooming-house quarters of two sisters today frustrated the second attempt of Marjorie and Suzanna Koetz to end their lives because they had been unable to find work as nurses. They said they came here from Altoona, Pa., two weeks ago.

Thwarted by the landlady, who smelled the gas and summoned help, the two women—Marjorie is 27 and her sister two years younger—were taken to a mental-observation ward after recovering from the slight effect of the fumes.

They said they had attempted suicide once before, in New York, and added:

"We came in an ambulance that time. Well, it hasn't worked a second time but we'll try again. We have a better way now. Our room is filled with morphine."

They were married in St. Cyprian Roman Catholic Church, East Stockton avenue, while crowds gathered in the church and on the outside, necessitating the presence of two patrolmen to direct traffic.

The wedding party left the bride's home, 822 Progress street, in automobiles and went to the church, returning to the home after the ceremony for a wedding breakfast, at which there were about 50 guests. A big reception in National Hall, 822 North Canal street, followed.

Miss Samoraj is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Samoraj. She is an accomplished singer, having studied at the Chicago Musical Institute, and has sung in radio broadcasts from stations here and in Chicago.

A library book issued to a North Side woman, found at the scene of the alleged attack, at first led police to believe she had been the victim.

Mrs. Eberhart had been carrying the book, which belonged to a friend.

ADVISES WOMEN ENTER POLITICS

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 12.—(AP.)—Twentieth century politics, members of the State Federation of Pennsylvania Women are advised, should occupy their attention as much as "nineteenth century poetry and Italian art."

Speaking at the Federation convention, Mrs. Mary T. Denman, State Representative from Westmoreland County, declared last night that legislation touches the "lives and pocketbooks" of women. She added:

"I would urge all of you to watch closely the work of the General Assembly, for I believe that the 1933 session of that body will be one of the most important that has ever taken place."

Delegates were urged by George P. Aarons, secretary of the motion picture owners of Eastern Pennsylvania, Southern New Jersey and Delaware, to work for the preservation of the cinema through "elimination of the expensive machinery of censorship."

MILK PRICE CUT TO BE FOUGHT

Having taken a definite stand against accepting any further reduction in the price of milk shipped into the Pittsburgh district, farmer members of the Dairymen's Co-operative Sales Association were back in their respective Western Pennsylvania counties today, determined to bring into their organization every independent shipper now helping independent distributors cut prices in the Pittsburgh wholesale market.

Fearing a price reduction was to be suggested by the distributors at a meeting with the directors of the association yesterday afternoon in the Mayfair Hotel, members of the association met a few hours earlier and passed a resolution protesting against any further reduction. In doing so they joined with the Washington County Milk Producers' Association, which had passed a similar resolution.

However, distributors declared they had no intention of suggesting a reduction and all they wanted to discuss with the directors of the association was the matter of battling the independent shipper and distributor which have brought about the price slashing on the local wholesale market.

BAKER KILLING CLUE REVEALED

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12.—(AP.)—With only a slender lead, but one which they plan to exhaust, capital police today reopened the celebrated Mary Baker murder case.

Lieut. John H. Fowler, ballistics expert of the department, took over the first steps in the new inquiry, with a hurried visit to Hagerstown, Md., to inquire into a report that a man in that vicinity knew who the killer was.

He returned with only the cryptic comment he was "still working" on the investigation.

As related by police, the person supposed to be in the vicinity of Hagerstown has a brother in Washington who conducts a rooming house. One of the latter's tenants is supposed to have confessed the murder to him.

Mary Baker, a government clerk, was murdered April 11, 1930. She was last seen alive in an automobile at the edge of the Ellipse, the park just south of the White House. Her body was found April 12, stuffed in a culvert on a road near the Arlington National Cemetery.

Three men were charged with the murder, and one was tried and acquitted.

N. Y. BURLESQUE SHOWS TURN HIGHBROW

By QUENTIN REYNOLDS
International News Service.

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—Sin and evil have been exorcised from Forty-second street. No longer will adolescent eyes be forced to feast upon the undraped charms of pulchritudinous (if a bit hefty) ladies of the ensemble. No longer will visiting traveling salesmen be forced to hide their faces behind programs to conceal the blushes brought forth by the pithy jokes of the red-nosed comedians.

Burlesque on Broadway has gone refined and will henceforth be presented in a decorous manner by the operators of the Eltinge and Republic theaters, the doors of which reopened today as a result of Commissioner James Geraghty's act in granting them licenses, thereby automatically lifting the ban imposed by Acting Mayor McKee a few weeks back.

'REFINED' BURLESQUE

The operators of the two burlesque theaters promised Commissioner Geraghty yesterday that only "refined burlesque" would be offered. With that promise, both the commissioner and the Broadway Association were satisfied.

So today the two theaters reopened. The Eltinge Theater went all the way in the matter of refinement, even to the point of eliminating the word "burlesque" from its posters and its electric signs. Large signs informed patrons the Eltinge Follies, a musical revue, was on display inside, continuous from 10 a. m. until 11 p. m.

A feature of the revue is a three-round boxing bout, the principals being Miss Helen Mason and Miss Carol Peters.

Certainly refinement can go no further, especially since the principals in the boxing contest will wear full length tights.

POSTERS HIDDEN

The posters, which had aroused the ire of both Mayor McKee and Broadway merchants, had been replaced by large paintings, showing merely the heads of the ladies of the ensemble.

Across the street the Republic, run by the Minsky brothers, also was getting ready to open its doors. Inside, a group of girls were going through a dance routine while a man in a derby played a piano and another man without a collar clapped his hands to mark time and instructed the girls in their steps. His name was Sam.

The same old posters were on display outside the Republic. Undraped ladies peered coyly from behind ostrich plumes and looked surprises as they peered from behind velvet curtains. The cynical gentleman in the box office raised a knowing eyebrow when asked if the show would be "too refined to be good." He said:

"It's the same show we always had. See them posters outside? Same as always. A good show for less money. A Broadway show for half a buck."

Suicide of Film Man Blamed on Romances

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 12.—(Universal.)—Too many love affairs combined with financial troubles drove George A Davidson, Jr., 28, screen test director for the Fox Film Corporation, to suicide yesterday, deputy sheriffs concluded.

Mystery surrounding Davidson's act centered about his close friend, Mrs. Constance Smith, who fled from Davidson's apartment a few minutes after he sent a bullet through his brain. She telephoned the sheriff's office that she would "explain everything."

Pet Bear, Killer of Boy, Pays With His Life

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Oct. 12.—(AP.)—Andy, a pet bear which long had been an attraction at a gasoline station near here, was executed yesterday for killing Peter Ryan, 4, of Albion.

On authorization of Chief Game Protector M. W. Brackett, of the State Conservation Commission at Albany, Lieut. Gerald D. Vaine, of the state police, fired three shots from a shotgun, putting an end to Andy's hectic career.

Andy attacked and fatally injured Peter Ryan at Albion while Andy and his mate Amos were chained to a cemetery fence at the roadside awaiting repairs to a truck which was taking them back to Albion.

About six weeks ago the bear attacked and seriously injured a Rochester youngster at the gasoline station owned by Fred Redshaw and later was said to have bitten a constable who attempted to serve a warrant on a member of the Redshaw family.

POLL RECALLS '28 RESULT

FAVORS NEITHER PARTY

The relative closeness of the poll percentages in the party vote division to the 1928 election party division percentages shows that the poll is not giving undue emphasis to either party, either in the mailing of ballot cards to prospective voters or in the receipt of replies from them. If there was a disproportionate canvass of Democratic voters, the percentage of Republicans rallying would certainly be more than 1 per cent removed from the actual Republican share of the 1928 election vote.

The poll also has taken into account the division of the sexes. The replies show that 26 per cent of the 412,612 ballot cards recorded came from women voters and that Gov. Roosevelt is a 53 per cent favorite among them, while he has drawn almost 60 per cent of the ballots from men.

5 Boys Sentenced To Sunday School

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Oct. 12.—(INS.)—Sentences providing for regular attendance at Sunday school for the next three years today had been passed upon five Keisterville youths who pleaded guilty to robbery.

The boys, Eugene L. Pegg, Lawrence S. Sifton, J. C. Hagar and Joseph and Richard Forkin, all admitted breaking into three stores and stealing cigarets and other articles.

DENIES QUARRY MURDERS

LIMA, O., Oct. 12.—(AP.)—Loren E. Truesdale, 23, appeared before the Allen County grand jury yesterday and, his attorneys indicated, repudiated an alleged confession to the "revenge" slaying of his brother, Earl, 20, and Miss Thelma Woods, 19.

The young couple's bodies were recovered from a water-filled quarry here several days after they disappeared from a dance hall the night of May 30, 1931. Both had been beaten to death. The bodies were tied and weighted down with stones.

On September 1, last, Loren Truesdale was quoted by authorities as saying he killed his brother and the girl because "Earl stole all my girls." Miss Woods, the state charges, was killed to prevent her talking after her escort had been slain.

Rothstein Dope Ring Suspects Indicted

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—(Universal.)—Five men declared to be members of a nationwide drug syndicate financed by the late Arnold Rothstein were under indictment today by the federal grand jury on narcotic charges.

Those indicted are Irving Halper, Louis Wallenstein, Pincus Goldstein, Arnold J. Sorrentino and Harry Stern. Halper was held in $25,000 bail at the time of his arrest, the others in $15,000 each.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12.—Revised tabulations of returns to date in the nation-wide presidential poll of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph in co-operation with all the other Hearst morning, evening and Sunday papers in the United States follow. The table shows the division by states of the Hoover and Roosevelt vote, and how it is subdivided for each as between men and women. It also shows the potential electoral vote for each candidate.

TWO FACTS EVERY COLD-SUFFERER SHOULD KNOW

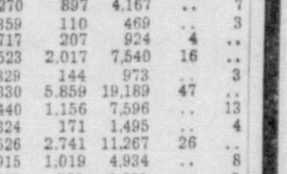
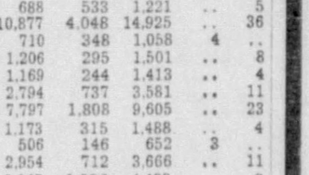
TESTS PROVE SUPERIORITY OF VAPEX

Unbiased tests by a prominent medical research laboratory prove that the vapor of a single drop of Vapex kills dense colonies of germs present in head-colds. In exactly similar tests, other inhalants (often offered as substitutes for Vapex) were shown to be greatly inferior in germ-killing power.

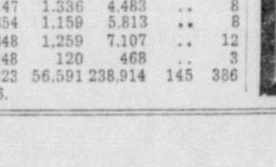
A 50¢ INHALANT



ANOTHER 50¢ INHALANT



75¢ VAPEX



Many cheaper imitations of Vapex are said to be "just as good." But Science proves they are not. Vapex has a remarkable germ-killing power. This is the extra value that Vapex brings you at very little extra cost.

IN THE opinion of a prominent medical research laboratory, Vapex—the delightful inhalant—is a safe, natural, and effective way to relieve distress.

From their unbiased tests they believe that Vapex brings quicker, more general relief than gargles, sprays, drops, and salves. For a cold is an inflammation of the breathing passages. The natural relief is to breathe a soothing vapor, not to force liquids and salves into the nose. These are likely to be far less effective in penetrating the inner nasal passages.

Another important point is the germ-killing power of Vapex. Bacteria swarm in the breathing passages during a cold. And scientific tests prove that Vapex kills germs always present in head-colds.

You'll find Vapex is a reliable relief from sniffles and sneezes, from clogged-up head and nose, from that depressed feeling. Just a few deep breaths of the delightful vapor quickly make you feel better. And it's free from the muss and fuss and discomfort of many cold-reliefs. For all you need do is put a few drops on your handkerchief and at the ends of your pillow. You breathe your cold away!

Sold at all drug stores at a new low price. Insist on getting V-A-P-E-X. Used by millions of people all over the world.

BAR LAYS GANG RULE TO DRY LAW EVILS

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12.—(AP.)—A report before the American Bar Association today said that prohibition has "brought about a demand for the services of outlaws such as we never had in this or any other country prior to prohibition."

The report on "mercenary crime" was made by the committee on criminology assigned two years ago to study gangsters and their operations.

LAW AID TO GANGS

The committee consists of George A. Bowman, of Milwaukee, chairman; Herbert Munro, of Detroit, and William D. Knight, of Rockford, Ill., all prosecuting officers. They said:

"We do not want to be understood as holding a brief for or against this law. We simply point out what we believe to be a fact, that prohibition has brought about a condition of times and customs and law which makes it easy for the gangster to obtain a large personal organization at small risk.

"There is a general and widespread demand on the part of a large section of the American public for intoxicating liquor.

"Not only does a great section of the public look with approval upon the violation of the law itself, but those engaged in its violation have been considered respectable citizens whose services were more or less essential to the comfort and well-being of the community."

APPEAL FOR LEADERSHIP

This condition, the report said, made it easier to secure protection and co-operation of enforcement officers. It added that those in the "bootlegging racket" soon found that when their merchandise was stolen, they could not expect police protection from hijackers. The report continued:

"They were outlaws who could not appeal to the law. The only court to which they could appeal was the court of 'Judge Colt,' who presided over the law of the frontier."

LEADERSHIP URGED

An appeal to lawyers for national leadership to show the world that a representative Democracy "such as our fathers conceived and founded, can survive," was made today to the association by its president, Guy A. Thompson, of St. Louis. He added:

"Danger threatens and an enlightened, aroused, and irresistible public opinion is our only hope."

Open Bids for Shoes For Poor Students

The Allegheny County Poor Directors today opened bids for several thousands pairs of shoes for destitute school children. They expect to borrow the money from banks. Yesterday the directors gave out 1,600 coal orders, the money coming from an appropriation previously made.

The city of Pittsburgh recently opened bids for children's shoes and a committee today was inspecting samples.

Tong Strife Blamed In Franklin Slaying

FRANKLIN, Pa., Oct. 12.—(AP.)—State police, aided by local and county officers, considered the theory of "tong strife" today as they investigated the slaying of L. M. (Charlie) Frank, Chinese laundryman, found dead on the floor of his establishment. An empty cash drawer lay near the body, which was found late last night.

Police said Frank had had "tong trouble" a few years ago.

Civic Club President Names Committees

Among the 20 committees appointed is that no public taxation and finances, of which Dr. McKay is acting chairman; public affairs, headed by Francis S. Guthrie; state and federal affairs, Dr. Ralph Boots, chairman; voters' information, B. U. McClintock; public service and city planning committee, Grant Curry, and the city and highway appearance H. P. R. R. TO HIRE 700 MEN FOR CAR BUILDING

Employment of a number of workmen in the Pittsburgh district shops of the Pennsylvania Railroad was seen today with the announcement of Gen. W. W. Atterbury, president, that orders have been placed for the construction of 400 steel box cars at Pitcairn.

Gen. Atterbury said 1,285 cars would be built in three separate shops of the company, with money to be provided by a $2,000,000 "work loan" negotiated with the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. The entire project will provide employment for approximately 700 men.

A re-arrangement of the railroad's heavy freight car repairs at Enola, across the Susquehanna river from Harrisburg, and Altoona will be made by transferring some to the Terre Haute, Ind., shops, and some to the shops at Mahoningtown, near New Castle, creating increased employment at five separate shops.

At Pitcairn 125 additional men will be given employment and at Mahoningtown 40 will be added.

FURNACE RAZING EMPLOYS MANY

Employment for several months will be given a large number of workmen of the Jones and Laughlin Steel Corporation in dismantling the old Soho blast furnace, Second avenue and Brady street, idle since 1924, it was announced today. Preliminary work of razing the landmark has begun.

Although no estimate of the cost or number of men to be employed was given, officials said tearing down the furnace and dismantling its auxiliary buildings would keep the workers busy far into the winter.

The furnace produced pig iron from the days just after the Civil War until 1924 and employed hundreds of skilled workmen, many of whom lived with their families within the shadow of the old stack.

WRIGLEY DOLLARS TRAVELING FAST

Get Aboard the Wrigley Dollar Express.

By Miss Mint

This Wrigley Express is traveling at a great rate—but there's no one-way track. It goes everywhere—all over the city—offices, stores, and shoppes! No place is too far out of the way for it! People are glad to have the Wrigley Express hit them, tho',—if they are carrying Wrigley's it means a dollar in their pockets. Have your package of Wrigley's gum with you and be ready when this fast express strikes.

MR. J. R. TRUESDALE, general manager of the Credit Bureau, 601 Chamber of Commerce Building, was seated at his desk when he was hit, yesterday. Indeed, he did have Wrigley's and produced it at once. The dollar changed hands—and Mr. Truesdale gave a big "K O" for Wrigley's. He likes Spearmint—it helps him to concentrate on "big business."

There were "plenty more" who got in the way of the Wrigley Express—some of these fortunate ones were:

JANE C. PICKFORD, 427 Franklin Ave.; H. R. FRITCHMAN, 302 Newport Rd.; MARGARET R. McHENRY, 123 Kearsarge St.; MISS MARIE IMHOF, 19 Butler St.; FRANCIS J. WILSON, 1217 Malvern Ave.; IRENE BRONDER, 430 Spencer Ave.; J. W. HENRY, JR., 902 Chamber of Commerce Building; OLIVE B. JONES, 7308 Idlewild St.; H. C. McLENNAN, 1504 Followfield Ave.; IRENE H. OLBETTER, 366 Gross St.; VICTORIA KRUPPA, 496 Sterling St.

Be ready, everyone. Have your package of Wrigley's and when that express hits, it can leave its mark. A Wrigley Dollar for Wrigley Users.

TELL IT TO SALLY — By Sally Martin

Some Parents Set Example For Wayward Youngsters

We've heard a lot in this department about wild youngsters—

But how about wild oldsters?

If so, read little Ann's story—the story of a heart-broken child who is seeing her home falling to pieces, and her ideals being smashed.

"Dearest Sally:

"I am coming to you because I don't know anyone else to confide in. Please, please, help me!

"I am 16, and I have found out something that no one knows in our family, and I can't stand to have it on my mind any longer. I have found out that my mother is going out with other men. She is very pretty, knows it, and Dad knows it, too, but I can't see any reason for her to do that. She has everything she wants, and Dad is crazy about her.

"There are just Mother, Dad, my brother and myself in our family. Oh, what shall I do? It isn't as if I weren't sure about this. If I told you all of the incidents I can recall to prove that it is true, I would need sheets of paper.

WANTS TO TELL BROTHER

"I can't tell Dad, of course, I don't know what he would do, but I think he would kill my mother if he ever found it out, because he really is very jealous. My heart is simply breaking. I am so worried and so blue I don't know what to think or do.

"I can't speak to her about it. That would be out of the question, for she regards me as just a child, and it wouldn't do a bit of good for me to say anything. She would just say that I was a little fool.

"But here is what I thought—what I want to do. Please, if you think it would help, won't you tell me? I am so afraid and so sad over it all.

"My brother is 22, and mother respects him a great deal. I want to tell him about it. I feel that if he knew, and talked to her, he could make her stop this dreadful thing before dad finds it out and something terrible happens.

"Please tell me what you think. Should I tell him? Do you think it would do any good? Oh, I hope so! "ANN."

What do I think?

Plenty, little sister; and you have all my sympathy. I know just how awful you feel, with your whole world liable to crash around you any minute, with your mother doing something that hurts you so.

But you will have to go on believing in people and goodness, even if those you love best fail you, and though this experience is going to hurt terribly, honey, it will help, too, if you will let it.

NEEDS CHILD'S LOVE

Try to understand that mothers are just people. You've wanted to think of her as a shining goddess, and now you can't. Put your own hurt aside, and try to see that she needs your love and pity and understanding more than ever. Perhaps that won't make her grow up, but it will make you grow up into more tender and tolerant womanhood. And that's a lot.

And now—what to do? Shall you tell your brother?

Yes, honey, I think you should. It might work; for the chances are that your mother doesn't really mean any harm, and that she is just being silly and thoughtless and selfish. A good jolt might wake her up and make her see just what she is doing to herself and to you. For she is certainly heading for plenty of grief that will smash down on all of you if she keeps on as she is doing.

And now, Mrs. Jones, Mrs. Brown, is that your idea of being a Good Mamma? Would you hand your youngster that kind of example?

Plenty of Mammas do—and so long as they do, what right have we to yell at the kids when they go haywire?

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Formal Name

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1—I am a widow and I would like to know which is the proper way for me to sign my name:

Mrs. John H. Burroughs
or
Mrs. Elizabeth C. Burroughs
or
Mrs. Elizabeth Burroughs

2—Please advise the correct placing of guests at the table. As I have told you, I am a widow. I have a daughter 22 years old and a son 21 years old. Where should they sit at the table when guests are present?

A.

1—You should use the same form of name that you used when your husband was living. It is in poor form for a widow to change to the use of her first name with the Mrs. prefixing it. So, for your visiting cards, for instance, or for any other occasion in which you use the formal form of your name, use: Mrs. John Henry Burroughs. For the signature of a business letter, or a letter to anyone who must be informed of your formal name, this is the correct form:

Very truly yours,
Elizabeth Carroll Burroughs
(Mrs. John Henry Burroughs)

2—Your place, of course, as hostess, is at the head of the table. And I think it would be a beautiful gesture for you to make to your son to have him take his father's place, as host, opposite you, at the foot of the table.

On your right you place the man guest of honor, and on your left the man to whom second honor place is to be given. On your son's right you place the woman guest of honor, and on his left, the woman who is to receive the second place of honor.

Your daughter would be seated at a place between you and your son.

The Correct Gift

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

A young man friend of mine whom I have known for about a year has invited me to his parents' silver wedding anniversary. He will accompany me there.

Is it appropriate for me to take a present, as I have never had the pleasure of meeting his parents?

A.

I think that it would be a bit "forced" for you to take a present to this anniversary, but I do think that it would be most gracious of you to send, on the morning of the anniversary-day, a box of flowers, addressed to the wife. On your card, within, you might write, "Congratulations and best wishes to you and Mr. Andrews."

Household Hints

To renovate a shabby leather suitcase, sponge with warm water, carefully removing old labels and tags of string, then place in the open air to dry. When thoroughly dry, apply a mixture of black or brown dye (any saddler or leather merchant will supply sufficient at small cost) and methylated spirit. Mix in an old saucer, and paint over the worn and shabby parts of the case. When the stain has set, polish with an old silk handkerchief.

The new ironing board covers have eyelets and lacers and one can remove them easily to launder and return them to the board with no more trouble. Be sure to ask for this sort when purchasing a new one. The material is a durable unbleached muslin.

One housewife found the best way to catch a rat in a trap is to cover the entire trap with a piece of tissue paper. Rats are curious animals and while they might avoid an open trap a covering would prove their undoing.

Those last elusive drops of fat can be removed from the top of the soup by throwing a lettuce leaf into the pot. It will absorb the grease and may be removed as soon as it has served its purpose.

Schoolchildren who have to hang their winter coats in school lobbies often get the loops broken. A splendid loop which will last as long as the garment itself can be made by rolling a strip of kid, cut from an old glove, around a piece of strong string. Sew the edges of kid together with silk or thread and use as a loop. This will serve in the same fashion for men's heavy overcoats.

Before washing cotton or linen articles that appear to have a considerable amount of dressing in them, let them soak overnight in water in which common salt in the proportion of one tablespoonful to one quart has been dissolved. Rinse in warm water and wash in the ordinary way.

To clean suede gloves—Put both gloves on, then have a basin ready in which you have put a handful of fine oatmeal. Rub the hands in this, then brush afterwards with a soft brush. Warm bran is also excellent for cleaning gloves, shoes or bag of suede.

To keep the whites of eggs from falling after they have been whipped, add a pinch of cream of tartar to the whites during the whipping process. Your meringue will stay nice and firm.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Typhoid Fever Outbreaks Persist for Many Reasons

During the last few months an unusual number of cases of typhoid fever have been reported.

Dr. Copeland.

These outbreaks have been traced to bathing in prohibited waters, to drinking contaminated water, or to the purchase of food from unhygienic quarters along the public highways.

An outbreak of this nature is now unusual, because typhoid fever has been under control for many years, whereas it used to be very common. Prior to 1880 typhoid fever was a greatly dreaded disease that afflicted thousands of people and took a heavy toll of lives every year. In that year the typhoid germ was discovered. The germ is present in contaminated milk, water and food.

Within a short time rigid measures were taken to enforce supervision of the water supply of every large city. In addition, the department of health of all communities required that milk be pasteurized, and all dairy products were placed under the supervision of the official authorities. In this way the disease was controlled.

With purification of the water supply and general pasteurization of milk, the number of persons who contracted typhoid fever was greatly reduced. Within the past few years, comparatively few deaths have resulted from typhoid fever.

There is one danger, however, which still exists. I refer to the menace of typhoid carriers—persons who carry the germs, while not suffering themselves from typhoid fever. The typhoid carrier is host to the germs of this disease and is capable of infecting others. Such persons are a constant menace, not only to their immediate families, but to the general public.

All food handlers in public establishments are required by law to be examined at regular intervals. Typhoid carriers, when they are discovered, are not permitted to handle food. They are placed under careful supervision. It is necessary that they be isolated to do away with the danger of infecting others.

Persons who have been at unhygienic camps, or who have traveled abroad where the infection is more prevalent, are another source of danger. Their infection may explain the recent outbreaks. They bring the disease back home and quickly spread it to others.

The danger of typhoid can be avoided by careful supervision of water and milk supplies and by refusing food that is handled under unsanitary conditions. Never drink any water or milk unless you are sure of its purity. When in doubt, it is safer to boil the fluid before using it.

Answers to Health Queries

I. McD. Q. I am troubled with large red rings coming on different parts of my body, they itch and turn black and blue while disappearing. Can you tell me what causes this?

A.—You should have a personal medical examination so that definite advice can be given. Do not neglect this.

DAMP-SET

your wave

by BEATRICE MABIE

OFFICIAL HAIRDRESSER

UNITED ARTISTS STUDIOS

When I recently discovered damp-setting—an amazing way to set any wave in two minutes!—Hollywood thought my secret too good to be true. Now the same stars say it is too good to keep, and damp-set waves are seen on every movie lot!

★

Damp-setting saves many hours in beauty parlors. Holds even the lightest finger wave for weeks. Keeps hair fastidiously clean, with all the lustre that follows a fresh shampoo! And it's so easy!

★

All you need is a tuft of cotton or tiny sponge for a "pat" and about an ounce of Danderine. (If you have no Danderine at home, any druggist has it for only 35c a bottle.) Then, just pat the Danderine on your hair between the waves. Don't rub, and never have the pat really wet.

★

That's all you do! But do it weekly and damp-setting will always keep a ripple in your hair. And never any grease, for Danderine's solvent action lifts it off—giving your hair a glorious new sheen you never believed possible!

JUST THREE STEPS IN DAMP-SETTING: (1) Comb your hair as you usually wear it. (2) Pat on Danderine between the waves. Do not rub or have the pat too wet. (3) Pat backward where the waves go back; forward where they swirl toward cheeks and forehead. In two minutes your wave is revived; your hair is beautiful, lustrous, clean!

SMITH, FORMER SENATOR, DIES

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., Oct. 12.—Former United States Senator William Alden Smith, 73, who became the ranking member on numerous important committees during his 13 years in the House and 12 years in the Senate, died here late yesterday.

His interest in politics had continued unabated although he retired from the Senate at the conclusion of his second term in 1919. As a member of a sub-committee of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, he helped draft the declaration of war against Spain.

Senator Smith was a campaigner of the old school and his services were in demand on behalf of national candidates. A heart attack Saturday interrupted his return to the political arena on behalf of Hoover.

WELFARE CHIEF OPTIMISTIC

Voicing optimism for the annual Welfare Fund drive, which starts November 9, R. Templeton Smith, president of the organization, spoke yesterday at the weekly meeting of the heads of the employes' division, in the Chamber of Commerce. James Rae, chairman of the section, presided.

R. S. McCarty, chairman of the division's publicity committee, reported arrangements had been made for a rally November 7, in the Fort Pitt Hotel, to start the division's workers off, with indications pointing to attendence of 500 or more.

HITLER BEGINS CAMPAIGN

GUENZBURG, Bavaria, Oct. 12.—(AP.)—Adolf Hitler began his campaign today for the Reichstag elections on November 6 with a speech violently condemning Chancellor von Papen's economic program.

He said it was sheer impudence to expect him to co-operate with the present cabinet, and he swore he would play second fiddle to nobody on earth. He is to make 60 speeches in the next three weeks, traveling from place to place by automobile and airplane.

JOLO, P. I., Oct. 12.—(AP.)—The Filipino princesses, Tarhata, who was educated in American colleges, and Dayang Dayang, today aided in negotiations with outlaw Moro tribesmen barricaded in Tayungan against 200 insular constabularymen.

Lieut.-Col. Luther R. Stevens, commanding the police, with the princesses, attempted to arrange for surrender of outlaw leaders involved in fighting Sunday in which 13 contabularymen and more than 30 Moros were killed.

Col. Stevens today hesitated to attack Tayungan because women and children were among the 400 Moros believed to be in the village.

Contract Bridge -:- HOW TO PLAY and HOW TO WIN

By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

Third-Hand Psychics

The Third Hand non-vulnerable psychic, after two passes, has almost completely disappeared as a weapon of any value. Almost all players have attempted this bid over a period of time and have finally decided that it is much more likely than not to drive the opponents into a game contract they might stop short of otherwise. In certain situations, however, where the suit itself is strong enough to rebid, it is possible to obtain some rather remarkable results.

The following hand illustrates a psychic which was rebid twice, and placed the offender in a doubled game contract on which he made an overtrick.

North—Dealer.

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
Pass	Pass	1 ♡ (1)	Double (2)
Pass (3)	2 ♣	2 ♡ (4)	3 ♣
3 ♡	Pass	Pass	3 ♠
Double (5)	4 ♣	Pass (6)	Pass
Double (7)	Pass	4 ♡ (8)	Double (9)
Pass	Pass	Pass

1—A hopeless looking hand. This bid is made as an attempt to prevent opponents from reaching game. The bidder intends to rebid it to add to the illusion.

2—Obviously the best bid to expose the psychic.

3—Deciding to await further developments in the hope that the opponents will get too high.

4—South decides that he must rebid. He has few hopes of fooling anybody and decides to take his only chance.

5—North has now reached the point where he feels that the opponents are beyond their depth. This bid, of course, is extremely distasteful to South.

6—Hoping that North will see the light and allow the opponents to play the hand short of game.

7—North feels he can set the contract even if his partner has a psychic.

8—South appreciates the fact that North may well have been holding back in the hope of a profitable Double, but, having so little defensive strength, he does not feel that he can risk allowing the contract to stand. If North has enough to double both opponents, the loss in four hearts will not be too great.

9—Probably not such a sound Double, but West is very confident that the opponents have become mixed in their signals and are in line for a large penalty.

In the play, West decided on the unfortunate Opening of the club Ace, although actually no Opening will defeat the contract. The club King permitted South to discard his losing spade, and the diamond finesse was successful. When the third diamond, led from his own hand, dropped the King, he was now sure of five—much to the opponents' amazement, but probably much more to his own.

This hand is not given as an illustration of fine bidding by anybody at the table, but rather as an example of some of the peculiar results which may occur when one of the players decides upon an unorthodox plan of campaign.

QUESTIONS ANSWERED

Mrs. Culbertson will be glad to answer any specific question on bidding or play sent in by readers. Address her in care of this newspaper, inclosing a three-cent stamped self-addressed envelope.

TODAY'S QUESTION

♠ 107654 ♡ AK9876 ◇ 32 ♣ —

East passes, and South now bids three notrump. Should North now rebid after the Jump bid, or pass, and if he makes a bid, what in your judgment would be the proper bid to make?

Answer: Four hearts. The hand is ill-adapted to a notrump contract, and South must hold two, if not three, hearts. The spade suit is not biddable and the bidding is too high to experiment with a bid of four spades. Furthermore, South may hold adequate heart support, but bid three notrump because of a balanced distribution.

Disorders Feared on Anniversary of 'Massacre'

TAYLORVILLE, Ill., Oct. 12.—(AP.)—Moving to prevent possible disorders, National Guardsmen early today raided the headquarters of the striking miners and placed between 600 and 700 of them under arrest.

The diggers had gathered at Taylorville for the observance of the anniversary of the Virden (Ill.) massacre 34 years ago, and were jammed in a second floor hall across the street from the Christian County Courthouse when 180 troopers, acting under orders of Capt. C. J. Meacham, herded the miners to the third floor of the Courthouse. They will be questioned individually.

Officials indicated those who could not give satisfactory reasons for presence might be escorted out of the city.

Capt. Meacham expressed renewed determination to carry out the orders of Sheriff Charles Wieneke against any parade of miners this afternoon in commemoration of the Virden massacre.

Six hundred striking coal miners voluntarily placed themselves under arrest shortly afterward, crowding the capacity of Courthouse rooms to more than 1,200.

They applied to the guardsmen, without disorder, for permission to join the group taken in the raid on the miners' hall. Each additional group was greeted with cheers by those inside.

By DOROTHY DUCAS
International News Service.

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—The five Pignataro children are all alone today.

Their mother "taken for a ride" and found dead yesterday. They were parted today from their father as well. For Fiore Pignataro, the cheerful restauranteur, was taken to the station house in connection with the murder of his wife, Gemma.

It is a little difficult for the children to understand—even for Ernest, the oldest, who is 16. He knew his parents had been fighting ever since last May, when Pignataro is said to have discovered his wife was meeting Albert Ischio, a neighbor.

CHILDREN DAZED

But a fight ending in hired thugs who wielded a butcher knife—even the gang-wise children of this section of Brooklyn can't believe such things when they strike home.

Police feel certain, however, Pignataro was behind the brutal killing of his wife. They have two of the alleged four men he hired in prison now: Dapper Eddie and Fiore Crimaldi, underworld characters. The Crimaldi brothers deny their part in the killing, but they are said to have been identified by Joseph Pagano, last person who saw Mrs. Pignataro alive.

DISTRUST MASKED

As police piece out the story, the Pignataros have never been really reconciled since the upheaval last May. They watched each other like cat and mouse, masking their distrust and resentment in elaborate affection for the five children.

Pignataro had Ischio deported to Italy, when he learned that his wife had squandered some $40,000 on him, money taken from a bank account in Bay Ridge. That sharpened the edge of the hatred between the two.

Both of the Crimaldi brothers have alibis for the time when Pagano says he saw two men drive off with Mrs. Pignataro in Pagano's car. Eddie says he was out with his girl, Fiore that he was at his club near the navy yard.

BOARD FAVORS LUTHERAN MERGER

By DAVID K. GROSS
International News Service.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 12.—The proposal to merge the 13 Lutheran seminaries into four distinct institutions located at strategic points throughout the United States as contained in a report of the committee of six of the United Lutheran Church in America which is holding its eighth biennial convention here, was accepted unanimously by the executive board in a preconvention meeting today.

The report, after several paragraphs criticizing the standards of the institutions were deleted, was highly commended and will now be submitted to the convention for general acceptance Friday afternoon.

HIGH COSTS CITED

Basic reasons for the merger were a widespread conviction within the Lutheran Church that the existing arrangements for the training of her ministers is inadequate, that under the old system the costs were exorbitant and that the overlapping of the supporting synods had become a great problem.

The plan accepted by the executive board, it was said, will require that most of the church-property be sold.

The new plan calls for the merger of Gettysburg Seminary, at Gettysburg, Pa.; the Hartwick Seminary, at New York; the Philadelphia Seminary and Susquehanna Seminary, into one school to be located somewhere within a 20-mile radius of Philadelphia.

CANADA MERGER OK'D

The Southern Seminary will remain at Columbia, S. C. The new central institution would combine the schools at the Hamma Divinity School, Springfield, O., and the Maywood Seminary at Maywood, Ill., and the Western would comprise the seminaries now at Fremont, Neb., Martin Luther, at Lincoln, Neb., and the Northwestern Seminary, at Minneapolis, Minn.

A proposal to merge the Lutheran synods in Canada into the United Lutheran Church in Canada was also approved following a survey made by the Rev. Dr. Ellis B. Burgess, Pittsburgh; the Rev. Dr. Ernest A. Tappert, Board of American Mission, and the Rev. Dr. N. D. Wickey, executive secretary of the Board of Education of the United Lutheran Church.

2-YEAR MINING TRUCE SLATED

NEW PHILADELPHIA, O., Oct. 12.—A two-year wage scale compromise agreement between miners and operators of the Tuscarawas County district, reached at a meeting last night, will be formally adopted next Monday, it was announced today.

Increase in the Tuscarawas district mining activities during the last month lends impetus to approval by miners of the proposed pact, it is said. Most of Tuscarawas County mines, employing approximately 1,000 men, last week resumed operation on a three to six-day basis. They formerly worked half time.

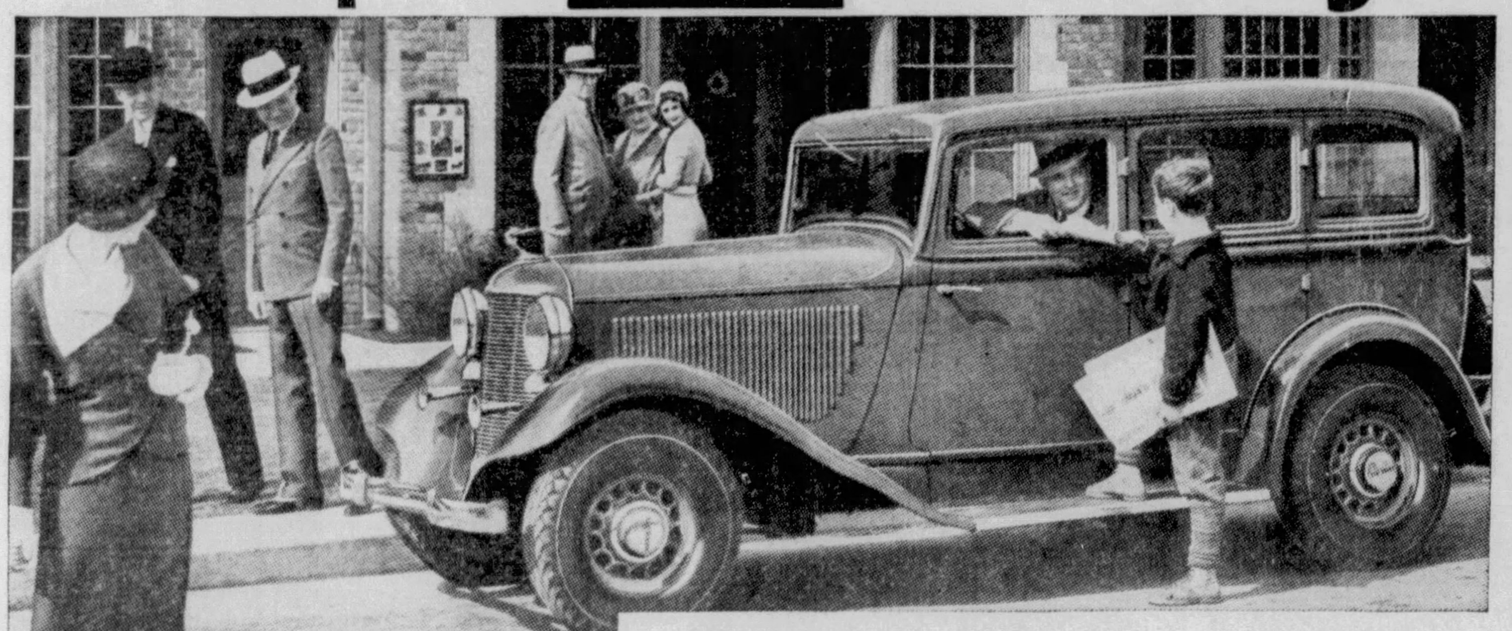
They're Still Staring!



ANY CAR can get a hand the first time it rolls down the street. But you'll agree it takes real smartness to keep eyes turning months after January Motor Shows are over and forgotten.

DeSoto's different . . . but it "wears well." DeSoto is daring . . . but it keeps its flair. Just as the smoothness of Floating Power grows on you. And the thrill of Free Wheeling . . . and Automatic Clutch.

Even the budget-book eyes it admiringly. For DeSoto is sparing of gas. Thrifty with oil. Positively parsimonious when it comes to repairs! The first cost? Just as interesting! DeSoto Motor Corporation, Division of Chrysler Motors, Detroit, Michigan.

THERE'S A THRILL IN THIS PRICE TAG. You can buy DeSoto for $675 F. O. B. factory with Floating Power, Free Wheeling, Hydraulic Brakes, Automatic Clutch, Duplate Safety Plate Glass optional at nominal cost. Let us give you a demonstration and make you a tempting trade-in offer.

Listening In—

Cantor, Jolson Return, New Denny Series, Terhune Dog Winner.

Following extended vacations from radio, two of Broadway's leading comedians are slated to return to the air . . . Eddie Cantor comes back to his old spot with Rubinoff and his orchestra Sunday, October 30. Al Jolson, after weeks of discussion, is to be starred in a new series of weekly broadcasts starting November 18 . . . Jack Benny's revamped program, with Ted Weems' orchestra and Andrea Marsh supplying the musical notes, makes its bow October 30 . . . And Jack Denny inaugurates a new series of rhythmic concerts with Evan Evans as soloist over NBC-WEAF October 26.

Mr. Cantor

Harry Barris, who, with Bing Crosby and Al Rinker, formed the original Paul Whiteman "Rhythm Boys," opens with his orchestra at the Hotel Park Central in New York, October 21, replacing Noble Sissle . . . Barris, by the way, has many song hits to his credit, including "It Was So Beautiful," "I Surrender, Dear," "Mississipi Mud," "Wrap Your Troubles in Dreams" and "At Your Command."

Four-year-old Ann De Witt, of Fairfield, Conn., is the proud owner of that Scotch collie pup offered by Albert Payson Terhune to the person submitting the best name for the dog. Little Ann's mother, Mrs. E. N. De Witt, suggested the name—Guarda.

In line with the plans of Dr. Ben H. Graham, superintendent of the Pittsburgh Public Schools, to make use of the radio for general educational work, KQV will open a series of six half-hour musical programs next Wednesday at 1 p. m. The programs will be presented under the direction of Dr. Will Earhart, director of music, and are designed especially for public school music appreciation classes.

Robert Halliday, the operetta star, is a firm believer in the theory that a psychic force determined his career. He decided on a career in the theater while still in college, and proceeded to devote himself entirely to his work—hoping that eventually he would play London, the goal of all British actors. But English producers failed to give him a "break," so after a three-months' tour of small hamlets of Scotland, he headed for New York in 1914, still striving for London's recognition. After his two smashing successes, "The Desert Song" and "New Moon," he definitely "arrived" in New York . . . and then it came—a call to London to be featured with Evelyn Herbert in "Waltzes from Vienna." His road to success, instead of lying on a bee-line between Glasgow, his home town, and London, deviated 3,000 miles to New York and required years to travel.

COUNTY LACKS $266,000 FOR RELIEF

Allegheny County, outside the city, was shown today to be $266,686.56 short of its estimated need if it is to care for the destitute during October.

There seemed to be little hope of preventing a complete lapse before October 20 unless the Pennsylvania Emergency Relief Association, which allots state and federal funds, earmarks more money for food orders in the county.

In sight is only the county's 54 per cent of $322,211 granted the city and county from state and federal money for October.

Of this sum $22,211 is state money, while $300,000 was part of the $2,500,000 loaned Pennsylvania by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

A later loan of $3,342,183 was made to Pennsylvania for use in the counties not named in granting the first loan, but Allegheny County has, so far, received none of it.

The city, too, is short, but funds received through sale of $800,000 in bonds last August will prevent a lapse.

Meanwhile, the county destitute continue to receive small food orders which, dieticians have warned, means undernourishment and slow starvation.

W. B. Rodgers, executive secretary of the State Board, has indicated Allegheny County may receive further funds at the board's next meeting on Tuesday.

In applying to the R. F. C. for a relief loan, the Allegheny County Emergency Association estimated city and county need for October at least $816,075; November, $891,000; December, $1,025,325. Present load is 35,000 families; by December, it is predicted, load will be 57,000 families, at least.

Needed for the three months is $2,732,400; in sight from local and state funds is $1,316,000.

SLEUTHS CITED FOR ROUNDUP

For their work in rounding up an alleged holdup gang, seven city detectives were summoned before Police Superintendent Peter P. Walsh and complimented late yesterday.

It was the first citation for meritorious service in the police department in 10 years.

Those summoned were Frank Morgan, homicide detective; his son, Thomas Morgan; City Detectives Edward Shindle, Edward Atkinson and Robert Marshall, and Motor Division Detectives Joseph Leith and Harry Foster.

Arrest of the dozen men, Walsh said, cleared more than 75 robberies, of which 50 were automobile thefts. Among the major holdups laid to the gang were the Pittsburgh Motor Coach Company robbery and the Ingram carbarn holdup. The suspects all have been held for court.

BLONDE FEARED SLAIN MARRIED

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 12.—(INS.)—A bride instead of a murder victim!

That was the status today of Mildred Scheidler, 20, pretty La Porte, Ind., blonde who hitchhiked to Needles, Cal., with Arthur Metcalfe, 19, who "confessed" to Fresno, Cal., officers that he had attacked and slugged Miss Scheidler and had concealed her body in bushes near Needles September 22.

Instead, Miss Scheidler, who said she was amazed at Metcalfe's strange story, revealed that she had been married Saturday to George Redden, 20, of Los Angeles, with whom she came to Los Angeles from Needles when Metcalfe decided to go to Fresno to visit her mother, Mrs. Wanda Scheidler.

The death story quiz ended in a dramatic meeting here between Mrs. Scheidler and Mildred, who had not seen one another for 16 years. Metcalfe, who was at the reconciliation meeting, gave no explanation for his "confession."

SILVER ANNIVERSARY

COOLIDGE LAUDS HOOVER REGIME

DECLARES U. S. FARES BETTER THAN OTHERS

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—Former President Calvin Coolidge in his address in Madison Square Garden last night said in part:

Some people are saying that as things could not be any worse we might as well try a change. That is a very dangerous principle to apply to the discharge of the duties of American citizenship. Things are much worse in other parts of the world, they could be a great deal worse here than they are and would have been much worse if it had not been for the vision, the courage and the leadership of President Hoover.

Before we decide that we want to have a change we ought to determine what the chances are of securing any improvement. We shall be most likely to find progress in holding fast to that which experience has proven to be sound and just and true.

Distress World-wide

Holding that the casting of a ballot for President ought to take on a judicial function, Mr. Coolidge said:

We are told that business is not good, that the fault must lie with the administration and therefore the proper remedy is to vote against the President. No government has ever yet been devised that could make the people prosperous all the time. But a bad government will constantly keep the people in distress.

Our national government has adopted one measure after another to support and encourage business and agriculture. The present economic distress is world-wide. Our own fundamental conditions were so sound that we have been able to make the sacrifices and relieve the distress better than could be done in other countries.

Of tariff the former president said:

We are told now that we ought to have a competitive tariff. Those words are not new, but their meaning is not very definite. Judging from the prices of almost all commodities now selling in our markets for less than the cost of production, our producers are not suffering from any lack of competition.

Is it proposed to put our agriculture in competition with that of Canada, Australia and the Argentine? Is it proposed to put our industry in competition with that of Europe? Is it proposed to put our wage earners in competition with those of India, China and Japan?

But we are told again that by reducing our tariff we can increase our own foreign commerce. Every foreign nation wants our tariff reduced. No foreign nation wants to increase our commerce. I know that foreign nations do not buy in our markets unless they are compelled to do so, even when price and quality are advantageous.

Praises Hoover's Work

When it is constantly charged that President Hoover lacks leadership I hope I may be pardoned for a slight reference to what appears to be offered in its place.

As early as November 1928, the Democratic leader publicly urged the presentation of a constructive program by his party. In the campaign of 1930 another authoritative promise of a constructive program was issued. The Democratic leader again warned his party in November, 1931, to present a constructive program, yet when that party elected a speaker of the House and assumed control of that body no program had yet been presented.

The President in his message pointed out the necessity of increasing revenues and cutting down expenses. The acting chairman of the Democratic Ways and Means Committee reported a new tax bill which he said was nonpartisan and had the unanimous support of the 15 Democrats and 10 Republicans of the committee. What then happened is well known history. The Democratic members of the House deserted their leaders, destroyed the bill, and of their 220 only 40 supported it on the final vote.

Cites Steps Taken

No constructive program for the revival of industry and commercial and financial relief was presented by the Democratic party in the last session of Congress.

But that is only a part of the record. Meantime President Hoover had proposed the formation of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, strengthening of the Federal Land Bank System, the amendment of the Federal Reserve laws to provide more adequate credit and safeguard the gold standard, the creation of the Home Loan Discount Banks and all the other legislation passed by the last Congress for the general relief of the economic situation. Many times he had the assistance and support of individual Democrats which he has publicly acknowledged. With this record where does the country think it can most hopefully turn for leadership?

One of the greatest services which the Republican party has rendered has been the support of sound money.

Sees Recovery Starting

We have recently gone through another period when the credit of the nation has been at stake. Our power to continue the gold standard was doubted and foreign creditors withdrew their deposits in gold. At the same time under Democratic leadership it was proposed to issue $2,300,000,000 in greenbacks to pay the veterans' bonus and other measures were proposed which would have brought bankruptcy to the national treasury, destroyed the market for government bonds and forced the abandonment of the gold standard. Under the leadership of President Hoover this calamity was averted. The loss of our gold was offset by emergency legislation.

In June the financial integrity of our government appeared to be permanently established. Congress finally adjourned and our gold began to come back. The decline in trade ceased and confidence began to return until at the present time the country knows that its worst troubles are probably past and economic recovery is beginning.

Talks of Unemployment

Concerning labor and unemployment, Mr. Coolidge declared:

We have sought to create a condition under which the ordinary man would have the best possible opportunity to find a market for whatever he had to sell, whether of production or labor. We have tens of millions of wage earners in this country. The Republican party has never believed that they could be furnished with suitable permanent employment unless some one could derive a reasonable profit from employing them.

We have advocated strengthening the position of the employer in order that he might pay better wages to his employes, enlarge the consumptive capacity of the people and increase the market for the farm and factory.

It is inevitable when a concern can make a profit by operating that it will be in the market for labor and materials, but when it can only make a loss it will discharge labor. This is what happens inevitably during an era of falling prices such as we have had from the summer of 1929 to the late spring of 1932.

Now it is difficult to conceive of any important business which does not involve the question of credit. When credit begins to be impaired business becomes paralyzed, wages decline and employment decreases; the bank refuses to make loans because it fears they will not be repaid; the depositors withdraw their money because they feel it is not safe; producers refuse to sell on time because they are afraid they cannot collect. If this process continued far enough universal bankruptcy would prevail.

Self-support Needed

The first thought for relief would probably be a dole and a loan, but a little consideration would show that increasing their debts and destroying their independence would scarcely be considered a real service to people in distress.

Given the problem then of restoring to normal well-being a great mass of people who find themselves unemployed, the fundamental remedy is not some form of pauperism, but a return to self-respecting, self-supporting and independent existence.

Since the main causes of our difficulties lay in a failure of credit the first object should be to restore credit. That is the policy which President Hoover has constantly advocated. He has no wish to assist a bank because it is a bank, a railroad, an insurance company, a building and loan association, an agricultural co-operative association, or any other corporation for their own sakes. He has been seeking to preserve and restore the independent economic condition of the great mass of the people. This suffering was brought to a large degree through the failure of the credit of these large and small concerns. If that credit can be renewed, if confidence can be restored the people can go back to work and their suffering will cease.

BUT they hadn't tried the amazing New Oxydol then!

• If you've given up trying to make washing quicker and easier for yourself because you found it too hard on the clothes—here's the soap you've been needing! Try the New Oxydol!

You've never used a soap that worked so fast, that did so much—yet it's mild as a summer breeze, as kind to dainty things as to hands. It makes 50% more suds; that's the reason this mild soap can do so much for you. Richer, thicker, longer-lasting suds that soak dirt right out of clothes and hold it out—then rinse away fast so clothes are gleaming white and clean without a bit of rubbing. New Oxydol's thick, lively suds stand up and stay up till the job is done.

Try it for dishes too. See how fast every particle of New Oxydol dissolves into suds so there are no gummy balls of soap floating around. See how those extra suds cut grease like lightning and rinse off so dishes are sparkling clean in no time.

Then you'll know why New Oxydol can lighten all your housework so much—can save you so much time and work—is so much more economical. And don't forget that Oxydol makes rich, sweet-smelling suds in any water—and all water turns hard when you put in dirty clothes or dishes. Ask your grocer today for one of the big bull's-eye packages—you'll bless the day you started using it.

LISTS OF RURAL VOTERS GAIN

HARRISBURG, Oct. 12.—(AP.)—While political leaders sought to ascertain the possible political significance, the upward trend of enrollment in voters outside of Pennsylvania cities continued more pronounced today.

The latest Associated Press compilation of official returns by counties revealed that the aggregate of eligible voters in 28 of the 67 counties was greater than in 1928. City registration totals, however, still showed an average decline of 19 per cent.

Official and unofficial registration totals for 21 cities—including estimates for Philadelphia and Pittsburgh—revealed a drop from 1,269,982 in 1928 to a present total of 1,024,727.

At the state headquarters of both major parties, the upward trend of non-urban enrollment and the decided drop in city registration was termed without parallel. Doubt was expressed that the tendencies had any political significance.

POLITICS

Committee Invitation Puts Pinchot on Spot

By MARK SHIELDS

Mr. Shields

The invitation extended Gov. Pinchot by State Chairman Edward Martin to serve on the executive committee to promote the fortunes of the Republican ticket in Pennsylvania this fall is but another evidence of the manner in which Republican politicians in this presidential election are cocking an alert eye toward the future.

It is but another manifestation of the spirit existing in Allegheny County, where the local Republican leaders are more concerned about jockeying for position in the Mayoralty election of 1933 than the presidential election of 1932.

Not that Gen. Martin is not sincerely interested in the election of Mr. Hoover. He is, and is doing everything possible to that end. But the General also is thinking about the future, and some of the tactical moves of this autumn are with a view to the state campaign of 1934, when a Governor and a U. S. Senator—maybe two—will be elected. Gen. Martin is visioning a circumstance in which the Governor himself, ineligible to his present office, may seek a seat in the United States Senate.

* * *

Believe They Will Embarrass Pinchot

Should he refuse to serve on the executive committee, as Gen. Martin expected he would, and as the Governor's friends say he will, the Governor, should he seek a party place two years hence, will be labeled as one who refused to support the ticket of 1932. The state will be asked whether it believes under those conditions he has a right to ask for party indorsement. The fact that this question has been raised against the Governor before, and has been successfully met by him, is beside the point, there seldom being anything new in political strategy, or anything original and spontaneous in political cerebration.

The state leaders believe they will put Mr. Pinchot in a position so embarrassing that, not only will he be stopped from doing something for himself, but, more important, will be precluded from putting over his own candidate for Governor, the really important job to a state political organization.

A refusal by Mr. Pinchot to help the Republican ticket this year conceivably will prove hurtful. It will restrict some of his appointees, even though they do perfunctorily serve on committees. It will deny an indorsement to President Hoover by the Republican Governor of the biggest Republican state. It may point the way for the votes of thousands of Independents who have followed Pinchot in the past.

* * *

Hoover Misfortune Organization Gain

But that misfortune to Mr. Hoover will be discounted beside the greater gain to the organization if it can sidetrack the Governor. For there is absolutely no secret that the thought behind the invitation was to put the Governor on record—or on the spot. If Mr. Hoover should go on the spot also it would be just too bad. But he is only an individual in the political picture, and the state organization and all its affiliates have the future to think about here at home, with the 17,000 jobs at the disposal of whoever sits in the executive chair at Harrisburg.

Democratic managers in Peinsylvania affect to laugh off any thought that votes will be taken from Roosevelt by the presence on the ballot of Roosevelt and Roosevelt Progressive tickets—which do not bear the name of the presidential candidate of the Democratic party. These tickets were pre-empted for statewide use, on the explanation that the Democrats thus would beat Republicans to the jump.

But nothing like that was possible. Republican candidates for the Legislature and Congress saw the possibilities, and had their names filed as candidates on the Roosevelt tickets. They were overlooking no bets, and the Democrats so far have been powerless to stop them, their only gesture being a rather hopeless plea by State Chairman Van Dyke for the Republicans to be sportsmen and not take advantage of the Democratic thoughtlessness. That plea was as effective as would be an effort to dip up the Allegheny with a spoon.

* * *

Democrats Should Run Educational Campaign

The danger to Roosevelt lies in the fact that many Republicans and Democrats, too, for that matter, will see a Roosevelt column and content themselves with placing a mark there, believing they have voted for the New York Governor. They will not read the candidates' names, which would discover to them that these party designations do not contain a candidate for President.

Democrats say this will happen in only a few cases, and only with what they term the "ignorant" vote. They predict that not more than 10,000 votes will be affected, or that Roosevelt will lose the votes of no more than 10,000 persons meant to help him.

These views are susceptible to two observations:

First, that the Democrats are wrong in this low estimate.

Second, that they have reached a high point of super-confidence when they can laugh off 10,000 votes for their candidate in such a normally Republican state as Pennsylvania.

What the Democratic leaders had better do is frankly confess they made an original mistake in strategy, and then undertake an intensive campaign of education, explaining to voters that the only place to cast a vote for Roosevelt is in the Democratic column.

THREE HOLD UP SQUIRREL HILL PHARMACY

Bandits Also Invade Chain Store and Gas Station

A Squirrel Hill drug store, a chain store in Bloomfield and a gasoline service station in Oakland were held up by bandits last night.

Three armed men entered the drug store of Charles A. Rhea, 6524 Wilkins avenue, and ordered Rhea, two clerks and four customers, including two men, to remain quiet while they looted the cash registers of $109.39.

CLERK, PATRON ROBBED

Merrill Bennett, of Oakmont, a clerk, was robbed of $21. G. W. Sherratt, of 534 Hastings street, a customer, was robbed of $3. From George Miller, another clerk, and a customer, the bandits obtained nothing. The two women, whose names were not learned by police, were not molested.

Three bandits who held up a chain store at Osceola and Cypress streets and escaped with an unestimated amount of cash were being sought by police today. The thugs forced Henry Thomas, the manager, and Herman Donatelli, of Edmund street, into a rear room.

ATTENDANT HELD UP

Louis Colosimo, of 243 Meyran avenue, attendant of the Marie Gasoline Company station at 3425 Forbes street, was robbed of a changer by two bandits in the station last night. They escaped in an automobile.

Clothing and jewelry valued at $400 was reported stolen from the home of Edward Laughrey, of 4550 Penn avenue. The front door was unlocked with a key, police were informed.

Thieves broke into the office of the Shadyside Presbyterian Church and stole $5 in cash and $1 worth of stamps, according to police report. An office window was jimmied.

U. S. Accuses Three In Theft of Auto

Albert Luxner, Harry Jordan and Frank Leigh yesterday were arrested at Clairton jail by Deputy United States Marshal J. F. Austin and E. A. Holden, on warrants charging transportation of a stolen automobile from Pittsburgh to Sabraton, W. Va. They had been arrested by state highway patrolmen at Carmichael earlier in the week. Pending a hearing before the United States commissioner, Luxner was released under $1,500 bond and the others committed to jail.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

COLON, Oct. 12.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

This big three-motored Ford pan-American airways passenger breezed through some country yesterday—San Salvador, Honduras, Nicaragua, Costa Rica and Panama, with stops in each place. Mr. Gerald Dempsey, of Long Island and Santa Barbara, Cal., is aboard headed for Chile. I am not headed for anything, just for home by the way of Cape Hope. It was good to visit Managua, Nicaragua, again. I camped there with the Marines right after the earthquake. The town has done wonderful in rebuilding. Saw Mr. Hanna, our minister, there. He says that every Marine was to leave on January first. That will be as good a move as the one sending 'em in was a bad one. Yours,

WILL.

VICTIM INSISTS HURTS CAME FROM CRASH

Story Differs From That of Companion On Party

While police were holding two men they say threw Anna Adams, 22, of 1411 Martha street, Munhall, from an automobile, the girl asserted in South Side Hospital today that she was injured in an auto accident, and that the men were not responsible for the lacerations and bruises she received.

The girl's story differed from that told by Peggy Dunkle, 19, of 226 Glen Caladh street, Hazelwood, who was one of the party that included Herman Klem, 25, of 2113 Jane street, and Ernest Weiland, 24, 104 South Twenty-first street.

Police testified at a hearing given Klem and Weiland in South Side Police Court this morning that Miss Adams had told them the men threw her from an automobile at 2 a. m. in Becks Run road when she spurned their advances. At the hospital, however, Miss Adams denied she had made such a statement, and insisted there had been an auto accident. She was knocked unconscious, she said, and did not know the details.

Miss Dunkle testified at the hearing that she had jumped from the car a short time before Miss Adams was hurt. She said she did not know whether her companion jumped or was thrown. Klem testified the Adams girl jumped. Klem was arrested at the hospital after he took the injured girl there, and Weiland was arrested at his home.

The men were held under $1,000 bond each pending the outcome of the girl's injuries.

COLUMBUS DAY OBSERVED HERE

Columbus Day is being observed today in schools and by fraternal and educational organizations.

Parochial schools closed and in the public schools Columbus Day exercises were held. Special programs will be given in Schenley and Crafton High School auditoriums tonight.

The Knights of Columbus will begin a celebration at 6:30 p. m. with an informal dinner in the Fort Pitt Hotel. Speakers will be the Rev. James M. Delaney, diocesan director of the Holy Name Society; Justice John W. Kephart, of the Pennsylvania Supreme Court, and Judge Frank P. Patterson, of the Allegheny County Common Pleas Court. Senator Frank J. Harris will be toastmaster.

Schenley High School program will be under the auspices of Spanish teachers of the city. S. Q. Hayes, honorary vice consul of Ecuador, and Jose Alemany, modern language professor at Carnegie Tech will speak.

Judge Sara M. Soffel, of the Allegheny County Court, will speak in Crafton High School tonight.

Story of Cruelty Wins Wife Divorce

For nearly 21 years of her married life, while she was rearing eight children, she was subjected to beatings by her husband, Anna T. Fink, 42, of 54 Lawrence street, Millvale, testified in Common Pleas Court. Judge S. J. Snee granted her a divorce from Peter A. Fink, 42, of Fifty-second and Butler streets, for cruelty.

Fink left her July 8, 1931, after beating her several times, she said.

U. S. Holds Chinese For Deportation

Chew Ning, 42, alias Chew Sing, a Chinese, was ordered held for deportation by the United States Commissioner, charged with illegal entry. As a seaman he deserted a steamship in New York, in 1919, and since has resided in Chicago, Youngstown, O., and Pittsburgh. He was arrested last week by Charles Garfinkel, assistant director of immigration.

Orators Pick Wide Spaces for Their Efforts

By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER

Both campaign committees are busier than ants before a storm.

Have you noticed that the orators pick out their favorite territory? Huey Long, of Alabama, wants to unleash his manly baritone in Vermont. That's bearding the lion in his own barber shop.

Roosevelt and Hoover talk at every red and blue pin on the map. They have to be on that observation platform all day with no time out for tunnels.

The G. O. P. gabsters are sticking to their old system. Keep chewing the fat until the audience starts asking questions.

Having reached the stage where any explanation is embarrassing the Republicans yank twice on the bellrope and rumble away for new fields to conquer.

RULING CLOSES RAIL DISPUTE

Protests of four fence railing manufacturers that "closed specifications" stipulating Hunter Safety Railing for street improvements created a monopoly for one product had been ignored by City Council today after receipt of an opinion from the law department.

The Somerville Company, Taylor & Dean, Builders' Steel Works and the Reiling Manufacturing Company complained their products would not be given a fair showing if the closed specifications were continued.

The city recently awarded a contract for purchase of 2,500 feet of Hunter Safety Railing, a patented product, to the Fort Pitt Malleable Iron Company despite lower bids from the Pressed Steel Car Company.

Assistant City Solicitor Thomas M. Benner declared that because the Public Work Department engineers recommended the railing Council was permitted to purchase the product.

Whisky in Garage Jails Rum Suspect

Louis Certo, of 4560 Carroll street, Bloomfield, is held today by police after officers said they found 27 five-gallon cans of alleged whisky in a garage in the rear of his home last night. The raid was led by Constable Samuel S. Graham.

Mifflin Puts Taxes On Installment Plan

Mifflin Township School Board last night voted to put tax payments on an installment basis, while McKeesport Council passed an ordinance relieving delinquent tax payers of accumulated penalties since 1929, including this year's, provided they are paid by December 1. A proposal to McKeesport Council to put tax payments on the installment basis, presented by the Seventh Ward Welfare Association, was filed for further consideration.

AUTO INJURIES FATAL TO 2

Isaac Davidson, 53, of 714 Shady drive, Mt. Lebanon, a storekeeper, died in Mercy Hospital last night from a skull fracture suffered when his truck collided with another at Bower Hill road and Middlecroft avenue. Davidson's truck, driven by Alexander Eddy, became unmanageable when the steering gear failed to function, according to the Coroner's report.

Charles Streyle, 45, of 1026 Liverpool street, died in Presbyterian Hospital from injuries suffered when an automobile driven, police said, by J. A. Simon, 48, of 4318 Murray avenue, struck him and his pushcart at West North and Galveston avenues. Simon's car ran on and hit an automobile driven by Ralph Yann, of 737 Lime street, at Irwin avenue, according to police.

RECOVERY SEEN BY ROBERTSON

SWAMPSCOTT, Mass., Oct. 12. (AP.)—A. W. Robertson, of Pittsburgh, chairman of the national committee on industrial rehabilitation, last night told the convention of the National Machine Tool Builders' Association "evidence of improved conditions is accumulating on every side."

Asserting that the program of his committee was built on a sound foundation of good business and not just a "pollyana-buy-now" movement, he said he believed the country's business was "steadily going downhill" up to last May or April.

Now, however, he said, gold no longer was going out of the country, banks were not closing; "confidence is coming back and money is being released from hoarding and coming into banks, so that the whole structure is steadying."

Coyne Quiz Session Postponed Week

The meeting of the Coyne committee investigating city and county government expenses scheduled for today was postponed until next Wednesday. When they last met the investigators in setting the date overlooked the fact that today, Columbus Day, is a legal holiday.

NEW COAL TAX TO BE FOUGHT

Independent coal dealers of the Pittsburgh district have taken the first steps toward forming an organization and will be present in City Council tomorrow afternoon to oppose an ordinance which they declare would put them out of business.

The new ordinance would provide that each coal dealer must have adequate storage facilities, with a scales of not less than five-ton capacity, and must pay the city $100 tax, with $5 additional for each truck after the first.

R. F. Sanguigni of the North Side Coal Company, acting chairman for the independent dealers, said:

"We don't object to paying the city a reasonable tax. We are fighting to keep from being put out of business."

The new ordinance is favored by the Pittsburgh Retail Coal Merchants' Association, including more than a score of dealers, nearly all of whom own coal yards.

According to Sanguigni, there are 2,300 independent dealers who have been trucking coal, largely from independent mines outside the city. Sanguigni declares the independents are delivering for 50 cents a ton less than association members are charging.

BOROUGH BONDS USED FOR LOANS

Liberty bonds belonging to West View Borough were used by the late borough treasurer, Harry J. Wagner, Jr., to obtain loans, a committee of auditors reported to the Council last night.

Auditors H. H. Wilt, Harry H. Herr and Charles W. Gollmar reported they had traced $3,500 of the bonds to the closed Citizens Trust Company of Bellevue. The shortage in borough funds totaled $9,854.

The auditors informed Council they were still working on apparent shortages in borough improvement funds and that a report would be made later.

Tax Receipt Jurors Locked Up for Night

Evidence to support the state's charge that 1,500 fraudulent tax receipts were purchased by Third Ward conspirators before the 1931 election was being offered today in the Criminal Court room of Visiting Judge Norman T. Boose, of Somerset County.

The jury was locked up last night, treated the same as a murder jury, on orders of Presiding Judge Frank P. Patterson. Before Judge Patterson sent the jury to the trial judge he explained to the members that the case was of grave importance, because it involved the very foundations of the election system.

He asked the jurors if they had been approached about the case, declaring it was their duty to reveal any attempts to influence them. All shook their heads to the Judge's inquiry.

The defendants are Ina Wayne, Negro, Third Ward woman politician; Gus Greenlee, Negro, alleged "numbers" operator; Clarence Webster, Negro, former deputy sheriff, and James Gross and Walter Rainey, Negroes, Hill District politicians.

Assistant District Attorney Earl R. Jackson charged in his address to the jury that Ina Wayne had procured 1,500 fraudulent tax receipts and that the others had assisted her.

Tenants Denied Water To Collect Rents

Rent collections in Braddock are being made or homes vacated by landlords who turn off delinquent tenants' water supply, William J. Caughey, Braddock superintendent of public works, said today.

Although there are many delinquent accounts on the books of the borough's water works, Caughey said, Braddock has not shut off water for non-payment of bills. But landlords have, he says, in some 40 or 50 cases.

Some relief is being given the waterless by the borough, which, at Caughey's order, turns on fire hydrants for an hour in early morning and late afternoon, principally in the Washington avenue district. Caughey says the step is necessary to prevent use of polluted Monongahela River water.

PITT CO-EDS . . THEY MADE THEIR OWN SCHOOL DRESSES

Pitt Girls Revive Art of Making Own Clothes

Many, if not most of the co-eds on the University of Pittsburgh campus, are reviving that lost art that their grandmothers knew so well of making their own dresses.

Dorothy Getsinger, president of Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority, and Jean Statler, a sorority sister, have made their own sport outfits and are proud of it. If the men admire the dresses as many do, the girls reply:

"We made them ourselves. They're home-made and we're proud of them."

The men usually blame it on the stock crash and call them depression dresses, but they always end up with an admiring compliment, saying:

HEATING PLANT JOB AWARDED

A contract for a new heating system at the Schenley Park Conservatory was awarded today by Public Works Director Edward G. Lang to the United District Heating Company, Inc., on a basis of $18,035.50. Public Works Engineers had estimated the cost at $22,000.

Three other contracts awarded were:

Concrete curb guards on Heth's Run Bridge, to Welsh Construction Company, for $2,558; curb guards on Larimer Avenue Bridge, to John Masi, Company, for $2,176, and repaving of Hazelwood avenue, from Greenfield avenue to Murray avenue, to Earl Burke, for $2,191.40.

Second Ship Lost In Treasure Hunt

LEWES, Del., Oct. 12.—(AP.)—The crew of the salvage ship Cape, grounded on Pea Patch Island dyke, were about ready to concede that some sort of curse must hang over the Spanish gold that went down with the British sloop Debraak in 1798.

The Cape, sister ship of the salvage vessel Katie Durm, which burned and sank two weeks ago, went aground and was wrecked last night, with the loss of valuable diving apparatus.

Demountable Rim Inventor, 70, Dead

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—(AP.)—Louis Henry Perlman, 70, the inventor, is dead. During an automobile trip in 1900, he had to change four tires and inflate each with a hand pump. The experience so discouraged him that he invented the demountable rim for auto wheels. The invention built his fortune.

TEACHER'S SUIT APPEAL HEARD

Whether slander was constituted by an alleged declaration by Harry E. Winner, principal of the South Hills High School, that the reason Strawder A. Ringer, of Pasadena street, was transferred in 1925 to South High School from the South Hills school as an instructor was "unprintable," was argued before the Pennsylvania Supreme Court here yesterday.

Ringer had appealed from a non-suit decision in Common Pleas Court in his fight for $50,000 damages. He claimed Winner had made statements linking Ringer's name to that of a girl pupil. A number of Ringer's claims were ruled out as having been filed after the expiration of the statute of limitations.

SITES SCANNED BY DIRECTORS; NEED VAULT

Though the Pittsburgh branch of the Federal Home Loan Bank is scheduled to open Saturday, officials of the bank say they are uncertain as to the location.

However, the old quarters of the Federal Reserve Bank at Liberty avenue and Ninth street are being given a house cleaning today. This location, along with several others, has been under consideration, directors say.

William E. Best, of Pittsburgh, member of the Home Loan Bank Board, has stated that every effort will be made to open the bank here Saturday. The bank will need a vault, which probably means a first floor location.

Best will attend the opening of a Home Loan Bank in Des Moines, Ia., Thursday, and an opening at Evanston, Ill., Friday. He expects to be present at the opening of the Pittsburgh bank Saturday.

Large numbers of subscriptions for stock in the Home Loan Bank from building and loan associations, savings banks and insurance companies in Pennsylvania, Delaware and West Virginia have been received at temporary headquarters at the Chamber of Commerce. The bank has been organized to lend on home mortgages up to 40 per cent of the value of the property.

ATONING GIRL BURNS SELF

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Oct. 12.—(INS.)—To atone for mutilating her sweetheart's face, pretty Eva Mae Powell, 23-year-old divorcee, turned herself into a human torch.

On the verge of death she lay in City Hospital here today, burned from her knees to her shoulders. Her body is permanently scarred.

She set herself afire at her home here after saturating her clothing with kerosene. She was saved from death by her mother, who smothered the flames with blankets.

Swathed in bandages she declared today she was glad she burned herself—that at last she had done pennance for slashing off an ear of Earl Harrington, 25, with a pocket knife in a moment of fury last July.

MORE AWARDS IN COACH CONTEST

Two more university scholarships, making a total of six, were announced today as additional awards for the coming year in the Napoleonic coach-building competition sponsored by the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph and the Fisher Body Craftsman's Guild.

This brings the guild awards up to $85,000, of which $30,000 consists of university scholarships. Trips to the Century of Progress Exposition in Chicago for two boys in each state and each Canadian Guild district, and 1,120 gold awards ranging from $15 to $100, account for the remainder.

U. S. BOYS WIN

The purpose of the Guild in increasing the number of scholarships, officials explained, was to extend the opportunity which the coach-building competition offers to boys of the United States and Canada. Four scholarships were awarded during the Guild's initial year, when the competition was limited to boys of the United States. Four were offered again last year, with Canadian boys competing, too. With a year's experience behind them, the boys of the United States were able, by a margin, to sweep the entire slate in the scholarship competition.

While it was likely that Canadian boys, with a year's experience in the Guild, would be able to capture a share of the four scholarships originally set up for the coming year, the Guild preferred to provide additional scholarships to take care of both sections. There will be one scholarship for the highest junior division boy in Canada, and one for the highest senior division boy.

ENROLLMENT FREE

There will be one for each of the two highest juniors and two highest seniors in the United States. There is no reason why every boy in this chapter who wants to share the scholarships and the numerous awards in gold—20 in each state—should not be at work on his model coach right now, with ample time to complete and submit a real winner next July. It doesn't cost a cent to enroll.

Cards may be obtained from manual training teachers, Boy Scout officials, dealers in General Motors cars, or from the Sun-Telegraph. Or boys may fill out and send in the coupon appearing in this issue. Guild membership button and card, and full directions for obtaining the free coach-building plans, will be mailed without delay, and you will be all set to get into this fascinating and profitable competition and earn your share of the $85,000 it offers in awards.

GIRL IDENTIFIES GANG SUSPECT

Signed confessions alleged to have been made by five of six suspects detailing their connection with a series of robberies and stickups in the last several months were read in North Side Police Court today. All were held over.

Betty Mueck, waitress in the First Avenue Restaurant, 101 Grant street, identified one of the suspects, Wilbert Elway, of 1225 Howard street, as one of two men who held up the restaurant last Thursday and robbed the proprietor, A. Andy, of $82.

Among the reputed activities of the gang, police say, were thefts of automobiles, kidnaping of a Negro garage watchman, and luring of several men to remote districts where they were robbed, and chain store holdups.

A sixth suspect, "Big" Ed Kramer, of 518 Taylor avenue, was taken in custody late yesterday. Police said, that while he is being held, they have no evidence that he participated in any robberies. The same was true, they said, of Marie Croner, 27 East General Robinson street. The others held, in addition to Elway, are Veronica Walker, 1225 Howard street; Edward Kern, East General Robinson street, and Edward Welsh, 328 Penn avenue.

ETNA ELKS' TAX RULE DELAYED

The Etna Elks must wait at least another month for the Borough Council to act upon their request to be exonerated from 75 per cent of the taxes on their building.

Council, all Elks but one, adjourned without acting on the measure. The School Board, all Elks but two, discussed and turned down the request.

A committee of Elks had asked Council and the School Board to exempt the lodge from 75 per cent of the taxes on the grounds that the building is used as a community center.

John D. McIntyre, secretary of the School Board, said the board could exonerate only for educational purposes. Although, he said, the building is used to some extent by the schools, it is not under school management.

Roy S. Morton, president of Council, said the measure would be discussed at a future meeting.

WHARF LAXITY DENIED BY LANG

Charges of lax operation of the city wharves were denied today by Public Works Director Edward G. Lang in answer to allegations by John Douglas, Jr., which will be aired at a public hearing by Council tomorrow.

Charges of conspiracy were preferred by Douglas against Lang, Chief Clerk Edward J. Foley, of the Bureau of City Property, and the late Edward J. McBride, City Wharfmaster, after Lang refused Douglas a lease for mooring sand barges on the Allegheny River.

In a communication to Council yesterday Lang said he was willing to have all records of the department aired. The only reason Douglas' application was refused, Lang said, was his refusal to pay a bill of $12,250 for previous leases.

'BOY EMPEROR' SEEKS THRONE OF CHINA

CHANGCHUN, Manchuria, Oct. 12.—(AP.)—A possibility that a large part of Northern China might be annexed to the new state of Manchukuo, with the aid of the Japanese army, and at least part of the old Chinese monarchy restored under the former "boy emperor," Henry-Pu-Yi, was predicted today by sources close to Pu-Yi's palace.

These sources described the move as a cherished ambition of Pu-Yi and his followers and said they hoped to be able to bring it about next spring after the Japanese army has occupied the province of Jehol, which was described "inevitable."

After that, the "Boy Emperor" and his associates were represented as believing the extension of the Japanese operations southward to the Pieping and Tientsin districts would be an inevitable sequel.

Pu-Yi, now dictator of the new Manchukuo state, under the advice of dozens of Japanese counsellors, recently received emissaries from the Chinese provinces south of the great wall, the sources of information said, and discussed with them the possibilities of such provinces as Hopei, Shantung and Shansi joining Manchukuo and restoring Pu-Yi to the throne where his Manchu ancestors ruled in grandeur for three centuries.

Such an ambition, if realized, would double the present territory of Manchukuo.

Ever since the occupation of Manchuria proper was completed last winter by the Japanese, there have been recurring threats of occupation of the province of Jehol, to the westward.

STUDENT BRIDE SUES HUSBAND

The college romance of Dorothy Nelson Riley, 21, of Wood street, Wilkinsburg, faded after several months of marriage, and she asked Judge W. Heber Dithrich, in Common Pleas Court, for a divorce from Charles S. Riley, of New Castle, for cruelty.

She was a student at Slippery Rock Normal College when she married, in January. She said she left their New Castle apartment on Easter after Riley had beaten her into unconsciousness and had hit her at other times on his drinking parties.

Felled at Phone

MRS. DOROTHY BAILEY

WOMAN BEATEN BY INTRUDER

Mrs. Dorothy Bailey, 25, of 7821 Bennett street, was in Pittsburgh Hospital today with a probable skull fracture, while East End police searched for an intruder who felled her with a piece of iron pipe as she talked on the telephone with her husband last night.

John D. Bailey, Jr., her husband, told police his wife telephoned him at the Brushton Theater, where he is employed. Bailey said the telephone chat was ended abruptly by his wife's screams. He hurried to his home and found her unconscious on the floor and the piece of pipe near by.

Michael Mason, who lives on the second floor, declared he had heard no unusual noises in the Bailey apartment. Police found nothing amiss in the place, they said.

BEWARE Half-Cured COLDS!

A half-cured cold is not only apt to recur again and again, but it is a constant drain on your vitality and exposes you to more serious trouble.

When you catch cold, be sure to treat it quickly and decisively. Don't depend on mere local or outside applications. Remember, a cold is an internal infection and requires internal treatment.

Don't put your trust, either, in a preparation that's good for a dozen things besides colds. Remember, a cold is a specific condition calling for a specific treatment. Many preparations that people commonly take for colds actually make relief more difficult because they are constipating and also make the system acid.

Fourfold Action Important

Because it does four things all at one time, the remedy to take for a cold is Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine!

First of all, Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine opens the bowels, gently but thoroughly—an important step in the relief of a cold. Second, it kills the cold germs in the system, drives out the poisonous infection and reduces the fever. Third, it relieves the headache and that grippy feeling. Fourth, it tones the entire system and fortifies against further attack.

This is the treatment a cold calls for, the treatment wherein lies real relief and safety!

Absolutely Safe to Take!

Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine may be taken with utter safty by young and old. It contains no narcotics and produces no bad after-effects. It does not upset the stomach, nauseate or make the head ring or swim. Its action is swift and certain, but harmless. Thousands, in every civilized country on on the globe, look upon it as their sure relief for colds and grippe.

In the form of dainty tablets, Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine is convenient and pleasant to take, as well as effective. Comes in handy, pocket size boxes, cellophane-wrapped, and sold by every drug store in America. To have Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine handy is to be forearmed against colds. Taken immediately at the first sign of a cold, a few of the tablets will usually expel it overnight and prevent the cold fastening itself upon your system.

Patricia Pitt's Sprightly Comment on Pittsburgh's Society Happenings

In Mayfair
—With—
Patricia Pitt

There was an all society fashion show yesterday—the models were society girls, the spectators were society, and a society woman, Mrs. Edward Jennings, who has a specialty shop, provided the intriguing costumes on display.

All this took place at the Junior League club rooms yesterday, with the price of admission a bundle of rummage. As a result, the Junior League Thrift Shop, Penn avenue, will be stocked affluently for some time.

The proceeds of the Thrift Shop are used, by the way, to maintain the Junior League Nutrition Clinic at the Falk Clinic.

Mrs. Frederick Gwinner III, was in charge with Clodagh McCune, Mrs. W. L. Jones, Jr., Mrs. Ellen Stone Bailey, Mrs. Harold Kipp, Mrs. W. McCook Reed, Mrs. William Standish III, as models yesterday afternoon.

Gown of Rose-Red

Two of the most unusual were worn by Mrs. Standish. One was of heavy white pebble crepe with a square neckline and a wide cloth of gold belt. The most distinctive touch were the cartridge pleated bands extending from the high waistline in front, over the shoulder to the waistline in back.

Another gown she modeled, a dinner dress, had a skirt of black tied at the high waistline with a sash of the material, ending in deep black fringe at the hem-line. And the bodice of draped white crepe had long dolman sleeves. And in front the neckline was to the throat and in back cut in a deep v.

* * *

Mrs. Ellen Stone Bailey was enchanting in a gown of soft, rose-red, dull velvet having a brief train, the wide neckline cut deeper at one shoulder than the other, and having brief, flared capes cut in one piece with the bodice over the shoulders.

Unusual Models

Mrs. John McKelvy, who is tall and slender and blonde, was charming in a black velvet gown having puffed sleeves covering the top of the arm. The velvet was shirred at the low hipline and the skirt was cut with a brief train.

One of the loveliest gowns, a sapphire blue soft crepe with the hiplength tunic caught up in back with a jeweled pin, was worn by Mrs. Harold Kipp.

Mrs. W. McCook Reed wore a dinner gown of heavy white, rough crepe having wide bands of dull purple, yellow and white extending from shoulder to shoulder, and forming brief sleeves. Another distinctive gown she modeled was of creamy satin with slits in the back of the bodice as the novel decolletage.

Wrap of Velvet

But I must mention some of the sports things. Mrs. James McKay modeled a dark brown wool suit having a hip-length, fitted jacket and the gayest blouse of striped red and white and dark brown with a wide scarf of the material tied in ascot style.

One of the smartest frocks I've ever seen was a gray woolen sports gown modeled by Mrs. John McKelvy. Bands of the material starting in a point at the waistline extended over the shoulders to form epaulettes. Self-covered buttons extended from the neckline in back to the waistline and finished the long tight-fitting sleeves.

THAT TIME IS NOT ALWAYS SERVICE

A low price does not signify a BARGAIN. To the contrary you usually get what you pay for. Quality and FAIR PRICE is the only true measure of value. Cleaning and Dyeing is not a commodity—it's a SERVICE, and the more you slight that service, the greater you lessen the value. You may (and it is done) cut that service until you turn a value into a loss. The customer suffers.

SPEED is not the real essence of SERVICE. Time is only one little element of service. The Quick Lunch Counter, for instance, boasts of its quick service. But you don't go to a Quick Lunch Counter for a real meal. No—you go where it takes a little longer. Where you can get personal attention, a daintily served, specially prepared, thoroughly cooked, digestible, satisfying meal. That's SERVICE—But it takes time.

A hurried job is seldom a good one. That's why FOOTER'S, with sixty years experience, beg of their customers a few hours consideration in treatment of their garments—for your benefit, not ours, that we may render you a SERVICE WITH A CONSCIENCE—RELIABLE—DEPENDABLE—DELUXE.

Prices positively lower than competition, Quality considered.

Sketched in Paris

Paris Bureau,
Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, Oct. 12.—The black wool dress for more or less formal afternoon wear is one of the new Paris ideas for winter. It is a strange combination of several other types of dress: it is formal, yet so designed that it may be worn on the street without a wrap; it has a low-necked line, yet is so designed that it is also high-necked.

* * *

THE BOREA dress in today's sketch is an interesting example. The neckline is doubled; there is first of all a rather low, wide decolletage—one that is broad and shallow at the front, but is deep at the back, extending in U-shaped, almost to the waistline. There is a second neckline, furnished by the white georgette crepe which fills in the lower decolletage—it comes up close around the throat and ties in a flat cravat at the center-front.

* * *

OTHERWISE THE dress itself is simple enough—fitted waistline, held in by a stitched belt of the fabric, skirt cut on the bias and swinging into a widened flare from the hips, and long, rather close-fitting sleeves. The material is a lightweight wool crepe, marked here and there with embroidered dots in the same black matt wool as the dress.

* * *

THE BIRD'S-HEAD brooch—a favorite of Maggy-Rouff's—is one of eight types, including parrots, turkeys, roosters and other birds, designed to bring good luck to their wearers. The afternoon bag, of black antelope, has a banded frame, alternating marcasite and galalith.

Dentifrices by the hundred

. . . but only one 5-way dentifrice

1 There are scores of products to clean your teeth . . . but none that will do it as effectively and safely as Squibb Dental Cream.

2 You can find dozens of materials to polish your teeth . . . but few that will do it as well and safely as Squibb's, with its complete freedom from grit.

3 To prevent bleeding of the gums . . . the safe way is the Squibb way, which keeps the gum tissues healthy and avoids injury from astringents or other irritants. No dentifrice can cure frequently bleeding gums. Such a condition requires the attention of a dentist.

4 Squibb Dental Cream is always most economical because it gives greatest protection. It is the purest and safest that can be made, and is sold at the lowest price manufacturing cost permits. Its use is true economy.

5 Squibb Dental Cream will help to check decay by combating the germ acids which cause decay.

Not merely in one or two ways but in all the ways that a dentifrice can contribute to oral health, Squibb Dental Cream is unequaled. In all-around efficacy it stands alone, because of Squibb's balanced formula. Every ingredient is tested, checked, selected with scientific accuracy. There are no gaps — no weak spots. When you buy a dentifrice, you have no opportunity to analyze its formula for yourself. But you can rely on the 75-year reputation of the House of Squibb, and on the Priceless Ingredient of every Squibb Product — the Honor and Integrity of the Maker.

Don't be careless about the choice of a dentifrice. There's too much at stake. Visit your dentist regularly. And give your teeth the protection of Squibb Dental Cream at least twice a day.

AMOCO APPROVED LUBRICATION

REACHING the BALL and SOCKET JOINTS

THE universal joints of a car might well be compared to the ball and socket joints of the human body. Nature takes care of the latter, but only specialized lubrication can look after these vital mechanical joints of your car properly.

In the picture, Amoco Universal Joint Grease is being applied with the proper gun. Only this heavy, fibrous grease with its high melting point is tough enough to withstand the constant crushing action of the universal joint.

Keep your car healthy. You only need drive into one of our stations and say "Amoco Approved Lubrication." It's not a penny extra. You pay no more than for the old fashioned "Grease Job".

You'll find it's only one of the smiling "extras" in free service that goes hand in hand with our station operation. They join with our products in giving you more for your motoring dollars. And the products are the famous Amoco-Gas—Orange American Gas—and Amoco Motor Oil and Lubricants.

IN Amoco Approved Lubrication Service, there's a specialized Amoco lubricant for every part requiring lubrication—a specialized gun for its application, and a trained man for the job.

AMUSEMENT NOTES -:- Doings of Movie Stars, News of Theater -:- STAGE, SCREEN

Miss Lombard, Cagney to Co-Star

By HARRISON CARROLL
(Copyright, 1932, King Features Synd., Inc.)

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 12.

When James Cagney steps before the camera for the first time in many months, he will have the blonde Carole Lombard for a leading woman.

Thus another important player loan is effected, and Warners can breathe a sigh of relief. Cagney is money in the box-office to them and they are eager to get "Bad Boy" into production.

This picture, originally known as "The Lowdown," represents Cagney as a promoter press-agent, who puts over beauty pageants, treasure hunts and like schemes. It is said to be a page, possibly exaggerated, from the life of its author, Houston Branch.

In coming over to Warners, Carole will be on the same lot with husband Bill Powell. And, incidentally, she plays in a picture which he was once scheduled to do.

NAVARRO SHAVES HEAD

Showing what store M. G. M. sets by this picture, they have assigned Clarence Brown to direct it.

On the stage, you must know, it was a Belasco success and a big one.

BOULEVARD TOPICS

Chinese actress Anna May Wong wants to dress up in boy's clothing and do that lead in "Broken Blossoms." Afraid it's just a dream, though.

Gwili Andre almost walked out of her role in "Man and Wife", but changed her mind and everything is serene now. If Paramount were paying anyone for the title of "Blonde Venus," the money would go to the heirs of Emile Zola. The famous French author used that name for a play in his novel, "Nana", which may be where Josef Von Sternberg got the idea. You'll recall there was talk of the German star doing this story . . . Samuel Goldwyn went to Pomona for a sneak preview of Ronald Colman's new picture, "Cynara." One of my scouts reports it went over big . . . Joseph M. Schenck will fly to Mexico City in a plane piloted by Col. Roscoe Turner. Golfer Leo Diegel will go along to try those Mexican courses . . . Georges Carpentier, former light-heavyweight champion of the world, is in town and paying attention to Lita Grey Chaplin. Saw them dancing at the Frolics, well known late-spot, which reopened here the other night with a pack of celebrities at ringside tables. Georgie Raft was there with Edith Roark. Other stellar lights present included Carmel Myers and Ralph Blum, Evelyn Brent and Harry Edwards, Roscoe Ates and his family, Lew Cody and Buster Keaton with a couple of beauts, Harry Joe Brown, William Gargan and Leslie Howard.

Crazy

Pensive

THE GLOBE TROTTER

Pictures of the havoc wrought by a cloudburst near Bakersfield, Cal., are presented in the current issue of Hearst Metrotone News. A great wall of water swept through Tehachapi Pass, lifted a freight train from its tracks, killing 30 men, demolished buildings and created a property loss of more than $2,000,000. Hearst News is being shown in the Penn, Fulton and other theaters.

A group of American girl students at a school for music at Mondsee, Austria, were among others to greet the former Crown Prince of Germany on a recent visit to the school.

A magnificent picture shows the arrival in New York of the new Italian steamship Rex on her maiden voyage. Tugs and other harbor craft scream a welcome as the big vessel passes up the river, with the Manhattan skyline as a background.

The start from Washington of the Bicentennial Futurity for pigeons is shown, when 10,000 birds are let loose at one time to see which one will fly home in the fastest time.

Columbia's team of football stars is seen trouncing Princeton by a score of 20-7 in their only scheduled game since 1905, and with the first victory for Columbia in 32 years.

Roland Young Signs For Feature Role

Roland Young has been signed for a featured role in the Charles R. Rogers production, "The Billion Dollar Scandal," which is being made for Paramount release. According to Harry Joe Brown, associate producer and director of the picture, Young will depart from his usual humorous characterizations to portray the role of a pickpocket who becomes involved in high finance. Robert Armstrong is the only other player so far signed for this production.

Old Rule Broken by Mrs. Barrymore

Dolores Costello Barrymore, the lady who domesticated Don Juan and turned John Barrymore into Hollywood's proudest papa, seldom sees her husband's pictures. It is a family rule in the Barrymore menage that work ends when the studio gates close, but when "A Bill of Divorcement," Barrymore's latest film for RKO Radio Pictures was previewed on the West Coast, Dolores attended.

-:- Plays and Players -:-

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

When Ed Wynn comes to the Nixon as the attraction following "The Pure in Heart," now showing in that house, he will give only five evening performances. Tuesday evenings now are blank in the schedule of the Wynn show, the reason being that the star must go to New York immediately after the opening performance to broadcast his regular radio feature each Tuesday evening. He will arrive back here Wednesday in time for the matinee. There will be eight performances during the week, an extra matinee being listed for Friday. Wynn has been following this routine during the engagement in Boston and elsewhere. His show, "The Laugh Parade," will open Monday, October 24. Manager Harry Brown, of the Nixon, having decided not to book any attraction for the week of October 17, not being certain that anything available would be up to the quality expected in "Forward March," which was canceled when the music situation was uncertain.

* * *

"Animal Kingdom," to be presented next week by the Edwin Vail Players in the Pitt, will seem different to those who saw it in its premiere here last December. Before it was presented on Broadway for a six-month run, it was revised by its author, Philip Barry, and it will be shown in the Pitt in its revised form, with Alden Chase in the part originated here by Leslie Howard, who scored one of his strongest New Work successes in this play. Brilliance of dialogue is always a mark of a Barry play and the author is thought to be at his cleverest in "Animal Kingdom," for which seats are now on sale.

* * *

Thurston Hall, former fellow townsman, yesterday told a local friend that he is leaving the cast of "The Pure In Heart" at the end of the week because it gives him practically no latitude. More latitude for Thurston, please!

* * *

Earle Larrimore will not be the Wang Lung of "The Good Earth," when that Guild play reaches New York next week—perhaps before. Claude Rains was in Pittsburgh all last week rehearsing the part and may take his place in the cast tonight. Perhaps he already has done so.

BITS OF LIFE

All in a Day

By MARK HELLINGER

Flat Foot.

DOWN ON Tenth avenue they still talk about Big Mike Wenzel. About what a tough cop he was. How he broke a gang leader's leg with one hefty swipe of his night-stick. And how he always longed to be a detective.

That was Big Mike's ambition. He always had a hunch that he was a Sherlock Holmes and a Philo Vance all rolled into one. Maybe he was. And maybe he wasn't. That's logic for you.

He was a typical cop of the old school. A big, raw-boned, barrell-chested fellow with a ruddy face and tremendous feet. The kind who, 20 years ago, wore a fawn-colored helmet and filched bananas from the corner fruit stand.

That was Big Mike. And, from the day he was appointed to the force, he was assigned to the toughest spots in town. They finally placed him on Tenth avenue in the Chelsea section, and forgot about him.

And there it was that Big Mike Wenzel achieved his reputation for being a tough cop. No gang of hoodlums ever tried to intimidate him twice. No ward leader ever ordered him to take it easy with certain gang leaders.

Perhaps that was Big Mike's trouble. He felt that he was being paid to keep law and order, and he kept it. Even if he had to start a riot to do it.

He thought that his methods would eventually win him promotion. He hated the idea of being a "harness bull" all his life. He longed to roam the streets in civilian clothes and trail desperadoes.

"Take the Civil Service examination. If you come out near the head of the sergeants' list, the commissioner may assign you to detective headquarters. Try it. You can't lose anything."

But this cop was short on education and long on ideas. He knew that he would stand but a slight chance in the examination. Yet, if he continued to do his work properly, they couldn't keep him down forever. The commissioner would have to appoint him to the detective division eventually.

So he reasoned. But things don't always work out that way. Big Mike Wenzel spent 25 years on Tenth avenue without getting any more than an occasional pat on the back.

One day he went to the inspector of his district. It took him plenty of time to work up the nerve, but he finally accomplished it. This would be his big chance.

"Inspector," he said. "My name is Michael Wenzel. I'm assigned to post 47 on Tenth avenue. I've been in the department for 25 years come a week Wednesday. It means I'm eligible to retire.

"But I don't want to, Inspector. All my live long life I've been trying to do the right thing. I've never been up on charges and my record is clear. I want to be a detective. Can you help me, Inspector?"

"I'm sorry, Wenzel," he said. "But I can do nothing to help you. In the first place, promotions are under the direct jurisdiction of the commissioner. In the second place, you're a little beyond the age for the place, you're too good a flatfoot on Tenth avenue to throw away.

"See what I mean?"

"Yes," he said. "I see what you mean, inspector. I'm a flatfoot. Just as you said. I'm not good for anything but pounding a beat. And I'm too old. Yes. I see what you mean."

He retired within a month ...

Michael Wenzel now had a nice pension. Instead of buying a farm, and moving out into the country with his wife, he determined that he would show the whole New York Police Department what a detective he was.

He applied for a job as private policeman in a bank. But he soon found that the banks had more private cops than they needed. So that was out.

For a whole year he couldn't locate a job. The world seemed full of retired cops looking for work. Then came a lucky break. He heard that one of the subway companies was hiring private detectives for special work.

Big Mike promptly applied for a job. And quite as promptly, he got it. The head of the private force explained that good detective work was needed.

"A lot of subway riders," said his new boss, "are using slugs in the turnstiles instead of nickels. When they come to the turnstile, they drop round pieces of lead covered with tinfoil, and other slugs. Those things open the turnstile and thus our company loses thousands of dollars yearly. We've gotta stop that."

Big Mike grinned.

"It's a cinch," he said. "A cinch, I'll stand near the turnstiles and watch the magnifying glass on the side. All the nickels show up big there, and it will be easy to spot the slugs. It's a cinch."

Wenzel was assigned to one of the busiest subway stations in the city. Many thousands of people passed through those turnstile daily. And Big Mike stood watching the magnifying glasses with a very wise look.

The first night he reported that no slugs had been passed. He had scrutinized every face and watched every nickel that passed into the turnstiles. Everyone had been honest.

His boss frowned. He produced a large cloth bag and opened it. The contents spilled upon his desk. They were slugs. Many of them.

"See these, Wenzel?" he said. "They were passed at your station today. You'll have to do better than that."

The same thing happened the next night. And the next. Somehow, Big Mike couldn't seem to spot the culprits. After a week, his boss told Big Mike that he would be given one more chance to make good.

The very next day, Big Mike got his chance. He looked into one of the magnifying glasses, and plainly saw a phony nickel. A tall, well-dressed man, with a cane, had passed it. Wenzel collared him quickly.

"So," he said as he cuffed the man behind the ear, "you'll be after passing bad nickels, huh? Well, Big Mike Wenzel has been watching for you, my boy. And now you'll go to jail in a hurry."

"But, please—" the man begged. "I—"

"Never mind that," retorted the cop, as he pushed the prisoner against the wall. "Save that for the judge."

Quite a crowd collected immediately. One woman spectator was visibly distressed. She tapped Big Mike on the shoulder. He turned.

"And what would you be wanting, madam?" he said.

"Don't arrest that man," she said. "He—"

Big Mike glared.

"And why not? I caught him, didn't I? After 25 years on the force, I ought to know a crook when I see one. I'll be thanking you to mind your own business."

"All right," the woman said quietly. "I will. But I just wondered if you noticed that your prisoner is stone blind?"

HEAR SLEUTHS AT DEATH TRIAL

LOGAN, W. Va., Oct. 12.—(AP.)—Officers who searched the territory on Trace Mountain where the body of Mrs. Thurman was found by a deaf-mute berry picker, testified today at the trial of Clarence Stephenson, charged with slaying her.

The officers told of identifying the body as it lay in a ditch near the top of the mountain and of finding the slain woman's pocketbook and one shoe some distance away.

They also testified to finding what they termed bloodstains in an automobile owned by Harry Robertson, president of the Logan City Commission and available to his Negro employe, Stephenson. The stains, they said, were under the floor mat in the rear compartment.

Firearms found in the home of Robertson, who was arrested but not indicted in the case, were described by the officers as the prosecution prepared to close its case.

Grateful Relief Brought by FOLEY PILLS

So you feel achy all over, miserable and blue? Your head feels "crowded" your nerves quiver, you have pin-and-needle cramps—your appetite has gone and you feel weak as a cat. Don't fill your stomach with tonics or laxatives or rheumatism remedies. How can they help if it is your kidneys.

The job of the kidneys is to strain the uric acid and other poisons out of your blood. They purify your blood, that's it. Now you must not let these acids stay in the kidneys or they'll get back in the blood and poison your whole body. That's why your kidneys must pass 3 pints of "water" a day. Let them fail and you know it. Your appetite goes back on you, so does your pep, your sleep, and your nerves—your back hurts, your ankles and feet may swell up and you feel cranky and sick.

Now see what a wonderful change takes place after you start on Foley Pills. Kidney action increases at once. Out go these acids. Burning stops. Sleep is sounder, and none of this getting-up business. You feel like "somebody."

Your druggist has Foley Pills. Sells a lot of them, because most people know how good they are. Don't cost much either—but they certainly do a grand job. If they don't, your money back any time you want it. © 1932

"GIVE US MORE for our money!

"FOLKS, I'm a plain man, and a plain man ought to speak plain. Better speakers could take you from the rock-bound coast of Maine to California's sunny shores in less than 30 seconds. But I get around and I talk to folks. What we all want is more for our money. A man can't put the 'economic situation' between two slices of bread even if a lot of it is 'boloney'. He wants to know where he gets off.

"So I'm sticking to facts—facts that hit your pocketbook the right way. My platform is the 'Regular American' platform. My ticket is the Economy Ticket, and my candidate is Orange American Gas.

"And right now I'm going to make a broad statement. Orange American Gas is the best gas you ever watched a dial slip into a tank. And it's always sold for what it is—the finest gasoline selling at regular gas price.

"When you ease your car up to an Orange American Pump you always figure—'Here's where I go easy on the pocketbook.' Orange American Gas is the regular gasoline that rates 12% better than U. S. Government motor gasoline specifications, PLUS exceptionally high anti-knock rating. Yet it sells at no extra cost! And a lot of extras come back in the way of heaps more power, more mileage, and a whole sight less repair bills.

"Paste that name in your hat—Orange American Gas! Remember the 'Regular American' platform and the good old Economy Ticket. More for your money's my promise, and Orange American Gas will make it good." The AMERICAN OIL CO.

M'CURDY SHOWS NEW LIFE

SPORT COMMENT

By James J. Long

Ruth's Future Changed. Niehoff's Triple Feat.
Yost Enlightens Alumni. Petrolles Reverse Act.

M'CARTHY'S LONG PACT BLOCKS BABE

IF THERE HAD been any doubt of the intention of Col. Ruppert to send Babe Ruth along to manage some other American League club at the end of his playing days, it would have been removed by the action of the New York magnate in signing Joe McCarthy to pilot the Yankees for three years more. That kills any possibility of Ruth's becoming manager of the Yanks, reported from time to time as certain to follow the completion of Babe's active career.

Joe McCarthy

Ruth, 39 next February, probably will be done as a player in another season, most certainly in two years at the outside. He couldn't be made to draw any extra receipts as a Yankee coach, but as a manager in another city he would serve to stir up new interest and help every club in the league. If the New York managerial post were open at that time, the Bambino, of course, would be the logical choice for it, but that's closed now with the retention of McCarthy to lead the club to the end of 1935. So it's clear that Ruth is slated to go elsewhere when his playing days are over, possibly at the close of 1933. They've got to make him a manager, and they won't need two managers in New York, Boston still looks like the best bet.

WASHINGTON AND JEFFERSON players report having experienced in their game at Detroit the enforcement of new new kickoff rule for the first time. Pete Rajkovich received John Fife's kickoff and carried it from his own seven-yard line to mid-field, only to learn that the play was illegal.

Detroit had not had the required five men in front of its 45-yard mark and was penalized five yards for the oversight. It was necessary to kick off again, and this time Rajkovich returned only to his 24-yard line, a loss of 26 yards. The new rule was adopted to prevent the formation of a flying wedge by the receiving team.

THERE IS ONLY one college on the Notre Dame schedule for this season that holds an edge on the Irish in the won-and-lost record of past competition. That is the University of Kansas, to be encountered in Lawrence on November 5.

The teams met only once. That was way back in 1904, when L. J. Salmon was coach of the Irish. Kansas won, 24 to 5. Notre Dame lost three games out of eight that season. Kansas has had strong teams in recent years, one of the main factors in the improvement having been the excellent line coaching of Mike Getto, Pitt's all-America tackle of 1928.

RUSS OLIVER, a sophomore back at Michigan, has hands so large he can pick up a basketball with one mitt. Ralph Cannon recalls that when Oliver was the outstanding prep school fullback of the country at Culver, he made use of his large hands in an unusual trick play in football. After a scrimmage near the sideline, Oliver took the ball by the nose, stood up and held it beside his leg. Then he began to walk casually along the side line, with the ball hidden on the side farthest from the enemy. He got past everybody except the safety man, and had a touchdown almost in his grasp, but he broke into a run a little too soon and was chased out of bounds.

Fielding H. Yost

UNIVERSITY OF MICHIGAN alumni who wanted hard schedules and undefeated teams at the same time, received an answer from Fielding H. Yost that left them with no room for further argument. "If you have to win every game," the old coach explained, "we can make schedules so that we can win all the time.

"But nobody would enjoy it much. On the other hand, if we book real contests, we are bound to lose, some of the time. So you will have to get some of your pleasure out of the efforts of Michigan teams on the field, instead of getting it all from the results on the scoreboard."

IN HIS FIRST season as manager of the Dodgers, Max Carey fined and suspended more players than his predecessor, Wilbert Robinson, did in the entire 18 years of his reign. One of the Brooklyn suspensions, however, did not come about through Carey's orders.

It develops that around mid-season Dazzy Vance was suspended for one day by Commissioner Landis. The suspension came after the commissioner received a letter from Vance. What Dazzy wrote is not known, but it peeved Landis not a little.

AN ACHIEVEMENT BY Bert Nichoff seems deserving of a place on the list of unusual managerial feats in baseball. Nichoff won three pennants with three different clubs in the same league. It was in the Southern Association that he registered his triple success as manager. He drove Mobile to the top in 1922, landed Atlanta first in 1925, and steered Chattanooga to the flag this year by a two-point margin over Memphis, following up with a victory in the Dixie series. Nichoff will be remembered as a former National League second baseman. Pittsburgh had him in the spring of 1911, but sent him to Indianapolis before the season opened. He was with the Phils when they won their only National flag in 1915, and also played for the Reds, Cardinals and Giants.

WHILE AWAITING THE decision of Commissioner Landis on Rogers Hornsby's protest of the action of the Cubs in counting him out of a share of their world series money, friends of Manager Charley Grimm say the latter had nothing to do with the Bruin vote.

Grimm purposely remained out of the clubhouse while the Chicago players were balloting on the division of the dough, and didn't know until the Cubs told him afterward that Hornsby had been ignored and that Mark Koenig had been voted only a portion of a share.

HUMBERT J. FUGAZY, whose show featuring Tony Canzoneri and Frankie Petrolle at Ebbets Field in Brooklyn tonight will wind up the outdoor boxing season in the East, is almost invariably the last of the summer sock merchants to fold up. October is a tricky month for outdoor fistic spectacles, but Fugazy generally manages to get a break for his final program, though he did have to put tonight's show back from last Wednesday.

For several years the Signor has been holding the closing New York show in the open. His most notable final offerings were Jack Sharkey and Harry Wills in 1926, Paulino Uzcudun and Big Boy Peterson in 1927, Young Corbett III and Sammy Baker in 1928, and Sharkey and Primo Carnera last year.

Frankie Petrolle

HAVING TAKEN TURN about at trouncing Battling Battalino until they ruined him as a big attraction, the Petrolle brothers will now attempt to put Canzoneri through the same process. Frankie will undertake the first half of the job in Fugazy's main event tonight, and Billy will try to complete it on November 4. In the case of Battalino, Billy gave the latter two severe beatings and then, after Bat had been softened up, Frankie came along and handed him two more. Now Frankie hopes to return the favor. He can't win the lightweight title tonight, as it is an over-the-weight match, but he thinks he can soften up Canzoneri to such an extent that Billy will be able to grab the crown in next month's championship fight. It's a swell plan, but the chances for the success of part of it, at least, do not look at all promising. The victim of any beating that may be handed out tonight is more likely to be Petrolle than Canzoneri.

CRACK TEAMS TO CLASH IN AA TILT

By JULIUS LEVIN

New Kensington will draw the spotlight of the Western Pennsylvania scholastic football Saturday afternoon when New Kensington and McKeesport, both undefeated so far this season, tangle in one of the four Class AA Conference duels carded for that day.

The New Kensington contest brings together two of the strongest elevens in the race for the Conference crown. The teams are evenly matched and followers of the two contenders are anticipating a tough battle from start to finish.

Carl Glock's eleven from the Allegheny Valley shows the way to all rivals in the Conference race with victories over Norwin and Wilkinsburg, while the Tubers, coached by Bill Sullivan, holds a victory over Monessen. Both teams have played three games to date. Wilkinsburg was the only eleven to score on New Kensington, while McKeesport's goal has been kept free from invading forces. The records of the two schools follow:

McKEESPORT
Mckeesport	20	Glassport	0
*Mckeesport	14	Monessen	0
McKeesport	52	Tarentum	0
Total	86		0

NEW KENSINGTON
New Kensington	46	Indiana	0
*New Kensington	7	Norwin	0
*New Kensington	13	Wilkinsburg	6
Total	66		6

*Class AA Conference game.

One of the shining lights for the McKeesport eleven this season has been Tom (Barr) Spalla, line-crushing fullback of the Tubers. Spalla, one of the McKeesport veterans, is enjoying his best season with the Tubers and he will bear watching at New Kensington Saturday. He played a prominent role in the Thanksgiving Day battle with Clairton at Clairton last season. Andy Jakomis is another speedy back who has been playing a brilliant game for the Tubers. They are expected to lead the attack against the Glockmen.

School Notes

November 12 and 26 are open on the Sharpsville High football card for games at home or abroad. Teams interested in arranging games for either of these dates call Sharpsville 247 and ask for the faculty manager.

Butler High, undefeated and unscored on in three successive games, including two Class A opponents, Vandergrift and Ellwood City, has a candidate in the running for a berth on the all-W. P. I. A. L. eleven in Jock Sutherland, brilliant tackle. Sutherland has played a consistent game in the line, one of the reasons Butler is in the running for the Class A championship. Another Butler dependable is Sherman at fullback. Butler plays at Tarentum Saturday.

Beaver Falls High, Coach Howard Heckathorne's contender for the Class A title, is not being given much assistance by its opponents. While Beaver Falls has scored three straight victories over Class A rivals, its point average is 100, as all of the defeated teams have failed to win a game over a class opponent. A victory over Midland, on Saturday, however, will be good for 110 points.

Wilkinsburg has two of the fleetest backs in the W. P. I. A. L. circles in Bardes and Hepner. Wilkinsburg is not going to win any championships this season, but the Carrollites nevertheless have one of the best backfields in the district.

Johnny Coleman's East Pittsburgh High eleven, undefeated in three Class B games, has a chance to pick up 120 points in its battle with Springdale, coached by Herb Ripper, at East Pittsburgh Saturday.

DODGER PREXY RESIGNS

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—(INS.)—The Brooklyn Baseball Club today announced the resignation of Frank B. York as president and the naming of Stephen McKeever, half owner of the club, to succeed him.

"Pressure of legal business" was assigned as the reason for the retirement of York, whose contract was not due to expire until March of 1933.

The action may carry more than surface significance and may mean that McKeever has succeeded in gaining a majority control of the club from the Ebbets interests.

Grovers Observe Homecoming Day

GROVE CITY, Pa., Oct. 12.—Homecoming Day will be observed at Grove City Saturday when the Grove City football team will be host to Westminster, the Crimson's oldest rival.

With few breaks, the schools have been keen rivals for 40 years, as it was in 1892 when the long series was inaugurated with two victories for the Titans.

This year's game affords Westminster the best chance for victory since 1916. The Titans won the 1924 game, 7-0, after the Grovers had registered 19 first downs to one. This year, however, Coach Lawther's crew will be favored due to a more impressive record against mutual rivals.

CAPTAIN ELECTED

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Oct. 12.—(A.P.)—Richard Bell, of St. Louis, one of the fastest sprinters in the East last season, has been elected captain of the M. I. T. track team. He was chosen to succeed Everett Coon, who did not return to college.

TOMORROW—86 YEARS ON THE SAME JOB.

M'CARTHY SIGNS NEW CONTRACT

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—(AP.)—The signing of Joseph Vincent McCarthy to a three-year contract as manager of the New York Yankees leaves only three major league managerial posts still to be filled.

At least one of these is virtually certain to be stricken off the list with the probable reappointment of George Gibson as manager of the Pittsburgh Pirates, who amazed the experts by finishing second in the National League race this year.

There is more than a little doubt, however, with regard to the managerial jobs with the Cincinnati Reds and the Boston Red Sox.

The release of Dan Howley left the Cincinnati post wide open. There has been no definite indication yet as to his successor, although the name of Donie Bush has been mentioned frequently in connection with the place.

The situation at Boston is a little different. Marty McManus, veteran second sacker, handled the team during the 1932 campaign after the resignation of John (Shano) Collins, but whether he will be given a contract for the full 1933 season still was open to question.

The reappointment of McCarthy to pilot the Yankees was a certainty, especially after his club had polished off the Cubs in four successive games in the world series.

"Marse Joe," who never played a major league game in his life, and yet has managed pennant winners in both big circuits, was understood to have been given a substantial increase in salary. It was said the new contract called for at least $100,000 for the next three years.

BOUTS CANCELED

MILWAUKEE, Oct. 12.—(AP.)—Cancellation of a boxing program scheduled here last night, featuring George Nichols and Tait Littman, light-heavyweights, was announced by the Wisconsin Boxing Commission. Victor Manhardt, chairman, said forfeits had not been posted and that Promoter Tom Andrews had been reprimanded.

SPORT VIGNETTES

They used to talk about the "killing instinct" and of "killers" in the ring. . . . Now they're "chillers," who "chill off" their foes with finishing punches. . . . Expressive, this American slanguage. . . . It really comes as a surprise that Joe McCarthy got a raise when he signed to continue as manager of the New York Yankees. . . . Judging from what we have read, it was Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig who won the world series.

Pitt had five acting captains in its game with Duquesne University at the Stadium last Saturday, and Ed Thorpe, one of the officials, told W. Don Harrison, Panther athletic director, that he never encountered any more gentlemanly conduct by captains anywhere. . . . When they wanted any information, the acting leaders would say: "Please, Mr. Official, how about this or that?" and, upon being answered, would reply, "Okay, sir," and go on with the game . . . The quintet were Heller, Hogan, Shotwell, Cutri and Mungas . . . On second thought, let's hope they weren't kidding the officials.

They do say in the East that Yale's football team of this fall, with ties against Bates and Chicago all that it has to show in the way of a record to date, is well on its way to being what Princeton was (or wasn't) last year . . . It seems the Elis miss most of all a young man named Booth . . . When Lafayette meets Colgate at Easton, Pa., Saturday, the coaching battle will be between Herb McCracken, for Lafayette, and Andy Kerr, for the other fellows . . . Andy was the freshman coach at Pitt when Herbert was playing in the backfield here for Pop Warner.

Phil Zwick, Cleveland boxer, who fights 'em anywhere from 122 pounds to 132, had to stop an opponent three times in one round in a bout in Cleveland last April to make it official, and he has the clipping to prove it . . . They had Babe Paleco in with him . . . Immediately after the starting gong, Zwick dropped Paleco with a left to the body . . . Paleco put on the dying gladiator act and Referee Mat Brock ignored his claim of a foul and counted him out . . . The commissioner overruled the referee and ordered the bout to continue after giving Paleco a rest.

When they resumed, Paleco went down under an invisible blow and Brock counted up to eight and then, in disgust, lifted Zwick's hand in token of victory, but Paleco jumped up, announced he had been given a short count and insisted upon being permitted to continue. . . . Again the commissioner gave him the break. . . . Zwick didn't feel like fighting it out along that line all spring, so he made a good job of stowing away his man with two more punches to the head for what really amounted to the third knockout of the round. . . . Incidentally, Zwick will be seen in action here shortly. . . . Matchmaker Lew Raymond, of the Arena, is trying to land a good opponent for him.—HARRY KECK.

Pitt Harriers Set For Army Meet

The Pitt cross-country team, fresh after a victory over the Westminster harriers, are ready and eager for the clash with Army at West Point this week. The run will be held Friday or Saturday. Definite word is expected today from Army officials.

The meeting with Army will furnish the first real test for Pitt, as the Westminster team wasn't up to its usual standard. If the Pitt team comes out ahead this week-end their chances for a very successful season will be great, as beating Army over its own five-mile course is considered somewhat of a feat.

SOCCER LEADERS TO BATTLE

Mt. Lebanon and Lawrenceville, two of the undefeated teams in the Central Soccer League, will clash at Mt. Lebanon in the feature game of the league next Saturday afternoon. Both clubs, playing their first season as new organizations, are being touted to fight it out for the title now held by the Union Switch.

While the leaders are fighting it out in the South Hills, Ambridge, with an in and out record, will travel to Swissvale to meet the Union Switch and Signal eleven.

McKeesport will meet Clan Douglas at Westinghouse High School Stadium. It is hard to see just how the Tubers will collect any points from the undefeated Clansmen.

The fourth game finds Westinghouse and the German Sports battling at Leslie Park. Tonight at South Park field, the Munhall High School soccer eleven will face a team selected from the West Penn Referees' Association. The proceeds of the game will go to the 1934 convention fund.

Wells Is 'Find' At End For Bethany

BETHANY, W. Va., Oct. 12.—Charles Wells, of Shadyside, O., is proving to be a real find for one of the terminal positions on the Bethany College football team. He saw some service last season as a tackle, and was shifted to end only a few days ago.

Coach John Knight has spent a great deal of time with his corps of ends in an attempt to develop a strong offensive pair. The wings have been the weak spots in the Bethany lineup for several seasons.

Moffett, Zingle and Still are the only other ends available to the Bethany mentor.

POLICE SHOOT TODAY

The eighth annual State Police revolver match is being held today at the Thomas A. McGinley estate, Sewickley Heights. Teams from as far away as Philadelphia are competing.

VETERAN MAY START AGAINST WASH-JEFF

By JESS CARVER

A familiar figure may appear in Carnegie Tech's starting backfield as it campaigns against Wash-Jeff in the Pitt Stadium Saturday afternoon. The Tech coaches are using Harry McCurdy, veteran quarter, consistently in the Plaid's workouts this week and it's a good bet, money, marbles or cigar coupons, that the Monongahela lad will be in there Saturday.

Harry McCurdy

McCurdy and Johnny Luch, the Pitt fullback, are somewhat of a pair. Both should be among the all-America candidates of the times, but both have had checkered careers. McCurdy stepped into a tough spot his sophomore year when he was elected to replace Howard Harpster, a task that would have taxed the abilities of most any footballer. McCurdy didn't do so badly, but he stumbled into a scholastic rut in 1930 and last year, was out of school.

He made up his work, however, changed his entire demeanor and returned to the squad this fall in great physical trim and apparently with the right attitude. Luch did the same thing at Pitt, but in Johnny's case, an attack of appendicitis laid him lower than a pair of treys and Izzy Weinstock stepped in and took away the starting job.

FINE PASSER

McCurdy is the best passer on the Carnegie squad and one of the best booters. He's had the experience, too, and always has been effective against Wash-Jeff. He seems to be getting the call over Stu Dueger and Angelo Bevevino, and it will not come as a shock if Harry starts out callin' 'em against the Presidents.

Ol' Kid Munhall, Tech's veteran trainer, who could double for Paul Whiteman if he, Munhall, didn't have so much hair, has been putting forth heroic efforts to get Co-Capt. Hooks Sample's bum leg in trim for the coming encounter. With Sample out of the lineup, Tech's chances of beating the Red and Black take a kick in the trousers. The injury has responded nicely to Munhall's expert treatment, said treatment consisting not only of medical skill, but a running fire of wisecracking that would cure the sore throat of a giraffe.

It looks like Bill Spisak at left halfback again. The little Midland boy gave a good account of himself last Saturday, and evidently is gaining more confidence with each game. He and Sayles are alternating at the position, but they are radically different types. Sayles is a wild line-bucker, while Spisak holds more to finesse and tricky running.

The Tipoff

Even though Joe Tormey may spend the afternoon perched on the bench, and Capt. Paul Reider not be able to stand up under an hour of heavy Bring Pitt's Panthers appear to be a mighty sweet bet against the Army Saturday. The Cadets can't be near as strong as they were a year ago. They lost their best back, Ray Stecker, a great tackle in Jack Price and said bye-bye to several other stars. Then, the week before their opening game, didn't Fullback Ed Herb, the Kay-dets most promising back, break a leg.

Pitt will have a more varied attack to launch against the Soldiers than the latter will have in store for the locals. The Panther aerial game, which has been held back so far this fall, is a thing of beauty and a joy forever when it is clicking. It is a form of attack only recently developed and enlarged upon by the Panthers. As an aid to the Pitt power plays, it is invaluable, for it serves to open the secondary defense, making it easier for the backs to get free once they have cracked the line.

If Fred Pusch comes to town today with the Erie Pros and plays fullback against the Rooneys tonight, he is likely to have a busy evening, for opposing him, on the crack Rooney line, will be two former teammates at Grove City, Boom Cantoni, the husky 200-pound guard, and Mose (Molar) Lantz, Lantz, who starred as a center for the Crimson, has been converted into an end by the Rooneys, where he does very well, thank you. Pusch fullbacked for the grovers and has been doing the same thing for the Pros.

Dissatisfied with the blocking and ball handling of his Preyies in the game at Detroit last week, Coach Hank Day has gone back to fundamentals in his tutoring this week. The tackling of the Red and Black also was not up to snuff, so the boys are having daily sessions with the tackling and blocking dummies.

The fullback trouble, which beset Coach Day from the very start of his fall work, is showing little, if any, inclination to let up. Bill King, Ellwood City's gift to the President squad, still is nursing a leg injury that kept him on the sidelines at Detroit last week. If he can get back into action by Saturday, the chances of the Red and Black taking Tech will be vastly improved. Otherwise, Al Demedowitz or Bob Deacie will complete the backfield, along with Zagray, Remeto and Shaffer.

A pair of newlyweds will take in the Pitt-Army clash at West Point Saturday. This morning, at Parkersburg, Russ Mercer, captain of the undefeated West Virginia eleven of 1922 and Miss Helen Devol, are to be married and they'll stop off at the Point on their honeymoon to watch the Panthers and Cadets. Russ' kid brother, John, is a second-string tackle on the Pitt squad.

West Virginia and West Virginia Wesleyan will be engaging in their twenty-fifth annual gridiron tussle in Morgantown Saturday afternoon. Wesleyan-Mountaineer battles always have been rugged ones, and the one this week is not likely to prove an exception. The Bobcats, even without the great Gyp Battles, appear to have a better balanced eleven and a stronger attack than ever. They'll give Greasy Neale's club plenty of trouble.

LARY, BRIDE SAIL

On Seals' Program

JOHN DAMBACH . . . PITT'S DEAN OF PHYSICAL EDUCATION . . . SPEAKER TONIGHT

An interesting talk on the evolution of physical training at the University of Pittsburgh, by Dean Dambach, will be a feature of the weekly radio program of the Trained Seals of the Sports Department of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, over WCAE tonight. The Haydn Four, of Grove City, will entertain with a series of songs. This is a Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph picture.

CRONIN MISSES BIRTHDAY IN HOME PORT

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12.—The chief present worry of Joe Cronin, successor to Walter Johnson as manager of the Nationals, is that he won't reach his San Francisco home for his birthday.

The glittering Joe, youngest pilot a major league ever has known, reaches the ripe age of 26 today while en route for California.

He said wistfully:

"I surely would like to be with the folks on my birthday, but I had to remain here a day or two longer to talk over club affairs with Mr. Griffith."

The president of the Washington club—Clark Griffith—always has been "Mr. Griffith" to the scintillating Senator shortstop.

"But it won't be long before I see those San Francisco hills again."

Those hills help keep Cronin in condition between seasons. He roams the rugged country around his native city every winter, and frequently turns lumberjack to harden muscles and ward off weight.

Speed and hustle are two assets Joe will demand of his team next season. He explained:

"That's all a manager can do. Big leaguers know what it is all about. And the manager can't play for them. His big job is to keep them on their toes all the way.

"All that I ask of the fellows is that they carry on every hit of the way. I'll not tolerate any loafing."

Cronin is not expected to be a stern disciplinarian, so far as the conduct of the players off the field is concerned. There's not to be any checking in of players at night. But they must be "right," he says.

Griffith has all confidence in the scrappy youngster. He says:

"Cronin is a natural leader. From the minute he joined us near the end of the 1928 season, he was taking responsibilities, pepping up the team and putting fight into it.

"He's popular with the other players and, while I am not looking for him to suddenly turn us into a championship team, I am confident that he will have the boys out there hustling and fighting."

PITT TO FACE ARMY WITHOUT JOE TORMEY

Pitt is preparing for and looking forward to the big game with the Army at West Point this week with Joe Tormey, varsity center star, out of the reckoning. It is almost certain that Erie Joe will not be able to perform against the Cadets, and George Shotwell, rangy sophomore, is filling his place.

Tormey had his bad back bumped in the Duquesne game, and isn't working out this week, although he is in uniform daily and follows the varsity up and down the field.

LOSS A BLOW

Against the well-drilled Army line, the loss of Tormey will be a severe blow, although Shotwell has performed very capably so far.

Capt. Paul Reider, injured right halfback, also is on the doubtful list as a starter for Saturday, although his chances of playing are much brighter than Tormey's.

Chief Scout Ulhard Hangartner, who has seen the Army in action for a year, rates Sasse's eleven as formidable as it was in 1931. Better and bigger backs, and a line with more offense polish are his chief reasons for so thinking.

BROWN FINE KICKER

In addition, he informed Dr. Sutherland, that in Travis Brown, the Army has as good a kicker as will grace Eastern gridirons all season. He is quite capable of keeping the Pitt offense down in a corner of the field all afternoon.

For those who are making the trip to the Point, either by the special excursion trains or by machine, the good news comes that the Cadets will be paraded in full dress uniform Saturday at noon.

There are few more stirring spectacles than the corps in its full dress.

Geneva's Troiano Twice Bad News for Thiel

By Howard Harpster

I notice that the story has broken in the newspapers about how Guido (Shorty) Troiano, one of my regular halfbacks at Geneva College, outwitted the Thiel College team in our game last Friday night, passing for a touchdown after the Thiel captain insisted upon the penalty being inflicted for an offside when we punted over the goal line on fourth down with seven yards to go from the Thiel 40-yard line. Thiel, naturally, was expecting us to punt again, and Troiano crossed it up entirely when he called for the pass. What has not been told is the fact that he came to me rather sheepishly after the play and admitted that he had asked the quarterback to order the pass, an unorthodox play under the conditions.

Howard Harpster

Well, it was a typical instance of a player succeeding by using his head in a pinch, and not the first time Troiano has delivered in a like manner, as I shall relate. Two years ago, we were playing the same college, Thiel, on its field at Greenville, and Troiano, just a freshman, came through with a bit of quick thinking that put the game on ice for us. The score was 6-6 until the last five minutes of play, when we scored again. By this time Art Grahame, our kicking and passing quarterback, was out of the lineup, and we had no one upon whom we could depend to kick or pass the try-for-point, and we wanted that extra counter badly, for, if we got it, the score would be 13 to 6, and the best Thiel could do if it got another touchdown, would be to tie us. Failure under the circumstances meant that Thiel might be able to beat us, 13 to 12.

SMART BACK

Troiano was quite equal to the occasion. Calling the team around him, he said:

"Fellows, all afternoon we have been passing the ball on the 1-2-3 signal. Now, when we line up for the kick, I'll call 1-2-3-4-5, and don't anybody be offside, and don't pass the ball before 5. They'll expect us to pass the ball on 3 and will charge offside and we'll be awarded the point. Let's go!"

And that is exactly what happened. We won, 13 to 6.

Troiano is the type of player that simply eats and sleeps and dreams football. He lives only to play the game and is a keen student of the rules and the psychology of the game. He is one of the smartest players with whom I have come in contact. I say this at the risk of having him take these words of praise to heart and letting them go to his head. Knowing him as I do, however, I do not think he will be so foolish as to permit his success in the past to have an adverse effect upon his playing in the future.

BROTHERLY LOVE ACT

Recently the Papales, of East Liberty, and the Dan Burns team, of New Kensington, played a scoreless tie in an Independent Conference game at Greenlee Field. Playing for the Papales was Joe Morbito, former Carnegie Tech star, and, for the Burns eleven, Tim Timerio, formerly of Geneva. A year ago, they played together for the Burns outfit.

On the way to the scene of battle, Timerio was heard to bemoan the fact that he would have to play against his pal and that one of his duties in backing up the line would be to send Morbito crashing to earth whenever possible.

The game got under way, and shortly Morbito went banging through center and was brought down with a terrific impact. Other players piled on, and, as they were pulling themselves off, the play dead, Morbito was heard to cry:

"Hey, quit trying to steal the ball, you big so-and-so!"

Then Joe looked up and saw it was his erstwhile buddie, Timerio, who had brought him down and made a desperate attempt to steal the ball. Sheepishly, he exclaimed:

"Oh, I didn't know it was you, Timmy. Nice play, boy—nice play!"

STAR PUNTER TO OPPOSE DUQUESNE

Ray Walker, a kicking gentleman from Georgia, is bound to prove a thorn in the side of the Dukes this Friday night, it was reported by Joe Bach, Night Rider line coach, who scouted Oglethorpe. Quarterback Walaker averages 60 yards on his kicks with ease. Not only that, but he is an excellent quick-kicker and a heady quarterback.

The Dukes are looking for plenty of trouble from the Oglethorpe University backfield. Last year's tussle left the Dukes with plenty of respect for the Oglethorpe line. Coach Bach was filled with something like awe concerning the speed of the Georgia ball carriers, especially Sam Baker and Phil Hildreth.

The Dukes worked on their defense yesterday for the second successive afternoon since the Pitt game and at the same time Layden decided that considerably more punch must be injected in the attack if the Dukes wish to score on the Oglethorpe gridders this week-end. The fact that the Dukes had to extend themselves last year to annex their 6-to-0 victory has stamped the Oglethorpe game as being one of the most difficult on the present schedule.

Young Gizzy Wins Unpopular Verdict

DONORA, Pa., Oct. 12.—Young Gizzy, brother of Battling Gizzy, professional lightweight boxer, won the judges', but not the fans', verdict in a torrid three-round battle with Onzlow Watson at the amateur boxing show staged by the International Bowling League here last night.

In the feature bout of the card, John Bell, of the Todd A. C., checked the winning streak of Steve Levendosky, of the Patton A. C., after the latter had won six bouts by knockouts. The summary:

156-pound class—John Bell, Todd A. C., defeated Steve Levendosky, Patton A. C., 3 rounds.

Sutherland, Waddell Laud Y Campaign

Coaches Jock Sutherland, of Pitt, and Bob Waddell, of Carnegie Tech, are watching the efforts of the workers' teams in the Downtown Y. M. C. A. membership drive this week, which have been named after the two local universities.

At the kickoff dinner at the "Y" last night, at which the drive for 800 acquisitions was started, messages from Jock and Bob were read. Sutherland years ago was a member of the Sewickley branch and competed on several of its track teams.

Jimmy De Forest Dies Forgotten by Friends

LONG BRANCH, N. J., Oct. 12.—(AP.)—Jimmy De Forest, in his day one of the best of boxing managers and trainers, died yesterday at his home here after a long illness, broken in spirit, purse and health.

Too proud to ask his old friends for held, De Forest was almost forgotten in the last months of his life and even the fact that he was ill was not known to many of the men he managed and trained and knew in his salad days.

Jimmy De Forest

From 1880 to 1926, when he practically retired from the boxing game, he was connected with practically every great champion of the ring—Jeffries, Johnson, Walcott, Dempsey—and to all of them he rendered valuable service.

Just how old De Forest was no one knew, not even himself. His first memory was of the circus, where, at the age of 5, he was performing with the De Forest Aerial Troupe.

His parents had him billed as Mlle. Petite De Forest and dressed him as a girl with his hair in long curls.

RUNS AWAY FROM CIRCUS

At 12, he rebelled and ran away when the troupe was playing in London. He got his first boyish haircut and stowed away on a ship for the United States. After tending for a while to a cageful of monkeys in a circus, he drifted into the Bowery fight clubs.

He soon found out he was not destined to be a fighter—his biggest purse he remembered, being only $15. He became a trainer and manager.

Pete McCoy was the first fighter he ever seconded, and it was through him he met John L. Sullivan, then starting out on the trail which led him to capture the heavyweight championship of the world.

Hearing of the fine exercises used by European armies, De Forest went back to the continent in the early 80s and toured various army camps, learning training and massage methods.

DEVELOPER OF FIRPO

Returning to the United States, he soon gained a reputation as a second and trainer. He handled Tommy Ryan for years, Kid McCoy and other greats of the ring and was in Dempsey's corner at Toledo when the Man Mauler whipped Jess Willard for the heavyweight title. He later managed Luis Firpo, the giant South American, but was let out by the South American before the Dempsey fight.

He acted as matchmaker for the Polo Grounds A. C. in 1925 and 1926, and promoted the bout in which Gene Tunney defeated Tommy Gibbons and won the right to challenge Dempsey for the title. He never made much money out of his promoting, however, and soon returned to his correspondence school of boxing and to running a health camp.

DAUGHTER, SON SURVIVE

Although De Forest himself never would give his age beyond the vague statement that was "somewhere under 70," close friends say he probably was somewhat over that age at his death.

Funeral services will be held at his home in Long Branch and burial will be Friday in Woodbine Cemetery. He is survived by one son, James Roy De Forest, Jr., and a daughter, Virginia.

QUARTET SINGS FOR SEALS

A snappy quartet from Grove City, the Haydn Four, led by Dr. Pace Allen, former Pitt Cap and Gowner, and a talk on physical education by John Dambach, dean of the School of Physical Education at the University of Pittsburgh, will feature the weekly radio program of the Trained Seals of the Sports Department of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph over WCAE at 6:50 o'clock tonight.

Dean Dambach has an interesting message on the change in physical training conditions in recent years, whereby what once was work has become a pleasure to the students.

Others on the program include Miss Ruth Scott, accompanist for the quartet; Miss Marian Salmon, WCAE pianist; Herb McGee, announcer, and Harry Keck, sports editor of the Sun-Telegraph.

FAVORITES WIN IN TOURNEY

HOT SPRINGS, Va., Oct. 12.—(AP.)—Mrs. Glenna Collett Vare and Miss Helen Hicks, odds-on favorites for the finals of the Hot Springs fall tournament, yesterday progressed one match nearer their anticipated meeting.

Both won easy victories. Mrs. Vare defeated Miss Olga Hoefler, of New York, 7 and 6, while Miss Hicks took an 8 and 6 decision from Mrs. Tylor Field, of Chicago.

Miss Hicks faces stern opposition today in Mrs. Dorothy Vare Hulme, of Philadelphia, who yesterday routed Mrs. Charles M. Clark, of St. Louis, 8 and 7.

Mrs. Vare meets Mrs. Kenneth M. Seggerman, of Rumson, N. J., in the semi-finals.

After topping the field of some 50 starters in the qualifying round of the men's tournament, Fay Ingalls, of Hot Springs, was upset at the nineteenth hole in his first round match with Irving T. Smith, of the Greenwich Country Club.

The other three seeded players advanced to the second round. George H. Flinn, Jr., of Pittsburgh, won from Clive Alvord, Greenwich, 4 and 3. William H. Platt, Philadelphia, was one up on Otto Madlener, of Chicago, and Stanley Stone, of Milwaukee took a one-up decision from Arthur Brown, of St. Louis.

Semi-Pro Boxers Warned in Illinois

CHICAGO, Oct. 12.—(INS.)—The Illinois Athletic Commission today served stern warning upon simon-pure boxers and amateur fight clubs that severe punishment in the form of suspensions and fines will be meted out hereafter to anyone found guilty of professionalism.

The warning accompanied publication of results of a lengthy investigation by the commission, which revealed that hundreds of "amateur" boxers received money for their performances and that at least 11 boxing clubs remunerated the alleged amateurs for their work.

NEW LEAGUES PLANNED

Although basketball season is still far away, plans are being made to organize two new county basketball leagues. These new leagues will be called the County Major Basketball League, and the County Minor Basketball League. The Major League will be composed of strong first class teams, while the Minor League will be made up of light first class teams. Any team desiring to join either of these leagues should write to Herman Foreman, Athletic Department, 1835 Center avenue.

Nitsichin won by three lengths with two lengths separating the second and third horses. The full field of 26 horses nominated yesterday ran.

BURNS SET FOR WEST VIEW

ROONEYS FACE ERIE ELEVEN ON HILL

By TOM BIRKS

The undefeated Dan Burns eleven, Allegheny Valley entrant in the West Penn Independent Football Conference, faces a tough proposition in the backfield that will gallop against it tonight as the Burns and West View elevens meet under the lights at New Kensington in a Conference tilt. It will take all the defensive skill in the Burns locker to stop the quartet West View has primed to throw into the fray.

Frank Potts, former Villanova star; Ross, former St. Vincent ace; White, St. Francis fullback last year; Cunningham, of Waynesburg, and Chappie Johnson, star halfback of the old MacChesneytown eleven, will lug the ball for West View.

TALENT STRONG

Plenty of ball-toting talent, therefore, will be available behind a line that will have Len Schnupp, former Carnegie Tech star, at tackle; Sprock and Sabota, MacChesneytown linemen, at the guards; Daly, of California, at center, and Boyd and Houch at the ends.

The game will be called at 8:30 sharp.

At Greenlee Field, the Rooneys, twice Conference champions, will tangle with the Erie Pros, the latter club being composed of former Duquesne University stars.

With Ganzy Benedict, Kass Kovalcheck, Devinney, Ferrare, Silverstein and other former wearers of the Red and Blue in the lineup, the Erie club is boasting that it will lower the colors of the Big Green for the first time in two years. Rooney has, without doubt, the most powerful line ever welded together in this district, and it is doubtful if any backfield can make gains through it. The Pros, however, have a dangerous forward passing attack that is always a menace.

SYCAMORES FACE TEST

At Etna High School Field the Sycamores will clash with the Scott Morgan aggregation. The East Enders are fighting hard for the leadership, and the result of tonight's game is vitally important to both clubs.

Sunday the Burns team will be the attraction at Greenlee Field, meeting the Rooneys. The East Liberty Papales, fresh from a victory over Bellaire Eagles, will clash with the rejuvenated West View club.

Next week, the Rooneys will go to New Kensington for a night game with the Burns club on Wednesday, while on Thursday, the McKeesport Olympics and the East Liberty Papales will meet.

ARMY ATTACK SHOWS POWER

WEST POINT, N. Y., Oct. 12.—(AP.)—Army held an hour's full speed scrimmage yesterday, most of it devoted to old-style straight football in preparation for the Pittsburgh game. The strongest of the scrub players were unable to check the regulars' running attack. MacWilliam, Vidal and Elliott alternated in calling signals. Hutchinson did some fine work at right tackle and may get the starting berth.

Eastern Briefs

PRINCETON, N. J., Oct. 12.—(AP.)—Princeton's varsity ran wild against the reserves yesterday in the first serious practice for the Cornell game, scoring five touchdowns and a safety. Goose Gosnell, a substitute last year, replaced Art Lane at right tackle and played through the entire 50-minute scrimmage. Lane suffered a broken collar bone in the Columbia game.

ITHACA, N. Y., Oct. 12.—(AP.)—After three weeks' illness with sciatic rheumatism, Coach Gil Dobie returned to the task of preping his Cornell team for Princeton and sent it through a long session yesterday.

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—(AP.)—Columbia held a three-hour drill yesterday in preparation for Saturday's clash. A line scrimmage between the first and second teams was the hardest part of the drill which was devoted largely to running through plays.

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—(AP.)—New York University staged a defensive dummy scrimmage against Georgetown formations yesterday, then followed with an offensive drill against the third team, working especially on passes. Capt. Joe Lamark was kept out of the hard work by a slight cold.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 12.—(AP.)—Four Yale regulars were demoted in a major shakeup yesterday. Both ends were removed. Felix Hughes, sixth fullback taking one with him and Walter Kimball the other. Joe Johnson replaced Malin at center and Bill Holcombe took Bronkie's guard post. The new lineup showed increased offensive power.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Oct. 12.—(AP.)—Harvard's regulars rushed over three touchdowns against one of the strongest freshmen teams in years in a long scrimmage yesterday. The varsity could make no long gains. Capt. Hagerman and Irad Hard remained out of the scrimmage.

HANOVER, N. H., Oct. 12.—(AP.)—Dartmouth's hopes for the Penn game suffered a setback yesterday when John Dunovan, regular halfback, was declared out of the game. He is suffering from a shoulder injury received in the Lafayette contest. Line plunging was featured in a dummy scrimmage.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Oct. 12.—(AP.)—A two-hour offensive drill featured Brown's preparations for the Yale game yesterday and three new plays were rehearsed. Aerial play was stressed both on offense and defense.

WORCESTER, Mass., Oct. 12.—(AP.)—Holy Cross worked on fundamentals and individual assignments in a long session of preparation yesterday for an inter-sectional game against Detroit. Blocking and tackling were given most of the attention of the coaches.

GRIDDER DIES

OMAHA, Neb., Oct. 12.—(AP.)—Injured Sunday in a football game between two local teams at Central City, Neb., Asa J. Mohr, 26, of Central City, died yesterday here. He was the son of Sheriff J. J. Mohr, of Merrick County. Mohr had been improving steadily until yesterday morning when his condition became critical. Paralyzed, he was brought here Sunday, and an emergency operation restored partial use of the arms.

REFEREE SCORES KAYO

SAN JOSE, Cal., Oct. 12.—(AP.)—With the aid of the referee's footwork, Babe Anderson, of San Jose, won by technical knockout over Ray Krause, French welterweight, in the third round of their 10-round bout here last night. Referee Fred Bottoros was scuffling around the edges of the ring when Krause bounded back from an exchange with Anderson and tripped over Bottoros' feet, landing heavily in a corner. A ligament in the Frenchman's ankle was torn.

Crawford Voted Most Valuable A. A. Player

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 12.—(AP.)—Clifford R. (Pat) Crawford, Columbus first baseman, who has been called back to the St. Louis Cardinals, was adjudged the most valuable player to his team in the American Association for 1932 by a committee of sport writers selected by the Sporting News, weekly baseball paper, published here, which inaugurated the award this year.

Crawford received 41 out of a possible 80 points. Russell Van Atta, St. Paul pitcher, ranked second, with 34; Ernie Wingard, Indianapolis pitcher-first baseman, third with 33; Evar Swanson, Columbus outfielder, fourth with 27, and Rosey Ryan, Minneapolis pitcher, fifth with 23.

GOING ROUGH IN SOUTH

By W. A. ALEXANDER

Member All-America Board of Football. (Reg. U. S. Patent Office.)

Tulane, Tennessee, Alabama, Vandy and Georgia have been the big five in the Southern Conference for the last three years. They might cut each other's throats when they met, but none of the other 18 teams in the conference had a chance when they played one of the five.

W. A. Alexander

Back in September this year the dopesters could see nothing but these same five teams out in front, with some doubts as to the strength of Georgia. Already certain signs point to the downfall of perhaps three or four of the big five this season at the hands of underdogs.

Virginia Polytechnic Institute already has dropped Georgia by a 7-to-6 score, and you can count on several other major upsets in the next few weeks.

Louisiana State University, in its first two games with the strong Texas Christian University and Rice teams from Texas, has demonstrated the value of the new coaching staff of Biff Jones and Bert Ingwerson. Their defense was extra good, and with a comparitively light schedule from now to Thanksgiving it would not surprise the writer to see Louisiana State University give Tulane a jolt on Thanksgiving.

AUBURN STRONG

The Auburn team has served notice that it is hot this year. Coaches Chet Wynne and Roger Kiley have probably the fastest backfield in America, and in Hitchcock and Phipps have a punter and passer second to none. They also are apt to be bad medicine for Tulane and Georgia.

Kentucky, with a 200-pound line and a really great kicker in Kercheval, will give any team a bad afternoon. If they catch Alabama or Tennessee on a soggy field or in the rain it may be too bad for the big boys.

Duke is showing the effect of Wallace Wade's coaching. The scouts are spreading the report that no team could possibly block or tackle any better than the Blue Devils. Blocking and tackling are Coach Wade's specialties. In addition, Wade has a highly developed kicking game going. Duke seems to be the big noise in the northeastern section of the Conference, and may arise to heights in its game with Tennessee.

As Tennessee and Alabama meet in early October, as do Tulane and Vanderbilt, it will take only a couple of November upsets to scramble the Conference race and upset the dopesters of September.

FLORIDA IMPROVED

Florida, Georgia Tech and South Carolina, North Carolina State and Virginia are showing much improvement over last year, but still are too weak to do more than give some of the leaders a hard battle.

If any of the big five do repeat and come through undefeated then in all likelihood it will be either Tennessee or Alabama.

Both teams have beautifully arranged schedules. Before all of their really hard games, easy games are placed that will serve as rest spots for their good men.

Tulane and Vanderbilt have excellent teams, but Tulane has a terrible October schedule and Vandy plays too many of the good ones to escape.

GIANTS APPEAR SECOND-CLASS BALL CLUB

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

Memphis Bill Terry, boss of the Giants, is waking up these crisp October mornings with a pronounced second-division ball club on his hands. Fortunately for Willie, the start of another long campaign is many months away.

One has to admire Terry for his spunk in disposing of a flock of players who, he felt, would be of little use to him in his plan to rebuild the Giants. In many quarters he is said to have got the better of the deal just negotiated with the Cardinals, yet it is a bit hard for anybody to get excited over the Polo Grounders in their present status.

Quite a few of Terry's worries would be solved if Bill could depend upon Travis Jackson for the next race. Jackson was one of the game's greatest shortstops until his knee injury took him out of action.

DIDN'T FUMBLE CRONIN

Speaking of Terry and great shortstops, it might be interesting for Pirate fans to know that Memphis Bill was one prominent National Leaguer who did not "boot" Joe Cronin when the new manager of the Washington Senators was a kid member of the Pittsburgh club.

Just how any experienced baseball man could fumble Cronin is something that is very hard to understand. Joe had class written all over him, but because he fanned once or twice and made a few serious misplays in one important ball game he was dropped like a hot potato.

It is striking to note that in the case of Floyd Vaughan, the Pittsburgh club is using contrasting methods as compared with those used on the peerless fighter from San Francisco. Vaughan was kept on the job up to a dangerous point so far as the pennant was concerned, when a rest might have helped the whole team, and Vaughan, too, especially with the clever Thevenow idle and rearin' to go. If Cronin had received one-half the consideration extended Vaughan, he probably would be a National League star instead of a luminary of the rival circuit.

PRAISED BY TERRY

To get back to Terry—after Cronin had jumped into fame in the American League, Bill cornered this writer one day at Forbes Field in conjunction with the departure of Sunny Joe. Speaking of Croning, Bill said:

"I liked every move of that kid and I asked John McGraw why he allowed him to get out of the league. He looked like the real article to me and I am not surprised that he is having fine success."

Terry would have a pretty fair running start were he to dig up a boy like Cronin.

CHILLYSAUCE

Inasmuch as they have no profits this year, the directors of the Cardinal chain stores are likely to be active in sales and trades this winter.

The St. Louis moguls, apparently imbued with the idea that a championship class ball player could be yanked off a passing freight, shipped Chick Hafey to the Reds.

The departure of Hafey had a tremendous effect on the morale of the then world champions. The Cardinals were in Pittsburgh before the season was two weeks old. They dropped at least one game here through inferior fielding in the left garden, and many of them brought up the Hafey issue right then and there.

The Redbirds may try to sell some of their ranking stars to ambitious clubs that made money this year. Max Carey and Bill McKechnie are at the head of a couple of clubs that showed nice profits, and Charley Grimm's Cubs also went over big in a financial way.

U. S. Polo Squad In S. A. Complete

BUENOS AIRES, Oct. 12.—(AP.)—The United States polo squad which will compete in the Argentine open championship and in the international series for the championship of the Americas was completed yesterday by the arrival of seven players to join Winston Guest and Michael Phipps, who came by airplane a few days ago.

Those who came on the Western Prince yesterday were James P. Mills, Seymour Knox, Elmer Boeseke, J. C. Rathborne, William Post, Stephen Sanford and Carleton Burke, the team manager.

Between Rounds

Charley Baxter will be fighting to come back in his semi-final against Tiger (Kid) Walker, Zanesville (O.) Negro, at the Arena Friday night. He is starting all over again after losing to Battling Gizzy and suffering a knockout by Johnny Datto.

Jim McGirr, McKeesport promoter, reports more interest in his amateur show tomorrow night than for any of his professional offerings in a long time.

TONIGHT'S FIGHTS

Don McLeod vs. Billy Marrone, 10 rounds, and Chuck Woods vs. Holman Williams, 8 rounds, Detroit.

GRINS From the GRID

By O. W. (Red) Severence

Noted Southern Football Official

NO. 2.

A tense air hung over the dressing room in the gymnasium at the Danville High School, Illinois. Zuppke relates, as the nervous members of the little visiting team from St. Joseph awaited those last trying moments before the Thanksgiving game that would decide sectional honors.

Finally the last enthusiastic well-wishers had been chased from the room and all the doors closed.

"You've got to drive hard today," he barked at the flushed-faced group. "Tackle hard and tackle low. No letting up, for they've got us on size. Remember, never stop driving."

With the team whipped into a frenzy, he yelled:

And, as their captain flung open a nearby door, the whole squad plunged through—to land head first in the icy waters of an indoor swimming pool. The captain had opened the wrong door.

INDIANA, PURDUE FAVORED

Notre Dame Football Coach

Picking winners in next Saturday's games should be comparatively easy in most cases, but there are the usual doubtful games and the ever-present possibility of upsets occurring.

Although the game with Northwestern is one Illinois would rather win than any other on the schedule, with the possible exception of Michigan, I think Northwestern will be ready for this game and will win rather easily. Although Illinois hasn't shown a great deal as yet, Dick Hanley will have his team ready for a good fight.

Michigan and Ohio State, two of the best in the conference, play Saturday in a game that will be fatal to one or the other. I pick Michigan to win by a close score. This game will go far to determine the Conference championship. Michigan is supposed to have a better chance of winning the title, but Ohio State has its own ideas, and will make it tough for all of them this year.

INDIANA FAVORED

Indiana should not have much trouble with Iowa, because Coach Ossie Solem has not had time to develop his men at Iowa. Indiana has a typically rugged team and a little better defense than last season.

Minnesota will win from Nebraska in a battle of the giants. Both teams are big and husky.

Purdue should have little trouble in rolling over Wisconsin. Nobe Kizer will have his team ready for Wisconsin this year after the 21-to-14 surprise victory the Badgers scored last year.

Ohio University-Navy is a hard game to pick. I choose Ohio University by a very close margin, with the possibility that Navy may find itself and win this game. Navy may develop, now that it has lost a game, and go better than ever.

DETROIT PICKED TO WIN

I don't think Frank Carideo's Missouri team is developed enough to look for a victory over Kansas Aggies. Xavier and Dayton will have a close game, with Xavier holding a slight edge, in my opinion.

Notre Dame should win easily from Drake, although Drake will make a better showing than last year. The Des Moines team has a lot of willing sophomores and good men from last year who will put up a great battle.

Boston College, Centre Meet Today

NEWTON, Mass., Oct. 12,—(AP.) — The Praying Colonels from Centre College were in a dangerous mood today as they invaded this football sector for the fifth time in 10 years seeking revenge on the Boston College Eagles for last year's narrow setback.

The Eagles, although forced to start a make-shift backfield, appeared capable of again turning back the invaders. Last year Ike Ezmunt, a substitute tackle, blocked a Centre punt and paved the way for the lone Boston touchdown. Ezmunt, still with the reserves, is on hand to repeat his feat in today's holiday game on the new Boston College gridiron at University Heights.

SEASONAL GAIN IN INDUSTRY CONTINUES

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER

Universal Service.

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—The gradual seasonal pickup in industry has continued without regard to recurrent tendencies in Wall street to blow hot and then blow cold.

A capsule description of the current economic trend was given to me by J. M. Davis, president, Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railroad, who said:

Mr. Rukeyser

"As to business improvement, basic commodities like steel, ore, copper and coal have not begun to move overly rapid, but there is a decided upturn in less-than-carload freight shipments out of New York westbound.

"Our representatives report the prevalence of a much better and more optimistic feeling generally and in all territories, along with decidedly low inventories in all lines of merchandise, which undoubtedly accounts for the increased freight movement that began last month and still continues."

The Coolidge non-partisan committee for investigation of the needs of the railroads has made a good first impression in ordering a scientific study by H. G. Moulton, of the Brookings Institution.

Any fundamental survey is likely to reveal internal faults in railroad capitalization as well as external mistakes in conditions of regulation and competition with newer agencies of transportation.

The threat of railroad receiverships is a direct result of unbalanced capital structures, which have been weighted down by excessive amounts of bonds, which make inflexible demands on earnings.

CAPITAL SETUP FAULTY

Such capital structures presuppose continued economic stability and freedom from booms and slumps, such as we have never had in the United States.

A capital structure, which consists of a vastly greater relative amount of equity money, resulting from purchase of common and preferred stocks, would, of course, be better adapted to riding the waves of economic vicissitudes.

In looking back, we now know that the smartest managers used boom conditions to reduce fixed indebtedness, whereas the imprudent piled up burdensome debt.

Numerous corporations, like United States Steel and Anaconda, went far toward achieving impregnability through retiring bond issues and substituting stock issues.

As a group, the railroads went to untoward excesses in placing long-term mortgages against their assets, and real estate financing reflected the same mistakes.

Schwab Protests Dumping of Steel

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—(INS.)—Pleas that only American produced steel be used in all building projects proposed or under way in this city today were made on behalf of Charles M. Schwab, president of the American Iron and Steel Institute, at a meeting of the organization's board.

Thomas Jefferson Doherty, of the institute, read Schwab's demand to the gathering.

He said dumping by foreign manufacturers of steel sold at less than production costs threatened to demoralize the market and imperiled living standards of the workers.

Schwab did not attend the meeting, as he prepared to sail for Europe about the time it was held.

Straus Stock Sale Injunction Stayed

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—(AP.)—Execution of an order restraining S. W. Straus and Company from further stock sales and placing the firm in a Martin act receivership was stayed yesterday by Presiding Justice Edward V. Lazansky, of the Appellate division.

The stay requires Attorney General John J. Bennett, Jr., to show cause before Justice Lazansky on Thursday why Justice Norton's order should not be held in abeyance indefinitely.

Forbes

Must Jobless Have To Solve Own Problems?

By B. C. FORBES

ONE SIGHT in New York is calculated to make one think. I have just come from Sixth avenue, where scores of employment offices are beseiged by large crowds of idle workmen. For block after block the sidewalk is jammed with jobseekers.

B. C. Forbes

The employment agencies, nearly all located upstairs, post little pieces of paper telling about vacant places. At the spots where the vacancies posted were most numerous, there were milling crowds which extended to the street—the wide sidewalk couldn't accommodate them all.

This scene is not confined to one or two blocks, but extends over a tremendous distance.

Many thoughts surged through my mind.

I FOUND myself asking:

"Why should unfortunates unable to find work be compelled to trudge from one picayune employment agency to another? Why can't either the federal or state authorities establish official employment agencies where every vacant job would be registered? Why shouldn't every man and woman looking for work register at such official agencies, specifying his or her qualifications?"

It impressed me as unnecessarily cruel to impose upon unemployed the ordeal of visiting scores of agencies, some of them having nothing whatsoever to offer and many of them able to place only a few workers.

THIS THOUGHT also would not down: The responsibility for finding work for citizens, under existing conditions, should not be saddled solely upon the individuals unable to land work.

You and I have a direct interest in their tragedy. Nation and state have much at stake.

Contrasted with the presence of so much unemployment as exists at this moment, every other problem sinks into insignificance. It is a sad commentary on America's boastful superlative organizing ability that no plan or program even remotely adequate has been formulated to enable jobseekers to connect with jobs.

Why, in the name of common sense, should scores of obscure individuals, motivated solely by money-making motives, be entrusted with this colossal, overshadowing, all-important task of acting as liaison agencies between the workless and work?

ADMITTEDLY, influential committees have been organized throughout the country to further work-sharing and to encourage organizations to launch work-giving activities. We owe a debt of gratitude to the busy brainy business men who are devoting themselves wholeheartedly to this laudable, patriotic service.

Admittedly, there is already in too many directions "too much government in business." But it is palpable that the present machinery for job-locating is dangerously inadequate, grossly unorganized, perilously inefficient.

THE NUMBER of jobs available in different walks of life varies extraordinarily with the evolution of invention. It is not astonishing that the constant changes lead occasionally to serious dislocation of employment.

For example, during the sixty years from 1870 to 1930 the number engaged in farming, lumbering and fishing in the United States fell from 180 out of every 1,000 persons to only 87—less than half the earlier total.

Again: Between 1910 and 1920 livery stable employes decreased 74 per cent and garage employes increased 557 per cent. Between 1920 and 1930 our steam railroads cut their working forces more than 20 per cent—and since then the rate of reduction has been very much greater.

Do we not expect too much when we ask millions and millions of unskilled and other workers to adapt themselves unaided to sweeping economic changes?

If there be any problem which reaches to the very foundations of our whole social structure, it is that of making it feasible for workers to connect with work.

STEEL OUTPUT RISE GRADUAL

The Iron Age, in its weekly review of the steel trade, says:

Steel business is gaining slowly, but confidence still exists that there will be an extension of the gradual improvement of recent weeks, despite the depressive influences of the presidential election campaign and declines in security prices.

Ingot production for the entire country is estimated for this week at 19 per cent of capacity, compared with the calculation for September by the American Iron and Steel Institute of 17.34 per cent. Last month's output of raw steel was the largest since May, and the rise in the daily rate, which was 21.6 per cent as compared with August, was the first since February.

The major consuming industries that must provide a good deal of the tonnage necessary to place the steel industry upon a substantially better basis of production are moving slowly in plans to bring about a better business and employment situation. Even the government-sponsored projects have been delayed too long to be much of a factor prior to the election.

The automobile industry is proceeding somewhat cautiously on production of new models, but has bought some steel. Much of the past week's improvement in steel mill schedules has come about through larger tin plate orders. However, there has also been better buying of sheets and bars from miscellaneous sources and usually in small lots, a situation which reflects the fact that betterment in business is more in evidence among the numerous minor channels of consumption than in the major industries.

Tin plate mill operations are averaging about 40 per cent, with one mill preparing for a short run at full capacity. Some of the sheet mills are doing as well as 25 to 30 per cent of their finishing capacity, partly as a result of an accumulation of orders prior to October 1, when some price advances went into effect. The mills have insisted that shipments of these lower-priced orders be taken by October 15.

POWER OUTPUT AGAIN HIGHER

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—(AP.)—The production of electricity in the United States showed a further slight gain in the week ended October 8, the weekly report of the National Electric Light Association today showed.

BUSINESS

Sheet Mills Report Small Consumers Are Busier

By GEORGE H. SNYDER

THE RECOVERY IN business is starting with smaller manufacturers rather than with the large industrial organizations. This branch of the steel industry has been one of the leaders in the upward movement of steel mill activity which has been taking place.

The largest maker of steel sheets has increased operations from 14 per cent of capacity to 25 per cent of capacity during the past six weeks, but the new orders have not come from their biggest customers.

The automobile, railroad and farm machinery industries, which normally are big consumers of sheets, have taken only negligible tonnages. The buying has been attributed entirely to small and isolated manufacturers. The increased demand for steel sheets has resulted in greater firmness in prices.

* * *

Tin Plate Leads Steel Activity

TIN PLATE MILLS still are the leaders in steel mill activity with a production in the neighborhood of 45 per cent of capacity. In all probability tin plate is the only type of steel in which profits are being made at present. This is attributable to the exceptional stability or prices for the product as well as to the comparatively high rate of production.

The tin plate mills anticipate several more weeks of production at the present rate before their usual period of early winter dullness starts. This portion of the steel industry is dependent largely on the size of the packs of fruits and vegetables for its business. A fairly satisfactory volume is expected next year since stocks of canned goods are being reduced to such a low level that most of the old packs should be out of the way by next summer. This should result in large plantings next year and a corresponding demand for tin plate if weather conditions are favorable. Difficulties in securing bank accommodations constituted one influence in reducing the size of the packs of fruits and vegetables this year.

Banks Become More Liberal on Loans

BANKS ARE becoming more liberal in granting loans. This has been discovered by a large industrial organization which has had its sales representatives interview customers and banks on the availability of this type of credit.

In many cases it was found that banks which would not consider granting loans a month or two ago are willing to extend accommodations to their customers at present. The reopening of closed banks in many parts of the country also has been a factor in improving collections and credit conditions.

In Memoriam 1-B

In loving memory of our dearly beloved husband and father, J. W. Godbey, who departed this life October 12, 1931.
If I had seen you last night,
And held your dying hand,
And heard the last sigh from your heart,
We would not feel so bad.
We did not know the pain you had,
We did not see you die.
We only know you went far away
And never said goodbye.
Peaceful be thy rest, dear.
'Tis sweet to breathe thy name;
In life we loved you dearly,
In death we do the same.
Sadly missed by wife and five children.

VALENTINE

Captivating Story of a Shy Girl Rushed Into Love

By HAZEL LIVINGSTON

Joe's Mother, Married Again And on Honeymoon, Sees Val With Lester

CHAPTER XLV.

"Your friend Lester," Frank said when Val and Lester were dancing again, "is about as funny as a crutch, and Val is as usual the life of the party, I don't think. Will you tell me what they see in each other?"

"Well, they're both very good-looking, hon," Marjorie said.

"I like to dance as well as anybody, but I hate to waste a good dinner, that's all."

The music stopped.

Val lifted heavy lidded eyes to Lester.

"It's like the night we met. I had no thought of meeting you. I just looked up, and there you were."

"I've always expected to find you. Everywhere I've gone. I've always known that some day I'd find you again."

"I know," she said. Her hand rested lightly on his arm. Her whole body was vibrant, singing with love.

FRANK ANNOYED

"I'm going to put my foot on an honest to goodness rail in an honest to goodness bar," Frank said.

"Come on, let's all go! Come on, Val? Les, don't you want a swell drink?"

"For crying out loud! Come on yourself, Marj, and let them stand there gaping at the stars. If you ask me, I think they've both gone goofy!" Frank growled, pulled at Marjorie's sleeve.

"Nerts," said Frank.

Unconscious of the desertion of the rest of the party, unconscious of everything but the night, the dark, their love, Valentine and Les paced slowly the dim, flower-bordered paths.

"Yes, let's go in. This is my lucky night. I'll break the bank."

She followed him into the light. The crowd, the warm air, the click of chips, the drone of the croupiers' voices, was like a dash of cold water, bringing her back from dreams.

"Two Martinis," he told the white-coated handsome Mexican who served them.

"Couldn't I have a lemonade? You know I'm not used to drinking."

SEES JOE'S MOTHER

"No, you couldn't! Not tonight. This is a celebration. Besides, you look rather pale . . . Valentine! Is anything the matter? Stop shaking! Look at me! Child, there are no ghosts, you aren't seeing one!"

She made an effort, smiled pitifully. "Yes, there are. I'm seeing one. My—my husband's mother. There—the fat one—"

"The old party with the shrimp pink hair and the figger?"

"Yes. That's— Oh, Les! She's seen me! Take me out. Take me away. There'll be a scene—"

"You don't know her. She can do anything. She—"

"Would you rather I left you?"

"Here? Leave me alone? Oh Lester—no—"

He was guiding her toward the hall. They had almost reached it when a big man in a light gray suit that wrinkled around the bulge of his biceps and calves, approached them, laid a stubby, hairy hand on Val's arm.

"Have I the honor," he asked, to address Mrs. Carey, Junior?"

He was smiling, showing a complete set of dazzling gold teeth.

"No, sir, you are mistaken. Sorry," Lester answered curtly.

Val, cornered, placed her back against the wall. She knew just what would happen. Mrs. Carey—and whatever brought her to a place like this she couldn't imagine—would ask about Joe, would ask why she was here with Lester.

MARRIED AGAIN

And she heard the familiar throaty contralto, its accents honey sweet:

"My dear, how swell to meet you here! We were just sayin' we sure didn't know a soul, when I seen you and pretty near fainted. I couldn't believe my eyes. I says to Ben, I says . . . Oh, meet Ben! Meet Mr. Hotchkiss, my husband. Mr. Hotchkiss, this is my son Joel—I mean Joel's wife, Mrs. Carey.

"Well, Val, you sure look well. I told you how her and Joe run in swell society, Ben . . . Why, isn't this Mr. Sherwood, Val? Sure! I remember you! You were Val's beau for a little while—let me see—back in about '30. Sure I remember you. Yes, INDEED! Why, we all of us on the street, Mis' Clarkson and I, specially, used to snicker at you all the time. Just a little joke, ha, ha! What, Ben? Oh, excuse ME, this is my husband, Mr. Hotchkiss. Ben, meet, Mr. Sherwood!"

Mr. Hotchkiss' great paw closed around Lester's.

"Congratulate us," he grinned. "We're just married. Down here on our honeymoon, haw, haw!"

"Now, Ben, you don't have to tell EVERYBODY!" the bride cried, slapping Val on the back, then drawing her closer to whisper, "He's a carpenter, going to make over the whole house for me! You never thought I'd get married, did you? Well, I done it, and I figure it is goin' to be a great thing for Elwyn and Georgie and Joey to have a father again."

"A boy needs a father," Mr. Hotchkiss echoed solemnly.

They looked at Val, as if defying her to say something. She heard herself saying, "It will be nice for Georgie. I guess it's a little late for Elwyn and Joe, though. How is Georgie, Mrs. Ca—Mrs. Hotchkiss?"

"Oh, he's fine. Him and Ruthie, they're down with my cousin Flossie, in Riverside. Flossie married a rancher. That's one of the reasons we thought we'd take our honeymoon here, so's I could see them. Oh, yes, they're both doin' fine . . ."

"Then they're all gone—all your family since—since Joe sent Vivian to boarding school!"

"Oh, no! Edwina's home! She's lookin' out for my other roomer now. She has old Mrs. Scnwartz come over nights, for a chaperon. He's a perfect gentleman and all like that, but I don't take no chances with these heart breakers!"

"It's a secret, but Edwina's engaged. Yes, she's gonna get married, too. Just think of me, with all my children leavin' me—all my chickies, as I call them, me, that was the ideal mother for all these years—"

Into Val's head there flashed the memory of Joe's uncle's prediction.

Mr. Hotchkiss' guffaw bored into her thoughts.

Mrs. Hotchkiss' playful push nearly floored the grinning, florid bridegroom.

Lester managed to say, "We must go. It has been nice to meet you again, Mrs.—er, Hotchkiss—"

As he and Val reached the hall Mrs. Hotchkiss raised her voice, warbled:

"I hear your aunt's lost her home. Ain't it too bad?"

Synopsis

Valentine Macfarlane is practically deserted at the age of 8 by her gay, widowed mother, Millie. She is brought up by a manhating maiden aunt, Julia, and becomes a stenographer. After a brief infatuation for the dashing Lester Sherwood, she marries a neighbor boy, Joe Carey, and goes to Minneapolis, where Joe is an architect. Pearl Neely, one of Joe's friends, visits and begins to take liberties about the apartment. Val dislikes Pearl, but says nothing. Unused to housework, Val becomes discontented. Joe tells Val his plans for the future, but she is unimpressed. Millie's husband dies. Val travels alone to California. She visits Millie and then goes to Hollywood, where she hopes to see Lester. Val visits a Mexican gambling resort with some of her friends and meets Lester.

Heart of a Wife

By ADELE GARRISON

Avis Arrives for Party Beautifully Gowned

There is no compliment so heady as that which a wife receives from her husband if she is still in love with him. No matter how much her common sense discounts his words, her heart accepts them as truth.

My brain told me how absurd was Dicky's assertion that I was "the prettiest thing of the party."

Lillian and Helena Brixton, though middle aged, still deserved the adjective "stunning," and Mrs. Arlen, who had not yet appeared, was decidedly attractive. In my own cross-section, Kathrine was a beauty and Edith Fairfax more than pretty, while the young girls in our party were rare in their loveliness. Looking at Mary, with her dark, exotic beauty; at Marion, with great brown eyes lighting a winsome face crowned with chestnut curls lighted with gold, and at Carolyn's blonde loveliness, I could have laughed—or my commonsense could—at Dicky's absurdity; but my heart hugged his words.

"Here they are!"

It was Hank's voice from the front veranda rail, which he had been hugging ever since his arrival, with the other masculines, from The Larches.

AVIS ATTRACTS ATTENTION

Dicky and I went immediately to the side veranda at which the autos drew up and as Otto held the door open for the occupants of the limousine I had an opportunity to give what Lillian calls the "once and twice" to Mrs. Arlen, and her daughter.

They had made good use of their time in their shopping trip to the city. I decided at once, Mrs. Arlen, to whom the word "pretty" belongs, was dressed in a powder blue evening gown of lace, with a fetching jacket of the same material, the color bringing out the effectiveness of her fair hair so cleverly retouched that a casual observer would have decided that her locks never had turned gray.

make-up, as was her daughter, but she was too wise to employ mascara for her eyelashes, of which her daughter made such effective use.

As she came inside the door away from the daylight to our softly shaded lamps, she looked only half her age. Sartorially, she and her daughter were far ahead of any other woman in the room. But not even the striking, high-waisted Paris gown of sheath-like silver which Avis wore, with its bodice outlined with rhinestones and a rhinestone girdle caught up at one side and with rhinestone earrings depending from the ears almost hidden by her one claim to pulchritude, her fair curls, could hide her angularity—her lack of any real claim to beauty—from feminine eyes, or from older critical masculine ones.

But Avis Arlen cared no whit for the opinion of any person save young men, and as she came into the hall with Noel dutifully escorting her, and gushed prettily over the cordial greetings which Lillian and Marion gave her, I noticed some of the college sheiks, as Hank has dubbed all collegians, nudging each other, and knew that she was sure of one "large evening," in the vocabulary of our younger crowd.

AVIS OUTSTANDING

I thanked my particular little joss that my scheme of "progressive" courses would not permit her to have the first "rush" that is so often given by a collegiate "stag line" to the girl whom they select by virtue of the last word in gown, makeup or real beauty as the "knockout" of the evening. That she was not an especially good dancer, I knew, and I argued that by the time the dinner was over, with its opportunity for frequent dancing between courses, her inferiority in that respect, to Marion and Carolyn, and, above all, to Mary, would have become apparent to the young men.

We had other young feminine guests—two friends of Marion's from school and two college girls from the harbor—all pretty girls, attractively gowned, but no one of them standing out as did Avis Arlen by means of her gown and makeup—the latter atrocious to older eyes but patently effective for her purpose.

Mary, Marion and Carolyn were what sentimental oldsters would call "dreams" in their new frocks and their differing types of beauty, but not one of them had the slinky sophistication, assumed or real, that made Avis stand out.

SUN-TELEGRAPH-WARNER THEATERS JUNIOR KOMIC CLUB

No matter what the weather, the boys and girls of the Sun-Telegraph-Warner Theater Komic Clubare loyal to their organization. Rain or shine they regularly attend the Saturday morning meetings—in fact, they eagerly look forward from week to week for the good times they always have at the Warner Theaters where special programs are prepared for them by their local managers in which many of them personally participate.

The East Liberty Cameraphone has an attendance that seldom varies. All the boys and girls of this chapter know each other by their first names and look upon the Saturday morning meeting as a "get-together." Al Rosa, manager, always has a surprise for them. Last Saturday as they entered the theater each were handed a free ticket for a popular soda fountain drink and immediately after the show the fountains in that vicinity looked as if the depression had really ended.

STAGE SHOW

The stage show at the Cameraphone was unusually attractive. Two schools of dancing—Florence Dunn and Vera Libeau's furnished the greater part of the entertainment and both the youngsters and the entertainers enjoyed every moment of it.

Little Claudette Timmons was the first to appear presenting a military tap dance to the tune of "Anchors Away." Doris Timmens, her sister, put on an acrobatic dance and Betty Jane Rimers sang "Ain't Cha" to a storm of applause. Then came Catherine Marshall, who sang "Down by the Sycamore Tree" followed by the Timmons sisters in a double acrobatic dance. Louise Foley "showed 'em" how to do a tap dance and Mercedes Brinkar sang "The Night When Love Was Born" with a dance accompanying it.

The Cameraphone youngsters are getting to be experts in handling balloons, demonstrated by the exciting race that was staged at this meeting. Paul Regan got a poor start but was away up in the front at the finish. The race was followed by 15 minutes of group singing in which the popular airs of the day were employed—a 15-minute period that the members look for every week.

MEMBERS' AMBITIOUS

Betty Niedhammer, junior reporter for the Cameraphone Chapter, gets a lot of interesting gossip from her fellow club members. She reports that Marjorie Muller wants to be an aviatrix when she grows up and that Charles Cusik is very proud of his pet dog "Buddy." That Buddy Thomas has a big cat he calls "Blackie," that William Keast has his heart set on being an electrical engineer and that Harry Riley's greatest ambition is to be a newspaper reporter for the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

The real stunt of the day, however, was the appearance of William Campbell, pilot of the autogiro, who graphically told the members about the thrills of riding among the clouds in his famed aircraft.

Among the young entertainers at the last meeting of the Plaza Chapter were Betty Hammond, Gloria Bongiorian, Patsy Rogers and Harry Minter with other members of the Jack Barry dancing class.

WASHINGTON — Congressman Horace Frisby is busy with pencil and pad estimating economies to please the taxpayers. "In America," he says, with a catch in his throat, "municipalities spend $3,432,432.32 annually to water the grass in the public parks. This will be saved by passage of the Frisby bill, requiring everybody to wear green glasses."

Taxes Must Come Down

Another encouraging move in the campaign against high local taxes was made at a meeting here yesterday under the auspices of the Pennsylvania State Chamber of Commerce, when representatives of trade and civic bodies of 10 counties at this end of the state formed an organization to fight for a reduction in government costs.

Leonard P. Fox, the chamber's economist, formerly connected with the University of Pittsburgh, presented some figures showing how municipal expenditures of all kinds increased during the period of prosperity from 1923 to 1930. They showed an orgy of extravagance, which should make it all the easier to apply the pruning knife. Expenditures which mounted to such dizzy heights in so comparatively short a period can be reduced to a normal level without depriving us of essential public services.

These meetings of the aroused taxpayers are highly encouraging. They are making it more and more difficult for the city, county, borough and township administrations to resist the demand for economy.

Dr. Baker's Sad Story

He Got into Difficulty at W. & J. by Refusing to Pamper Football Players.

After 25 years of meritorious service in the Pittsburgh public schools Dr. Simon S. Baker was called to his alma mater, Washington and Jefferson College, and became its president.

He held views that a considerable portion of the student body regarded as quaint and old-fashioned. He believed that education was more important than football, and that disorderly conduct was reprehensible.

He refused to grant special privileges to football players and in other ways incurred the ill-will of some of the students, who took vengeance by going on strike and demanding his resignation.

Dr. Baker offered his resignation, and the trustees accepted it. A useful career was thus brought to an unhappy end. It broke his heart.

Dr. Baker deserved a better fate.

Pharmacy and Health

The Drug Store Is an Institution of the First Importance to Our Welfare.

The celebration of "Pharmacy Week," between October 10 and 15, is important to all who value their own health and that of their families.

The "pharmacy," ordinarily called a drug store, is an institution of prime importance to national and individual welfare. In that institution, man has made himself master of the science of pharmacy, which is the science of supplying drugs, that is to say, chemical substances, apart from foods, for the cure and prevention of disease. The pharmacist is the scientific distributing agent in the battle of mankind against its enemies, from disease breeding microscopic bacteria up to the dangerous higher forms of life.

Ancient magicians pretended to practice the science of pharmacy of which they were necessarily ignorant. "Doctors" in the primitive days of superstition, with their love philters and much nonsense about grinding up pearls and other precious stones, loathsome insects and reptiles for curative purposes, ruled the world of medicine for centuries.

During the past century, and even more amazingly in this twentieth century, the science of the pharmacist has made tremendous strides. One hundred years ago a few inorganic salts and vegetable extracts of doubtful value constituted the whole stock in trade even of the comparatively "scientific pharmacist" of that date.

Within the last 30 years, the science of pharmacy, represented on the shelves of thousands of drug stores today, has made extraordinary progress, immensely valuable and important to the race as a whole, and to every family and every individual in every country.

Curiously enough, crude experiments and guesses of ancient pharmacists and old school doctors of 50 and 75 years ago, are now part of the highest form of the science of pharmacy.

Extracts of endocrine and other glands that control bodily functions are used today as a matter of course. The suggestion that they be used, offered by Dr. Braun-Seguard in the last century, was ridiculed.

The German scientist, Ehrlich, starting with the knowledge that organic arsenic compounds destroyed certain organisms, discovered and applied his remedy salvarsan, commonly called "606," and successfully used now in one of the worst blood diseases, as quinine has been, ever since its discovery, in the fight against malaria.

An educated man, with the lights of different colors in his store windows, to indicate his scientific profession, the "corner store druggist" is a public servant of highest value. Before he can receive his degree as a pharmacist he must go through years of hard study. He must be familiar with the thousands of drugs, remedies of all kinds with which his shelves are filled.

He must read correctly, and prepare with minute exactness, to the fraction of a grain, the prescriptions that the doctor entrusts to him, and that are often hurriedly scrawled in the sickroom. It used to be the fashion, in England, to make prescriptions as illegible as possible.

Many look upon the drug store merely as an institution for supplying soda water and assorted "sundaes." That branch of the drug store business unfortunately is necessary that the pharmacists may make a living and pay heavy rents demanded for conspicuous stores, is the unimportant part of the drug store business.

That which is important, and calls for public recognition and gratitude, is the work done through long hours by the trained man "at the back of the store," on whose accuracy may depend the life as well as the health of his neighbors.

Pharmacy Week, from October 10 to 15, is important to everybody in America.

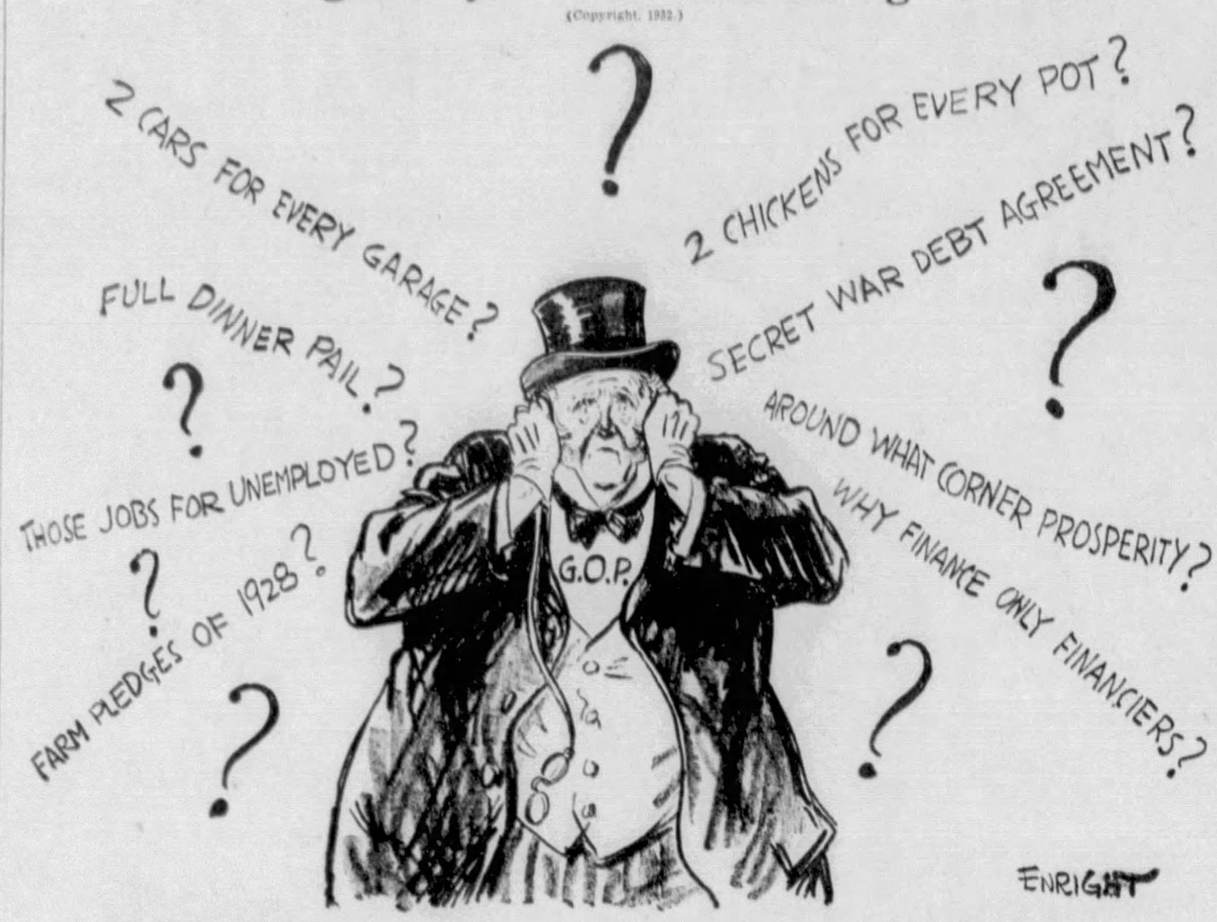
As Long as Questions Are Being Asked!

(Copyright, 1932.)



Oft in the stilly night
Ere Slumber's chain has bound him,
Strange questions spring to light
And painful queries hound him.
The promises of bygone years
Are ringing madly in his ears.

Loud voices ask him: how
About that pair of chickens?
Farm pledges plague him now
Until his poor heart sickens.
The promises that he forgot
Return to put him on the spot.

'Hold on to Hoover' Until You Sink

By Claude G. Bowers

Author of "The Struggle for Democracy in America," "Founders of the Republic," "Jefferson and Democracy," "The Tragic Era" and other important works, now writing for the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

If anything were lacking to show the desperate fears of the regime in power in Washington it is shown in the claque over the Des Moines speech of Mr. Hoover, so transparently organized.

The Hoover writers sat with their pencils poised over the paper; the press was prepared with interviews from such ardent champions of the average man as Jim Watson; and columns are being written to convince us that, after all, he who was to "eliminate poverty," give us a "chicken in every pot," "maintain the standard of living for the workingman" and "put agriculture on a par with industry" is the "miracle man" he was painted four years ago.

But it is just too bad that at this juncture, in the midst of the claque, the stock market suffered "the severest reaction since October" with stocks declining two to eight points the day after; and that private charity should announce that there are 1,250,000 jobless men in New York City alone—an increase of hundreds of thousands since the last appeal for funds was made.

* * *

Falsehood Is a Poor Straw to Grab

As we pointed out before, Mr. Hoover in his "marvelous speech," which the claque knew would be "marvelous" before it had been written, did not scruple to misrepresent facts. When he told the farmers that the Democrats proposed to drop the duties on farm products he must have misrepresented deliberately; for the Democrat platform makes no such pledge, and Mr. Roosevelt, at Sioux City, as Mr. Hoover well knew, said specifically the opposite.

Some Republican papers editorialized on Roosevelt's opposite statement, and Mr. Hoover must have known the truth when he deliberately stated that which is not true.

* * *

Few Men Have Been Given Jobs

Equally unfair and untruthful in their implications were Hoover's attacks on the public construction measures urged by the Democrats in the House and Senate to put men to work. He calls the House measure a "pork barrel," and implies, of course, that indefensible projects were included in the bill.

And the truth is that not a single project was in the bill which had not been passed upon and approved by the Hoover administration. And the truth is no program of public work would have been adopted but for the fight made by the Democrats in Congress under the leadership of Wagner and against the bitter opposition of Mr. Hoover himself.

Having been forced to yield because of the desperate appeals of welfare workers and the rising indignation of the people, the same Mr. Hoover, who notoriously opposed everything of the sort until compelled to surrender, now has the temerity to claim credit for the "pork barrel" that should have put men to work long ago.

We say "should" because it is also notorious that the Hoover administration refused to turn a wheel to take advantage of the opportunity to put men to work through the instrumentality of the Democratic Wagner bill he had tried to kill.

It was not until 10 weeks after work could have been commenced and men put on wages that Mr. Hoover agreed to start; and he did not agree to start until Senator Wagner had exposed the do-nothing policy in frequent statements and speeches.

And Al Smith calls our attention to the fact that even now few men have been given jobs. What arrogance, what effrontery, for Mr. Hoover to jeer at the very measure for which he claims credit.

* * *

Mr. Hoover Will Know What Is Meant

It was at Fort Wayne that Mr. Hoover spoke of "sportsmanship" in politics and deprecated "harsh personalities." A few million people with memories reaching back to 1928 will recall the kind of "sportsmanship" which characterized the Hoover campaign, and the kind of "personalities" spread through the National Committee with the knowledge and unquestionably with the consent of the leader regarding Al Smith.

These "personalities" had nothing to do with Al Smith's public record; Mr. Hoover will know what is meant.

The attacks upon Mr. Hoover are upon the policies and the public record of the President on which he is asking a vindication. His committee is putting out a slogan—"Hold on to Hoover"—which is about as antiquated and amusing in the light of what has happened to those who held on to Hoover, as "Prosperity at Home and Prestige Abroad." To attack that record is not to indulge in personalities. The attacks are on the head of the administration under which we have descended to such depths of human misery as we never have known before.

* * *

Lost the Confidence Of the People

If Mr. Hoover has lost the confidence of the people; if there is more resentment of him than of any other President in history, it is because the people have concluded—on the record—that he has not played fair with them.

They have not forgotten the unprecedentedly reckless and grotesque promises and statements with which he won their support in 1928. Business had been put upon the basis of "permanent prosperity" by the Mellon regime; and Mr. Hoover was going to "eliminate poverty." And poverty that threatened starvation came to millions immediately in the wake of his induction into office.

Even then they were not ready to conclude that they had voted for a mythical man who did not exist.

It has required three years of unfair dealing with the public, of misrepresentation of conditions by Mr. Hoover utterly to deprive him of the confidence of the people.

He misrepresented business conditions instead of warning the public until the moment the crash came; they resent it.

He misrepresented and sought to conceal the state of unemployment for two years; they resent it.

He bitterly fought the Wagner measures for the relief of the jobless; they resent it.

He yielded to Joe Grundy, the notorious lobbyist, who had "raised a million dollars" for his election, over the protest of economists and business men on the prohibitive tariff act which has driven away the best customers we ever had; they resent it.

He too transparently stood for the power combines against the people; they resent it.

He opposed all proposals to use federal money to supplement the absolute requirements of local communities for the prevention of the starvation of children until every welfare organization in the land was lined up against him; they resent it.

There is a firm conviction that his administration has an understanding with the debtor nations about the foreign loans, and is deceiving the people now; and they resent it.

This resentment of Mr. Hoover is not made by party tactics; the Democrats control too few of the agencies of publicity for that; they have too little money to spend on that; and this resentment comes from the grass roots—the people themselves who feel they have been betrayed and have not been served. He decided long ago under which flag he would serve—and it is not the flag of the average man.

Marry-Go-Round

What Adam Escaped

A versifier sings as follows, in the Birmingham Age-Herald:

"Whatever troubles Adam missed,
"This must have made him sore—
"When he and Mother Eve fell out,
"He couldn't slam the door."

* * *

Oh yes, Adam missed a lot of things, even though he did have a beautiful garden and "the only woman in the world." But, whatever he may have missed, he ESCAPED infinitely more!

* * *

It is true that he had nowhere to go but home, evenings. But he didn't have to GET there on the dot by the hall clock, or else feel that the Little Woman was working herself up into a lather trying to keep the dinner hot.

He never saw a prize-fight or the Vanities or the Follies and never enjoyed a game of golf. But then, no woman ever dragged him to church, art exhibits or a Eugene O'Neill play, when he wanted to sit at home read the comics, smoke a pipe and go to bed. He could be as lowbrow as he liked.

* * *

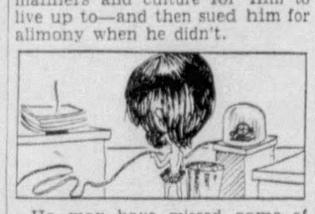
He was never elected to a political office—and never "investigated." He never received a loving cup; but he never received a ticket for speeding or had to make an after-dinner speech.

* * *

Nobody ever gave a dinner in his honor. But on the other hand, nobody ever made him squeeze into a stiff evening coat and sit through eight courses, made up of little dabs of disguised food, when he was longing for a hunk of thick beef and a baked potato.

* * *

It is true that the women in his life were very limited. But no woman could razz him about "making a fool of himself" over other women. And no woman ever set up standards of virtue, manners and culture for him to live up to—and then sued him for alimony when he didn't.



He may have missed some of the finer things of modern life, such as bridge, French cooking and psychoanalysis—but he never had to eat caviar and pretend to like it or to drink cocktails made of radiator alcohol. And nobody ever dragged him through the torments of a wedding-ceremony made him buy a house in the suburbs, or told him that he needed a shave and a hair-cut.

* * *

He never had a coon-skin coat. But on the other hand, he never had to wear a stiff high collar and a dinner coat on a hot August evening.

* * *

His affair with Eve may have been very prosaic. But no woman ever insisted on being loved when he only wanted to play, on being flattered when he wanted to talk about himself and on being married when he only wanted to be LET ALONE.

* * *

Life may have been rather dull. But he had no stock-ticker winding through his dreams, no tire troubles, no charge accounts, no servant girl problem, no canned food and no arguments as to whether the windows should be open or closed, nights.

* * *

O, yes, Adam missed a lot. He was born on a lucky day!

EUROPE DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

VENICE, Oct. 12.—St. Mark's and its well-laundered square likely are the best known spots in Italy—certainly the most photographed. But cathedral radiance to me is the splendor of decay, a scum of rotting phosphorescence, and, for some unexplainable reason, gives me the blues.

St. Mark's architecture is Byzantine in gold mosaics and, to my notion, more attractive in mass than detail. Coming from among the sparrows, I was enthralled by the constant rain of lilac-breasted pigeons. I wonder if the sight of so much spiraling makes others, too, feel a bit airy and bird-like!

St. Mark's pigeons are sacred and have lost all timidity. Their collective curring gives aural impression of an airplane's faraway zing. As though actors in a play, they affect to be violently startled by a sudden clang of bells or the midday cannon by which Venetians set their clocks.

But it is only acting—grand trouping. They whirr away in a grey cloud so beautifully shadowed against the Campanile and, a little bored, return to their feeding. But their gluttony offers a problem. A squirrel with a nut, for instance, when not hungry can bury it against lean days.

The St. Mark's pigeons must swallow everything immediately. The square is paved solid, with no crevices for grain storage. They show effects of this diet, waddling as though they might welcome an orange juice fare. Venetians walk through pigeons. Foreigners pick their way skittishly.

* * *

The square's catch-penny photographers pick up a fair living snapping tourists feeding pigeons. Much of their success hinges on a bit of nature faking. They carry concealed canisters of corn, which they shake noisily before the camera snaps. This demonstration brings extra pigeons to shoulders and feet of the photographee. And the effect often is colossal on the folk back yonder.

* * *

One visiting fireman, a double for Sam Blythe, by the way, was being snapped when the cannon's boom spiraled pigeons in a concerted whirr. "Look!" he cried, "the air is black with white pigeons!" It must be difficult to write a neater description.

* * *

Venice theaters are shrunken versions in gilt and red plush of the Metropolitan Opera—barny, drafty and, may I add, a bit gamey. Buying tickets is a trifle complicated. There are two to purchase, one to get in and another for a seat. The important thing is to make up your mind. I'm one of the venerable dodderers who can listen on my feet; but, to think, I have to sit down and cup my chin in my hand.

* * *

As there are no commuters to catch over-passengered 11:15's, or indeed are there any 11:15's, a performance has no time limit. A half hour after midnight is a reasonable hour for a show to terminate. Sometimes they run on until 1 and, of course, there is a little cafe-gorging before floating (in gondolas, of course) home.

* * *

Among local pasquinades is a boastful: "The sun always shines in Venice!" It didn't this morning—yahn, yahn, yahn! Between 8 and 10, like a sudden breath on a giant mirror, it was so foggy, vapourettes were not running and not a gondola stirred. Departing visitors hired porters to tote baggage and holding hands walked to the stations—twisting through narrow cobbled footways and over miniature bridges, gingerly.

* * *

The Grand Canal is the Venetian Fifth avenue. Or rather its Thames or Seine. It is nearest to a river hereabouts. Other streams are second-rate canals, myriad shabby elbows of a city. But the Grand Canal, the show window, one sees opulence in polychrome. A structure interesting me greatly was the somber Rezzonico, for years home of the poet, Robert Browning. Here he died as a tablet states.

* * *

The jig-saw topography of Venice was best described by Lisle Bell in a postcard from here several years ago: "If Boston was laid out by a cow, Venice was laid out by a worm that didn't know which way to turn."

* * *

The commercially-minded Harry Silvey seems unresponsive to Venetian glamor. I tried to sound him as to his reaction to the St. Mark's pigeons. "The trouble with the pigeon business," he grumped, "is their overhead."

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

There is a worse obliteration than death.

There is something that can wipe you out more surely than disease or accident.

And that is ORDINARINESS.

A carrot can safely be like all other carrots. So can a louse be like all other lice. No one cares whether a carrot or a louse has personality. These lesser forms of life were created to function en masse. They serve their purpose, whatever that may be, quite as well without the distinguishing marks of individuality.

BUT UNLESS A HUMAN BEING HAS INDIVIDUALITY, UNLESS HE HAS DISTINCTIVE THOUGHTS AND DESIRES AND MANNERISMS WHICH SET HIM APART FROM ALL OTHER HUMAN BEINGS, HE ISN'T, IN ANY REAL SENSE, A MAN. HE IS SIMPLY ANOTHER MAMMAL.

For the important thing about each human life, the only sacred thing, is that it is the means of developing the soul and mind.

The ordinary physical functions of our life have no particular significance. We share them with all other animals. Eating and sleeping, working and playing, hating and loving—these functions and occupations are performed by monkeys as well as by men.

But there is that in life which we do not share with the other animals, and that is THE POWER TO MAKE INDIVIDUAL DECISIONS, THE POWER TO DREAM AND TO THINK AND TO PLAN ACCORDING TO A UNIQUE, PERSONAL PATTERN.

Self-expression! That is the important and the sacred thing in human life. And the person who does not discover HIMSELF and express HIMSELF does not really experience life. He might as well be dead.

Strangely enough, this civilization of which we are so proud is actually robbing the human race of that priceless privilege of self-expression.

The pioneer who faced a wilderness without resources, save those supplied by his own hands and brain, had to express himself or die. And because of that, one finds individuality most highly developed in people who have lived the hardest and loneliest lives.

On the other hand, the man who can depend on a machine or an organization to solve his problems soon loses his identity. He lives on the brains of other men. He is served by their ingenuity. He follows their patterns. As a consequence, he speedily ceases to be himself and becomes part of a MASS SELF, with no more real personality than a carrot or a louse.

There is the tragedy of our modern life. Why are masses of human beings blotted out? That is why. They have let themselves be blotted out. They have sold their heritage as individuals for the paltry pottage of comfort and safety.

D. H. Lawrence, who spent his life in trying to discover and express himself, once said, "We have been drenched and deluged and . . . nearly drowned in perpetual floods of ordinariness . . . We detest ordinary people. We are in peril of our lives from them; and in peril of our souls, too, for they would damn us one and all to the ordinary. EVERY INDIVIDUAL SHOULD, BY NATURE, HAVE HIS EXTRAORDINARY POINTS. But nowadays, you may look for them with a microscope, they are so worn-down by the regular machine-friction of our average and mechanical days."

You were born that way.

You were not like any other human creature when you were born. You were not supposed to develop into the copy of any other human creature. You were given the power to be different; and if you had the courage and energy and honesty to be different, your life could be an amazing and thrilling affair.

But it isn't, is it? How often you complain of the dullness and drabness of life! How you resent your ordinary lot and envy others their more colorful careers!

BUT ARE YOU WILLING TO TAKE THE RISKS AND PAY THE PENALTIES OF A COLORFUL CAREER? If you are, life will always be a tremendous adventure, no matter what your circumstance or environment may be.

DARE TO BE EXTRAORDINARY! DARE TO TAKE YOUR STAND AGAINST THE HERD! DARE TO FIGHT AGAINST MEDIOCRITY, TO RESCUE YOURSELF FROM THE RUBBER STAMP OF CONVENTIONALITY; DARE TO DISCOVER AND EXPRESS AND DEVELOP YOUR OWN, INDIVIDUAL PATTERN!

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELIS

A New House

Within a new house promise lies;
Brave promise of a Paradise
Of work and peace and loved one's eyes!

Within a new house, all untried,
New dreams awake and softly glide

Here plans and hopes go marching through.
So much for happy hearts to do

Ah, to be brave and gay again;
To hear once more the summer rain
On bright, new roof and window-pane!

And yet, enough that such glad hours
Can leave in memory matchless dowers
